LEVENTH GEDERS AT RECEPION TONIGHT

The Junior High School reception will be held in the Recreation Center (old gym) and will be a masquerade. It is requested that anyone who cannot possibly wear a costume will at least wear a mask. The chairman of the party are Mary Westbrooks and Jane Meskett. They are planning several games, a Virginia Reel, and of course there will be socializing. There will be entertainment by some of the students whose names have not yet been divulged.

BOYS' COOKING CLUB MAKES WELSH RAREBIT

Welsh Rarebit was the dish prepared by the Boys' Cooking Club this week. They are planning to learn to cook foods enough so that they can prepare simple meals by themselves. The Boy Scouts in this group expect to get help toward their merit badges from this club.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY

Patricia Gibson
Dick Jackson
Susan Poole
Harriet Richter
Grace Hollier
Roger Harding
Mardelle Chandler
Charlotte Kornit
George Farrington
Walter Moffat

GIRL SCOUTS PLAN COMMUNITY SERVICE

The girl scouts of Troop 20, in Milne, devoted their entire meeting on last Friday to swing things for Community Service, which will be given to St. Margaret's Home or the Brady Nursery Home.

Among the articles made, there were bibs, rompers and oilcloth animals. The girl also cut blocks of material which she later sewed together to make a quilt for the children. As the articles have not yet been finished, the scouts will continue with their work this Fri-

MANY ON HONOR ROLL

The ninth grade has the majority of students on the honor roll this month.

Ninth Grade
Patty Gibson
Hazel Roberts
Wilson Hume
Harriet Richter
Barbara Cooper

Eighth Grade
Charlotte Kornit
Benjamin Douglas
Miriam Freind

Seventh Grade
Jacquelyn Townsend
Evelyn Wilbur
Shirley Baldwin

CIVICS CLASSES HEAR ADDRESSES

Novel homework is being given to the ninth grade social science classes in circles. They listen to talks over the radio given by prominent people in the government. These talks furnish material for discussions during class periods.

BARNYARD FOWLS SEEK EDUCATION

Have you noticed Albany High School's new agriculture department? The neighbors are trying their luck at raising chickens in a fenced-off portion of ground between Milne and Albany High school. This is to the delight of the Milne pupils on the west side of the building.

The chickens have even proved themselves clever and intelligent. Someone put up the fence. However, it is so high that the chickens cannot possibly fly over. Nevertheless, when they see something that they desire outside the enclosure, they slyly look around to see if anyone is watching and then cautiously slip under the fence. If the chickens see anyone coming to chase them they calmly turn and wriggle back where they belong.

The question bothering many dignified students is: how much intelligence will these birds absorb from the schools on either side of them?
STAFF FOR THE JUNIOR WEEKLY

Editors-in-chief
Virginia Gripp
Elizabeth Simmons

Associate Editor
Bernie Swartz
Girl's Sports
Virginia Mitchell
Boys' Sports
Richard Game
Janice Crawford
Student Council
Herbert Marx
Student Council
Franklin Steinhardt
Circulation Manager
Billy Burgess
Composing Staff
Hazel Roberts Patricia Gibson
Reporters
Jean Bush Genevieve Williams Estelle Dilg

GOOD MORNING SHERLOCKS !!!

For our victim this week we have selected a ninth grader. He usually wears a dark blue suit. This person is a very dear friend of Professor Inxay's. The subject of the sketch has dark brown hair. We'll even venture to quoth that he is in homeroom 124.

Last week Miriam Freund was the person described in the character sketch. The first three to discover this are, in order named: Alfred Wheeler, Edith Stephens and Harriet Oshansky.

EVERYBODY'S JOB

Now that we're all in some club the question before us is, "Are we making the most of the opportunities of this club?" To do this we must cooperate fully with our supervisors, officers, and last but not least, our fellow members. Many clubs are planning assembly programs, parties, and the like, as their activities for the year. Is your club "up to par"? If it isn't, remember, the responsibility rests on you.

NAMES—WHENCE COME THEY?

After hearing some of the nicknames used in Milne, it is probable that many are wondering about their origin. The Crimson and White, starting this week, will do its best to help enlighten the student body. Investigation shows the reason. One glance at his last name reveals the reason. If there is another source, the writer would like to be informed.

DON WEA?

The ninth grade biology classes, which hold their daily meetings in room 280, are now becoming jungle dinosaurs.

For the last few weeks, they have been studying the methods which animals use in taking food. Several contributions have been made in order to show these methods.

One boy brought one of those weird prehistoric monsters, the frog. Billy Saunders brought into class a rattlesnake so large that he was almost compelled to take it home. It was nearly three inches long. Billy's "rattler" is now missing, it is believed to be hiding behind the frog's left foot.

And what do you know? "Wild Alfred" Wheeler scared the class half out of its wits by ringing an e. basket containing five ferocious and carnivorous (that's another word to be learned in English) beasts of the cat family, now known as the kitten. Meanwhile "Daring Dick" Andrews took up a collection in class for a salamander.

Even "Gleeful George" Farrington has been making frogs enough to have his pet, "Louise." I believe "Louise" is one of those cute little black animals with a white stripe down her back.

Well, as the perry willows said to the cattails, "All's Well that ends well." Don't forget the reception to-night at seven-thirty. Everyone come in costume—and masked. Come you can recognize your friends.