A SORORITY PRESIDENT SPEAKS

Title: "Why Should an "Outside" Try to Assume the Role of a Sorority Member?"

Speaker: Miss Margaret Johnson

Date: February 25, 1927

The presentation of the next week's events is a preview of the social activities of the college. On the main campus, sorority life is the center of excitement, and the students of the college are eagerly following the events. The sororities are always planning new activities and trying to make the campus life interesting for all students.

A. The Sorority Life at the College:

1. What is the advantage of belonging to a sorority? Can you give an example of how a sorority has helped you?

2. Is it possible to become a member of a sorority without being in the freshman class? How can one become a member of a sorority?

3. What are the different types of sororities available on campus? How do you decide which sorority to join?

B. The Social Life on Campus:

1. What are the different activities that take place on campus? Are there any activities that are exclusive to the sororities?

2. How do the sororities contribute to the social life on campus? Do they organize any events that are open to all students?

C. Conclusion:

The presentation will conclude with a discussion on the future of sorority life on campus and how it may change in the coming years. The students are encouraged to participate and share their thoughts on the topic.

Faculty Women Ask Sororities Not To Limit Benefits To A Few

Typical of the wave of faculty reaction against the sorority policy are the following letters received this week by the News:

You have asked for an expression of opinion concerning the new ruling of Interfraternity council. I would like to have from you a definite idea of the advantages they see in such a ruling. It seems to forecast a "closed shop" for sorority activities which touch only a select few girls at present.

Very truly yours,
Anna Hansen Kaze,
Assistant Professor of Home Economics.

I have your letter of February 15th asking for personal reactions to the Interfraternity decision regarding the organization of new sororities.

I do not know very much about the situation because of the silence of the council, but my very definite reaction is that of a question. If the sorority members are such that they are sincere in their appreciation of the benefit derived from sorority life, why limit the advantages to a few? It is perhaps better suited for indicating the jealous of personal advantages, but it must be remembered that social attitude would be assumed by a democratic group such as our Slate organization of new sororities.

The Interfraternity council should certainly speak in its own defense.

Very truly yours,

Florence E. Winston,
Head of Department.
