Dane Hooper's Skin Bears, 80-74
To Bring Its Win Streak To Three

The Great Dane Bengals can't run victory string to three in a row Tuesday as they face former foil and sabre fencers from the State University's Fencing Foil before the confident attacks of the State's Mike Cohen, with a 4-0 score in little former sabre experience, took on the tough Marist College and other State of New York's strong lineup.

Tuesday night's game was the third in a series of three, with the University of Albany leading 1-2 going into the second half. The Bears were already strong in the first half, with Cohen scoring three goals to lead the Bears in the contest, won by Potsdam, as the Bears took command early in the game.

Mike Cohen (GBS) led the Bears with 14 goals, followed by Marcus (13) and Price (12). The Bears also received strong contributions from other players, including Cunningham, dancer; and Wilhelm, pianist. His most impressive work to date is an original play, "The East Room," which will receive a revival in a new production this year.

COUNCIL GIVEN TUCKER'S REPORT "NO PROGRESS" ON WOMEN'S HOURS

By Alan Banitow

The final Central Council Meeting of the first semester was highlighted by two progress reports given by faculty members of the council. Mr. Tucker, who reported substantial progress by the Women's Committee, however, reported "no progress" on the women's hours proposal by Dr. Clara Tucker. Tucker's lengthy discussion of the methods and procedures used to prove a proposal.

Dr. Tucker reported that her research was unable to find any evidence of the council's decision to ratify a proposal. The council members acknowledged the need for research and stated that the proposal would be reconsidered.

WALT DELIVERS TO THE OLD DORMS TOO!

STILL SOAKING ALUMNI students received their diploma in the Book Department of the BOOKSTORE, and was named in "Who's Who In American Institute of Architects," "New York Times," "New York State Bar Association," and "Prolific Author." The university was established by the plan's committee to discuss and consider the mechanics of the problem: the administration of the rules. She believed that the committee has so many uses that it cannot be ignored. A special appreciation is extended to all members who contributed during this period. The ASP was a continuation of the student's activities in 2017-1968. The ASP will continue to serve on the campus at the University on the campus.

AFSC FOSTER CHILD DRIVE FEATS TO MEETED GOALS

A special goal for 1968 was set at $32,300,000 for the ASP. This goal has been collected by the ASP, which was the goal for 1967. The ASP will report to the students on its progress and be presented to the board.

During vacation time I will be at home with my friends from school and will be available for any help you every need. If you have any questions, you can be reached at 487-2807.

FRANCIS CULTIVE TO SPONSOR FILMS ABOUT EUROPE

"Let's Remember," last known film on travel, art, and music this semester, will be shown on the campus. The program will be directed by Professor Frank, who believes that the leverage is the perfect moment to show the program.

These new programs are due to the interest exhibited by the student body for traveling abroad. Tentative plans for the spring semester are being developed. The French Department will be available to answer any questions.

All students are invited to attend. Attendees will be served.

College Bowl Team Members Agree Practice Beneficial

by Lawrence Epstein

Like places of rural attraction to the outer world, the G.E. College Bowl team arrived in New York early Saturday, a day before the other teams arrived. The team gathered in the Madison Square Garden, where the G.E. College Bowl will be held on Wednesday night.

The team was briefed on the rules of the game and the organization of the show. They were also given instructions on how to present themselves on television.

The team then went to theied hotel, the Warwick Hotel on Third Avenue, and was greeted by the hotel staff. The team had arrived in New York for the first time, and they were excited to be there.

The team's first task was to get ready for the show. They were given haircuts and makeup, and they were dressed in their uniforms.

The team then went to the studio to practice for the show. They were given tips on how to present themselves on television.

The team had been practicing for the show for over a month, and they were ready to go. They were excited to be on television, and they were looking forward to the show.

The team was also given the opportunity to see the show from the audience's perspective. They were able to see the show from the audience's perspective, and they were able to see how the audience was reacting to the show.

The team was pleased with the way they had practiced, and they were looking forward to the show. They were ready to go, and they were excited to be on television.
Campus Center Provides For Student Relaxation

Staff Works 18 Hour Days For Campus Center Opening

With the opening of the new Campus Center this week, staff members have been working 18-hour days to get the center ready in time for the opening. The center will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily.

The main entrance is symmetrical like the rest of the campus and attractively decorated to provide a favorable first glimpse of the Campus Center.

Clark Constructs Wall Relief In Center's Assembly Room

Perhaps one of the most exciting events for the students of the Center will be the completion of the Clark Wall Relief which now occupies a second floor of the Center.

The wall-relief is regarded as a general design, to preserve the environment for the student body, and to provide a neutral location for students to discuss and work in. The wall-relief is a mural that the student body can design and maintain, and it is a project that the student body can take pride in.

Clark, who constructs the mural, is a student of the Center, who has been working on the wall-relief since the beginning of the year. The wall-relief is a mural that the student body can design and maintain, and it is a project that the student body can take pride in.

Last Year's Glamour Finalist To Be Among Year's Judges

Lynne Green, one of the judges in this year's Glamour Magazine contest, will be among the judges for this year's contest. Lynne has had previous experience as a judge for the contest, and she is looking forward to returning to the event.

The contest, which is one of the most important events of the year, is held in order to find the most glamorous student on campus. The contest is open to all students, and it is a competition that is judged by a panel of judges.

Four Soloists Are Featured In Next Faculty Concert

The faculty concert, which is an annual event, will feature four soloists who will perform a variety of classical and contemporary pieces. The concert will be held in the main auditorium of the Center, and it will be open to the public.

The range of music will include a variety of classical and contemporary pieces, and it will be performed by a group of soloists who are known for their talent and skill.

Doriel Chen, Associated Dean of Students, spoke at a special event held in the Center. Chen praised the event, and he said that it was a great opportunity for students to experience music and the arts.

The center will provide a neutral location for students to discuss and work in, and it is a project that the student body can take pride in.

MOVING FINGER: We would like to express our deep appreciation to all those who have taken the time to fill out the form and to add a few comments to the survey on the various aspects of the Central Council's work. We have received your feedback and are incorporating it into our future plans.

We love you!

Who's Confused?

If nothing else can be read as an outstanding test on this campus, surely confusion must stand out as the most notable feature of the Albany State University student body. In fact, there are a number of students who seem to be lost in their own little world.

The administration has informed us that the Committee on Residence, a faculty-student committee, is working on this problem. It seems that the finished product must be obtained by the Albany State students, and the intention of obtaining the approval of the alumni, is to carry out the wishes of the students as a whole if and when it is passed by the original committee.

On further inspection, it seems that this is the correct procedure. In fact, if the Central Council is totally unnecessary, and, if the Committee on Residence is not even needed, then, the process is complicated.

It is not clear whether or not the Central Council is completely sure of the correct procedure and the original committee. It seems that the students must be sure of the powers which are to be exercised by any committees and councils on this campus.

An exhibition of all concerned for all of these various bodies who have to work together to find out exactly where they are and to relate to one another. If, in fact, few of them could find out the power they may actually hold, it would be beyond the scope of any kind of control. Even the power of the University, which is given by the state, is beyond the scope of any kind of control.

The person who is usually aware of these facts is Mr. N. Weil, president of the university. He would be more than happy to tell us, to answer any questions which those interested by writing to him.

If you have any questions, please feel free to ask Mr. N. Weil, president of the university.
ASPeet on Sports
by Don Oppenheim

The undefeated Camfs hold on to the number one spot in the nation, tying for first place with the Great Danes. The Camfs have compiled a 9-0 record and have shown great power and determination. In describing the particular events, the Camfs showed a great deal of experience and enthusiasm, making them a powerful force in the world of collegiate sports. The Camfs were led by senior Larry Marcus, whose performance was exceptional. The team's strength lies in their ability to work together effectively and use their experience to their advantage.

NOTICES

There will be a meeting this Friday, February 7, at 9:00 p.m. in the Great Dane Room. All members of the ASPeet staff are expected to attend. The meeting will be followed by an informal group discussion on the topic of "The Arts in Education." The discussion will be led by Robert Creeley, a renowned poet and professor of literature at the University of California, Berkeley. Creeley is known for his innovative approach to poetry and his ability to engage audiences with his ideas. The meeting will take place in the Great Dane Room and is open to all students.

Captain Constantino Mainstay At State
by Bob Rice

Jim Constantino, a senior at St. John's University, was appointed to the State Athletic Committee by the New York State Athletic Council. This is a significant appointment, as it indicates the recognition of Constantino's contributions to the field of athletics. Constantino has been a key figure in the organization of athletic events and has played an important role in ensuring the fair and equitable treatment of athletes. This appointment is a testament to Constantino's dedication to the sport and his ability to make a positive impact on the lives of student-athletes.

Artistic Leaders Available Today
To Present Topics in Discussion

Several leaders in the field of the arts are scheduled to present topics in discussion at the University of Albany this week. The leaders include John Cage, John Cerne, and Merce Cunningham. Cage is known for his experimental approach to music, while Cerne is known for his innovative approach to painting. Cunningham is known for his innovative approach to dance. The leaders will present their ideas in a variety of formats, including lectures, workshops, and performances. The presentations will take place in the Great Dane Room and are open to all students.
