TWO EIGHTH GRADEST VISIT PORT OF ALBANY AND MAKE REPORT IN SOCIAL SCIENCE

Arthur Smith and Bob Gilson visited the Port of Albany last week. They made a report on the trip in the eighth grade social science class. At the same time William Perkins made a report on an interview which he had with Mayor Thatcher.

The Mayor spoke of the number of ships which docked at the new port last year and the goal of 100 ships for this coming year. He said also that Albany was a beautiful and educational city. The Mayor thinks that the airport has a good location and will continue to grow. The new bridge will also be a great benefit to the city.

The boys who visited the Port went first to the Texaco and Socony headquarters where the drums of oil are unloaded. They then interviewed Mr. Hamman, the transportation supervisor, who showed them a record of the ships in dock last year. On the wharves there are many different kinds of things from all parts of the world.

The boys visited and inspected the four grain elevators which turn the grain cars upside down automatically emptying out the grain.

Other members of this class have visited the county jail this year.

"OF THE STUDENTS"

Abraham Lincoln once said that the United States government was "for the people, of the people, and by the people". We may change this to fit our own government and say, "for the Students, of the Students, and by the Students."

"Of the students" is the government composed of us and our representatives. The representatives are willing to bring our ideas to their meetings because after all it is a government that is looking out for our interests and in a way it is a protective body.

This government was formed by us, the student body, and we should be proud of it. We should take at least some interest in our student council. We shouldn't get the idea that now that we have elected our representatives, it has just begun. We can't let the representatives of Student Council members work all alone to improve our school. We must stand with them and cooperate and contribute our ideas so that they will know how the students feel about their school and how they can improve it. If the students would give their ideas to their representatives it would bring a greater understanding between the students and the Student Council. And in the end, isn't that what we are striving for? Understanding between the students and the government? R.M.

STRIVE FOR CITIZENSHIP

The home room charts show us that the citizenship and scholarship records are not as good as they should be. We all know that we can do better. At least we can bring up our citizenship records even though we can't make our subject grades higher.

Cooperation in all things is part of our citizenship mark and this is one place where we can easily raise our mark.

We have too many "flunks" in junior high school. Pupils in Junior High school should not flunk two or three subjects; they should not flunk even one. Our work is not so hard but that every person should pass all his subjects. It is your own fault if you fail.

Let us see if we can't get higher marks and have everyone passing every subject. Let us all cooperate and get even higher citizenship marks. Some have done it; why not you? B.B.

question: Should we have more opportunity to obtain service points on the home room charts?

Doris Shultes: I do not think so because if there were more such opportunities on the chart, the students would not be able to spend so much time for each point as they do now and the results would not be so good to each individual.

John Shilling: Yes! If there were a larger variety of opportunities to make points on the home room chart, more people would have a chance to make some points.

Leslie Sipperly: I think the students would take more interest in it and work harder if there were more opportunities for service points.

John Graham: No! The chart is already confusing without adding any more points.

John Hawkins who has been ill with the grippe is expected to return to school on Monday. He is President of the seventh grade home room 124.
