MILNE TO PLAY CITY TEAMS
MORE GAMES ON SCHEDULE
VS STRONGER OPPONENTS

All former traditions will be broken this year when the Crimson and White Tide opens Milne’s basketball season. In place of many of our former rivals, local teams have been signed up. Nevertheless, some of the stronger and more well-known of Milne’s opponents will remain on the schedule.

In addition to playing Capital District teams, the Milne Raiders will encounter a larger number of squads. Last year’s schedule proved to be insufficient to judge Milne’s strength.

The schedule has been balanced as to home and away games. Both away encounters last season had very strong support. Thus it was deemed necessary to have more trips.

In days gone by, a schedule such as we shall have this year would have been said to be out of our class. This year Milne is going to fulfill the desires of the rooters. The team is stronger and the opportunity is at hand.

The following is the schedule complete up to date:

SENIOR NEWS

SENIOR HIGH RECEPTION
TONIGHT AT 8:00 O’CLOCK;
CLASSES TO GIVE PLAYS

Tonight, at 8:00 o’clock, in Page Hall, the annual Senior High Reception will be held. Ralph Norvell is the chairman of the program committee. Each class will present a play or some form of entertainment in the auditorium. Following this, dancing will be held in the new gym. The "King’s Men" will play for the dancing which will last until 11:30.

The senior class, with Betty Boyd as chairman, will present "The Man Hunt," a tragedy in one act. The cast includes Cora Randels, Jean Graham, Ralph Norvell and Emory Bauer.

LATIN-AMERICAN ART

On the western side of the hall, at the entrance to the library, is a group of murals painted by Diego Riviera, the famous Mexican artist. These frescoes were brought back from Mexico by Miss Grace Martin, art supervisor, after her trip there this summer.

On the other side is a map of Mexico, surrounded by various post cards depicting different scenes in Mexico. Also, in the latter case, are two paintings done by Miss Martin herself.

Diego Riviera, the artist, has the background of many different nationalities, including Spanish, Italian, Indian, and Hebrew. Most of his murals are painted for propagandist purposes, a fact which has sometimes resulted in difficulties. One of his murals was first placed in Radio City, but because of Communist advertising in it, it was torn down.

STUDENT COUNCIL TO MEET ON FRIDAY AFTERNOONS

The student council voted that the meetings would be held on Friday afternoons in room 126.

Last Friday a discussion was held concerning the reception. It was decided that refreshments would be served.

STUDENT TAX NOTICE

Have you paid your student tax fee yet? If not, you had better look after it immediately, as today is the deadline.

The social life in Milne is dependent upon the student tax for its very existence. Funds from the student tax are carefully budgeted to form the "piece de resistance" of the Crimson and White, junior and senior high parties and receptions, boys’ and girls’ athletic programs. The Dramatics and Glee Clubs are provided for from this source and two hundred dollars is set aside each year for the painting of a mural upon the wall of the library.

Unless each and every student pays his student tax the budget will not balance and the planned social activities will suffer.

After the date of this issue, the Crimson and White will be distributed only to those pupils who have paid for student tax tickets.

BUG DUST

ADDED ATTRACTION:
This is just a warning to the curious. If you see a pair of tortoise-shell rimmed spectacles wandering vaguely down a corridor, don’t stare; it’s only our little Betty Boop.

MURLS:
(Overheard in library)
1st Jr. High: Gee, ain’t those pretty pictures?
2nd Jr. High: Yeah, I guess so, but have you ever seen my stamp collection?

ALL OF YOU STUDENTS, BEING MILNITES, ARE UNDER A VERY UNIQUE SYSTEM OF TEACHING. Instead of seasoned teachers, about whom one hears from upper classes, you have college students with the newest methods of teaching but without experience. Of course, their work is very carefully checked, by excellent supervisors, both in and out of the class rooms. But have you ever stopped to think what each one of your teachers, good or bad, has gone through?

The other day, this editor had the extreme honor and privilege to "go behind the scenes" and visit some college students at their house. In this house were about 15 men from juniors to freshmen, living either two or three in a room. Some of them had just come back from seeing their families and all were talking about Monday’s classes. Since I was from Milne, I was eagerly seized upon by all to tell what Milne thought of the teachers, how we acted, and so on. You know, those students wonder as much about us as we do about them.

However, this editor said that he was going to tell you about the background of college teachers. First, of course, they must graduate from high school with a high enough average to get into the college. They must major in some subject and minor in another. They must take courses in education, methods, psychology, and of course in their major and minor. After they have done all this and have maintained a good enough average to teach, they finally get their chance. However, each day’s lesson has much in back of it. First, research and all the training; next, the lesson plan which must be submitted and accepted, and finally the class itself.

Now that you know something about the teachers under whom you are studying and whom you can "make or break," why not help them? One unruly class can ruin a person’s entire four years of work and surely you do not want to do that. Cooperate with them, help them, and they will do their utmost to help you.

Teacher: Miss Shultes, why are you late for class?
Doris: Oh, I have an excuse.
Teacher: Yes, I’ve seen him!
