By Way of Explanation

We know that you were surprised and probably angered when you received no CRIMSON AND WHITE last week.

Let us give you an honest picture of the situation, before you jump at conclusions, or before you listen to the stories now in circulation.

When we presented our budget to the student body a few weeks ago, we stated that we would be able to publish twenty-five issues of the paper, at $24.95 per issue.

A glance at the calendar will show us that there are thirty-four weeks to the Milne year, exclusive of Christmas and Easter vacations. Out of these thirty-four weeks, we dedicate Thanksgiving week, when we have but two or three days of school, mid-year week, when we are all busy with exams, and the week of Washington's birthday, when we do not have a full session, the week of March 3, when we take a much needed vacation at the New York Press Convention and the week of May 11, when we have a one day holiday, and still another week in the spring, when we have but two days of school.

Thus, we have twenty-eight weeks left, and have enough money for but twenty-five issues. There must be weeks when we need to omit an issue, and last week was one of these.

We have tried to solve our problem the only way we saw possible.

What would you have done in our position?

Our Part in Defense

This week is Civilian Defense week. We in the Milne School may help. Here's how—

... or three days of school, mid-year week, when...

Chances are that nine times out of ten the girl who's on time. You hate to dress up and wear a tie, don't you? When

... have a school in 1961 or 'round then. Did anyone hear about the large crowd at the Hallowe'en party at 370 Morris Street? If you missed the new fad of eating hamburgers in hot dog rolls? ...

... the boys' Athletic Council, season tickets ...

... Civil War is being fought six times a day again...

... seems to be the general opinion that it could have been settled but blue-thinkers, too bad Milne doesn't have a school in 1961 or 'round then...

... to further any club. It is entirely up to the students...

... you had seen the Sigma rush, you know it isn't true...

... and have enough money for but twenty-five issues...

... hints the Sigma rush, you know it isn't true...

... is it when boys have to spend money on a dance they...

... seems to have more ways of raising money for...

Pigskin Predictions

by Charles Kosob

Tomorrow, all over the nation, mighty college teams will meet in the battles of the gridirons. Unbeaten, but tied once, Notre Dame is favored to win over the Wildcats of Northwestern. This reporter picks Notre Dame by virtue of its great passing attack. The lines of these two teams are very evenly matched.

Cornell has an able opponent in Dartmouth but should come through in the vicars' row. The task of stopping Joe Martin and Sam Pierce should prove too great for Dartmouth.

Stanford, which is Rose Bowl bound, is expected to keep up its winning and sweep Washington State before this weekend.

In the middle west the national champions, Minnesota, will have but slight opposition in staying on top by defeating Iowa.

A traditional battle between Colgate and Syracuse will be fought this weekend, and it seems to be everyone's question mark team. Here is the case of the Syracuse. The lines of these two teams are very evenly matched.

Cornell has an able opponent in Dartmouth but should come through in the vicars' row. The task of stopping Joe Martin and Sam Pierce should prove too great for Dartmouth.

Seniors Triumph In Intramural Football Season

The seniors played the sophomores in a seven to seven deadlock in football on Tuesday, November 11. The seniors, taking the ball on their first play, cleared the way for Kirk Leanning to run for a touchdown. The seniors could not be stopped.

The senior team won the extra point on a pass to Fred Detwiler. After this, the seniors could not seem to get started again.

With less than two minutes to go, the sophomores, after three unsuccessful attempts, scored on a lateral play to Dutch Ball from about the three yard line. Leonard Jones ran the ball around the end for their extra point. This game makes the seniors the winners of the intra-mural football by virtue of beating the juniors and tying the sophomores. The seniors previously lost to the juniors.

Milne Varsity Attends Play-day at St. Agnes

The freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior girls gym classes each picked a team from their classes, which then played St. Agnes on November 14. The teams played 6-6 in the Milne gym.

The girls will spend the morning playing and competing in basketball games. Each school will play all the other high schools present. While some games are going on, the people that do not have a game scheduled at that time will be able to play volleyball or badminton in the Milne gym.

The players will then eat their lunch in the cafeteria and annex. Following lunch, there will be dancing, and each school will present a skit.

Student Leader—Pres. Wilson Urge Sale of Season Basketball Tickets

Athletic Council Aims for Increased Parent Turnout

"Everyone should do his part in the season ticket campaign, now in progress," stated Alton Wilson, '42, president of Boy's Athletic Council, and captain of the basketball team, in a personal interview yesterday, before practice in Page Hall gym.

"The Council would really like to see every home team really work for the trophy which is now on display in the main floor trophy case," continued Wilson.

Wilson stated that the Council felt that this campaign should be a success and that it will be an incentive to parents and friends' attendance at basketball games.

"When we open on November 28 against Roosevelt High School, we hope to see a great many more parents and students present than ever before," he continued.

One ticket will admit one person only to every home game of the season, and the tickets are not transferable.

The silver cup purchased by the council will be awarded soon after the contest closes on November 27 to the home team having sold the most season tickets.
