SOCIAL SCIENCE CLASSES HAVE PROGRAM

December 1, the Social Science class gave a radio program presenting stories of pioneers. The following members of the class took part in the program: Anne Caghe, Betty Holmes, Janice Crawford, Alten Wallace, Edith Stevens, Virginia Mason, and Edgar Harding.

CLUB WILL HAVE CHRISTMAS TREES

The 9A Biology Club plans to have a biology Christmas tree. The tree will be decorated with articles pertaining to biology, such as fossils, seed leaves, animals made by Tom Perrin, and projects made by the class. Members of the class will trim another tree in the usual manner.

CLASSES HAVE BASKETBALL GAME

The eighth grade defeated the ninth grade Tuesday in a game of basketball, with a score of 8 to 6.

The eighth grade team includes the following: Virginia Tripp, Frances Seymour, Elizabeth Simmons, Jean McDermott, Virginia Mitchell, Lois Haynor.

The ninth grade team includes: Virginia Kelsoy, Marion Kosch, Mary Ellen Gillett, Norma Kaywch, Marie Foley, Dorothy Harrison.

CLUBS HAVE VARIED ACTIVITIES

Members of the Rod and Gun Club are planning to have a hot dog roast Saturday. The meetings of the club have been held at the Charlton's Farm near the Albany Airport.

Hi-Y has its weekly meeting at two o'clock on Tuesdays. After the brief meeting, the members go to the Young Men's Christian Association to play basketball and swim. They are considering organizing a basketball team. The officers of the club are: President, John Howkins; Vice President, Wilbur Barnes; Secretary, Neil McKay.

LIBRARY EXPLAINS HONOR ROLL

Miss Eaton, Milne High librarian, has reported that an honor roll is kept in connection with a record of the conduct of classes using the library. The scoring is determined as follows: twenty points for entrance to the room; five points for departure; seventy-five for conduct during the period.

"The rules and regulations that I make are determined by the conduct of the group using the room," said Miss Eaton in summing up the situation. She gave as an example the eight o'clock group, who, because of their over ninety average in library conduct are allowed to choose whom they sit by and to speak to anyone without obtaining Miss Eaton's permission.

Miss Eaton says that if the students of the Junior High School want to reach the place where privileges are granted, the students must bring it about themselves. It depends upon every individual to help reach the goal.

HOMEROOM PLANS PLAY

Members of homeroom 128 are practicing a play called "Sauce for the Gossings" to be given in assembly January 18. The homeroom is having a discussion today concerning what can be done about the noise in the back of the auditorium during the Junior High School assemblies.

BASKETBALL BEGINS TONIGHT

The annual basketball game is going to be held tonight with the Junior High School playing Delmar and the Seniors playing Bethlehem High School in the gym at Page Hall.

Homeroom 121 has started again its newspaper, The Star, with William Notall as Editor-in-Chief. The board of editors for the first issue are: Wilbur Barnes, Charles Bayrouth, Triscilla Simpson, Joan Ambler, and Golden Bond.
ENTHUSIASM FOR SCHOOL WORK

If we like a game, book, or play, generally we are enthusiastic about it. When we get excited at a basketball game, we show our enthusiasm by cheering for the team.

Some people seem unenthusiastic about doing their work, but when it comes to actually doing their work, they forget they ever cared about it. Let's show some of the enthusiasm for our work that we show for other things.

QUESTION BOX

Question: Do you think our traffic system on the stairs is succeeding?

Margaret Simon: Yes. Without this simple method of traffic control, we would be constantly in danger of having arguments and jostling on the stairs, also tardiness to classes.

Vita: Er, um, no. There seems to be less congestion and everybody seems to realize that he must obey the rules.

Sister: Did you say you had $1.00 in your budget for Miss Collinson? (mispronounced)

Mother: Yes, I said that.

Sister: But I thought her name was Sherlock.

Have you any Chinese costumes? Bring them to Miss Moore for the Christmas play!

A BOOK TO READ

Do you like to read books? Well, even if you don't, here's one you will like.

Perhaps you like stories about poor girls who wish for nice things and rich girls who long for a little country home where they can sit by the fireside and wear simple frocks.

You'll find a very interesting story of this in Under the Country Skies by Grace Richmond. This book tells the story of two sweet girls who are cousins and how they—but there, you'd better read the book and find out.

Dramatics Club Plans

The Dramatics club is going to present a play called The Trysting Place in assembly. The date has not yet been decided. The characters are as follows:
