U.S. OFFERS BIG PAY TO BUSINESSMEN

NYC BONUS TO CONTINUE ANOTHER YEAR

Announcement of the total figures for the Executive Budget of New York City by Budget Director Joseph X. Patterson late last week, didn't carry a very cheerful note for employees of the City.

The Budget requests of the various departments were pruned down by Mayor LaGuardia's financial staff to $700,912,155, a reduction of $170,684.71 in expense for the fiscal year, July 1, 1944-June 30, 1945.

The cost-of-living bonus was carried for another year on the same basis as the six-month increases which were announced last month. However, it was expected that additional savings would be made by the City Council, which will probably make an effort to reduce the tax rate by eliminating military vacancies, despite unfilled positions, and other similar reductions.

One of the first departmental funds to be reduced, its request for more funds was Borough President Edgar Nathan, Jr., of Manhattan. His letter is an indication of what other departments are feeling in pain.

The letter follows:

"The personal service budget of this office has been shown a decrease of $17,736, but it is not principally for two necessary increases not covered under any of which I have $100.00 or $12.50, the cost-of-living bonus to about 600 employees and the mandatory salary increases. This small amount, but in much smaller amounts, is $12.50 for a per annum basis at increased costs, enabling the department to do more work at less cost and avoid the employees standing work at fixed yearly pay."

Another of $11,745.674.79 in expenses for increases which were announced last month.

"In making up the budget for the current year, the necessity for reduced staffing in departments was met in the following manner:

"For the Office of the Commissioner of Public Works, $1,050,000.00 on the basis to approximately 21 per cent of the personnel, and for the $3200 level, for the $4000 level, for the $5000 level, for the $6500 level, for the $7500 level, at least three years, for the $3500 level at least four years, for the $4000 level at least five years, for the $6500 level at least seven years, and for the $7500 level at least eight years of progressively responsible experience of sufficient scope, quality, and difficulty to demonstrate conclusively the ability to perform the duties of the position concerned. The quality of the experience will vary with the grade of the position. Experience of greater responsibility will be required for each of the higher grade positions.

"Applicants must have demonstrated ability to meet and deal satisfactorily with the public.

Responsible experience in personnel administration, purchasing, cost, or job analysis.

Navy’s White Collar Employees ‘Stuck’ With Extra Payday—For Income Tax!

By CHARLES SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON—Memo to Navy white collar workers:

Navy Department has included an extra pay day and extra income on your 1943 earnings statement.

If you rely on the statement, you’ll pay extra tax next March 15. If you reject it, however, you must stand to save a very substantial sum—probably about $28 for the average employee.

That applies only to Navy pay assessor workers—156,000 of them. It doesn’t apply to per diem employees.

The earnings statement is correct—easily as submitted by the Navy.

Behind It All

Here is what happened:

In preparing 1943 earnings statements for per annum employees, Navy included over 1944 pay day—that of January 5 for workers outside Washington. Effect of this was to credit these employees with 24 pay days during the year, whereas, actually, they had only 23.

It was not entirely incorrect. The chances are it was probably right. Tax law dictates that 1943 earnings statements should include only salaries ACTUALLY PAID during 1943.

Very recently, the Navy Department has been informed by the Internal Revenue Service that this interpretation of the law is erroneous, that the credit of 24 days "will be based on 23 pay days and earnings tax period.

On that basis, therefore, the Navy says,

What It Adds Up To

To know the exact total of that value to you, you’ll have to see your Navy personnel tax returns. There’s nothing better to keep you up-to-date on Government job opportunities than the Civil Service Commission’s LEADER.

NYC Bonus Plays Dirty on Those Who Worked Hard, Won Merit Raise

Latest cause of dissatisfaction among New York City employees is the cost-of-living bonus. Generally, the employees feel that the City could have been a bit more generous and granted an increase which would have come closer to meeting the actual needs of the employees.

In addition, certain groups of employees have received "merit" increases while others who were performing work of a similar nature and larger salary were recommended by their department heads for "merit" increases. The increase was distributed among those employees who had received "merit" increases in their offices, which called for a higher position; the permanent raises are subject to pension deductions, while the bonus is not. Thus, the employees who received the bonus are in a better financial position than the one who got a raise.

Male vs. Female
Nine male provisional employees in the NYC Board of Transportation, under the New York Civil Service Commission came to the City Civil Service department. The men who are holding the job are provisional and believe that they were unfairly discriminated against and should be allowed to open the test to men.

SALARY

The Commission ordered an examination of the position in the Board of Transportation, but 25 men who have been members of the Civil Service Commission came to the City Civil Service department.

The Commission denied their request on the grounds that there were no discriminatory practices. The women employees felt that the test be opened to men.

Public Works Employees Give Blood in a Big Way

One of the first New York City agencies to start a campaign for blood donations was the Department of Public Works. And it's still going strong.

On February 15, 1944, the Department of Public Works held its first meeting to organize the blood donation campaign. The campaign included visits to the offices of various labor unions, banks, and other organizations.

The campaign was led by the Department's Communications Manager, who gave a talk on the importance of blood donations. The campaign was also supported by the Department's Public Relations Office, which produced a series of posters and flyers promoting the campaign.

The Department's slogan was "You might have saved his life, and he might have saved yours!" and it encouraged employees to give a little bit of blood.

This figure of 3,000 represents about one-third of the employees of the department who were within the age limits of 21 and 60, and who are physically capable of making blood donations.

The Department wants to give public recognition to every employee who donates blood, and it's going to make it happen. Each employee who donates blood will be recognized in the company newsletter, and in the company's yearbook.

The Department's slogan is "Give a little blood to Save a Life" and it's still going strong.

NYC Health Dept. Seeks 5 Stenotypes

How About You?

It's easy enough to make an appointment for a contribution of plasma to the fighting front. Just call the nearest office of the American Red Cross and tell them you want to give. And the blood bank is still in urgent need of 5 stenotypes, who are on a time-limited basis.

Applicants should see George Osterman, chief clerk, Second District, 135 Worth Street, New York City.

PBA Faces Its Problems Now

Two important controversial questions were discussed at the February PBA meeting.

The first question was: "What shall the PBA do about the financial problem which it is faced with?" It has been so secret that the vast, number of members applying for their cash benefits have resulted in a great drain on the PBA treasury. The situation is aggravated by the lack of new appointments. Counting those on military leave, the PBA has about 2,000 members less than it would have if the department was up to its quota.

Two alternative solutions were proposed at the meeting. One was to increase the monthly dues from one dollar to one dollar and a quarter for first grade policemen. The other proposal was that cash benefits be reduced. Both suggestions were discussed, but no action was taken. The problem was referred to a committee for its study and report at the next meeting.

This financial situation is similar, in some respects, to the one that almost every endorsement organization in the department has had to face. Some of the other organization postponed a realistic survey of its financial problem since they were insolvent. The PBA is facing a situation that at least suggests doubt that the pension problem simple to be faced as one of the most important before PBA.

In the event some adjustment is deemed necessary, the committee will act whether the adjustment will be made by increasing dues or by decreasing cash benefits. It is safe to predict in that event, that the PBA will be split into two camps. The one who will become eligible for retirement within the next few years will have increasing the dues so as to assure them their full cash benefit upon retirement. The problem, however, will probably open an increase in dues and proper cutting the benefits.

The settlement of this dispute will determine the whole future of the PBA. Will it become possible, in the judgment of the organization or will it remain a police's union as a sectional cash benefit?

Working With Pension Group

File the 65th Board of Police Commissioners, Petitioners, vs. Robert Blau, Hearald, Respondent.

The complaint states: Formerly, Petitioner, as a member of the Police Benevolent Association of the City of New York, held himself out to the public as a man of ability and integrity, and has solicited, caused or permitted others to solicit contributions from the public to the Retirement Fund for police officers.

The Board of Police Commissioners, being satisfied that the petition was true, referred the complaint to a committee of PBA delegates and of representatives of the Pension Fund to study the whole pension problem and to recommend a solution. It was for the purpose of obtaining the document approved of this agreement with the Pension Fund and of authorizing necessarily expenditures for the purpose of making the pension survey the Petitioner lavished the subject.

Many of the delegates will determine the whole future of the PBA. Will it become possible, in the judgment of the organization or will it remain a police's union as a sectional cash benefit?

Three Matters Requiring Attention

THERE are three subjects we'd like to discuss this week:

First on the list is the case for merit awards to State employees. The measure, which has already been fully described in The Leader, has had this week a hearing on the floor of the State Assembly by Senator Halpern and Assemblyman Osterman. How important employee incentives are, in practice, is obvious from this quotation in a letter written by a Federal official.

There is no question in our minds that the time and money spent by the State on a suggestion program has been time and money well spent...we receive a surprising number of suggestions of real importance.

I have on hand at the present time one suggestion which will save $22,000 at one Navy Yard alone, and which was discovered as a result of training by an inspector. Briefly stated, savings directly attributable to suggestions submitted under the merit award scheme have come out publicly for the State.

Once Dewey took over the office of Mayor, he created and built up the General Services Department. This is only one example of the tremendous amount of good work accomplished by the Governor's men in the interest of the state.

The Budget Bureau is at least open-minded. There are several bills now before the Legislature. Most likely to pass is the Halpern-Ehrlich bill. No one has raised any objection to it except Mayor LaGuardia, who thought it would involve more money than the State could afford.

Charles Breitel, Counsel to the Governor, is known by the Governor's men as a tough, hard-nosed lawyer, and an excellent investigator. "Get off your back, my boy," he told his staff: "No beating men to death with your words. You listen, and then come out publicly for the State.

If a suggestion is worthy, I order it to be put into effect. We have to change our ways of doing things. We are going to be a more efficient government.

The question is not, can the merit system be forced; the question is, how much can it be forced. The answer is, the merit system must be forced, and the best way to force it is to pay employees as they should be paid.

There is no question in our minds that the time and money spent by the State on a suggestion program has been time and money well spent. We receive a surprising number of suggestions of real importance.

Jim Dewey took over the office of Mayor, he created and built up the General Services Department. This is only one example of the tremendous amount of good work accomplished by the Governor's men in the interest of the state.

On a meeting floor, Milton is at least open-minded. He has allowed two bills to pass which are open-minded, and a strong behind-the-scenes campaign would produce a play on Broadway. "Just a shell." A year later he became governor of New York State.

Those were the "Feld-Hamilton years," and Milton fought bitterly against the Governor's men. He threw his weight behind the Governor's men. He was a tough, hard-nosed lawyer, and an excellent investigator.

The Governor's men are the best men in the State. They have two sons, Jerrold and Milton, who talks and acts like a boy. He has been an unusual election process, a combination of platforms making a modest and a strong behind-the-scenes campaign would produce a play on Broadway. At home he plays the violin.

The 10 employees got their pay. They saved the State $270 at the old Woolworth Company in Manhattan. "I'm trying to get him back to work," said the Governor's men.

The State Employee

By HAROLD J. FISHER
President, The Employees' Union

State Civil Service Employees

In writing "The State Employee" as a regular weekly feature of The Leader, Harold J. Fisher will discuss all and any matters of interest to State Civil Service Employees, on the assumption that this is a complete forum to express his own views. What follows in this week's letter from the editor is a part of the problem of State Government, which he understands from the inside. Today Finance Officer of the State, Mr. Fisher is not a staff member of the Secretary of State's office. For the past 13 years he has been in the employ of the State, first as a Finance Officer of the Department of Mental Hygiene, and now he is the Finance Officer of the State Department of Education.

The LEADER feels that Mr. Fisher's contributions will go far toward enlightening employees, administrators, and legislators.

I HAVE TALKED with many State workers from all parts of the State, and there is unanimity of opinion that the increased cost of living and the increased taxes are forcing them to reduce their standards below the level of helpfulness toward their families and below the honest demands of a people at war.

The Association of State Civil Service Employees, on the basis of such and other pertinent facts, has called directly upon Executive and Legislative leaders to correct the situation. I know that every State employee to know that your Association leaders have asked the Governor and the Legislature to increase the emergency war bonus from 16% to 15% on the first $2,800 and to establish, instead of a 16% increase in the cost of living, a 15% increase in all salaries above $2,800 but not to include that portion of the increase in the cost of living. Mr. Fisher knows the following facts:

- The cost of living has increased over 28%, since Field-Hamilton scales were established, by at least 25%. In other words, the purchasing power of a $3,800 salary has been reduced $840 and the purchasing power of a $4,400 salary has been reduced $1,800 by the increased cost of living. When Field-Hamilton scales were adopted, the maximum of the Field-Hamilton scales are, of course, the maximum of the Feld-Hamilton scales. In a word, the maximum Feld-Hamilton scales are a dollar piece higher than the maximum scales which are purchaseable by the employer by relieving payment of the maximum or basic scales for the State and there is unanimity of opinion that the increased cost of living and the increased taxes are forcing them to reduce their standards below the level of helpfulness toward their families and below the honest demands of a people at war. The Association of State Civil Service Employees, on the basis of such and other pertinent facts, has called directly upon Executive and Legislative leaders to correct the situation.

In other words, the purchasing power of a $3,800 salary has been reduced $840 and the purchasing power of a $4,400 salary has been reduced $1,800 by the increased cost of living. When Field-Hamilton scales were adopted, the maximum of the Field-Hamilton scales are, of course, the maximum of the Feld-Hamilton scales. In a word, the maximum Feld-Hamilton scales are a dollar piece higher than the maximum scales which are purchaseable by the employer by relieving payment of the maximum or basic scales for the State and there is unanimity of opinion that the increased cost of living and the increased taxes are forcing them to reduce their standards below the level of helpfulness toward their families and below the honest demands of a people at war. The Association of State Civil Service Employees, on the basis of such and other pertinent facts, has called directly upon Executive and Legislative leaders to correct the situation.
There comes a time in the life of every reporter that the very task before him seems too big. It was the first time in my career that I experienced that feeling. I had been sent to interview Mrs. Harvey, a Principal Stenographer in the Division of Commerce, in an endeavor to prove how right she was in her contention that the Commissioner had been 11 years in the task and that the job was too big. It was this state of affairs to prove how right she was in her contention that the Commissioner had been 11 years in the task and that the job was too big. It was this state of affairs that brought me into the mighty collection of papers containing faster eggs for the Commissioner, of which a portion is as follows:

"You may recall the difficulties we had in persuading Mrs. Harvey to accept the duties of the temporary stenographic assistant. Dr. Catherwood, formerly Deputy Commerce Commissioner, had written an amicus brief in the case, addressed to the Commissioner, former senior administrative assistant, giving another version. Here's an excerpt from the Meacham letter to the Commissioner.

"...During the period from January, 1945 to February, 1945, in which 1 was overseeing director of administrative assistant, it was made necessary by the Division of Commerce, the establishment of the office, the personnel and the improvement of the office for me to attend school. I attended school on an extensive shopping tour for my schoolmates in each town with Mrs. Harvey. I actually had one bundle of every available newspaper and magazine of the world."

In answer to the contention, contained in good faith in Dr. Catherwood's deposition, believing that the two women had met about 1932, it is clear that the former Principal stenographer would have to attend school during the time I was 12 years old, as per the written records of the Office. It is therefore obvious that the two women had met about 1932 and that Mrs. Harvey had been in the same office since.

"Lovely at the age of 50, Mrs. Harvey then continues, that it illustrates a certain accuracy. As a matter of fact, during the period from January, 1945 to February, 1945, in which I was attending school on an extensive shopping tour for my schoolmates in each town with Mrs. Harvey."

The Girls Say "Boo!"

The report of the Girls, who are said to have assembles the Board of Directors of Commerce, in reply to this charge, is so utterly trivial that it is difficult to understand the meaning of this charge. It is a rather curious comment on the good faith of the testimony given by Mrs. Harvey."

The Commissioner's words, in addition to being working associates, were also good personal friends. But Neufeld's letter had apparently not been what Catherwood used as one of the bases for his deposition. As a matter of fact, during the period from January, 1945 to February, 1945, in which I was attending school on an extensive shopping tour for my schoolmates in each town with Mrs. Harvey."

BATTLE OF THE LETTERS

Last week's LEADER contained excerpts from a letter which Mrs. Harvey had written on March 17, 1944, to the Commissioner, former senior administrative assistant, giving another version.

Municipal, State, and Federal Employees Should Know These Facts:

Here's How the New York State Legislature Works:
The Full Story-As A Young Legislature Might Write It

The 201 members (150 Assemblymen, 51 Senators), representing the voice of democracy at work. New Yorkers like to think of themselves as the most progressive, far-sighted, and modern-minded of all the people in the entire nation.

The comparative record, over the years, indicates this is probably true. But again, every one of us, while the Legislature has a large voice in the entire nation, takes some step negative in character, that diminishes the ver- ticality of our nation's social

Most of the members are lawyers by profession, with a large percentage of the lawyers men. The notion that is lawyers get further, further in the Legislature. But this is not always so. The Assembly majority (42) and minority (21) leaders, for instance, are not lawyers but men named

At the Beginning

Your fresh young legislator, he introduces his bills in the house and files them in the Senate, being double-counted for the purpose of making the Senate larger. If he wishes to find his way around the huge Empire State Building, he might wish to discover that there are over 3000 keyhole offices, and he might find that the Senate is the unique form of a memorandum, and that he will be elected to the Senate or the Assembly, by destiny to right the wrongs, and to discover that his bill need not be passed until the day after tomorrow. Senate, or he elected to the Senate or the Assembly, by destiny to right the wrongs, and to discover that his bill need not be passed until the day after tomorrow.

The Parties

The major political body of the present legislative sessions is the Democratic party, which has the majority in both houses. It is a party of active majority, and a minority party in both houses. The Republicans are the minority party in both houses.

The Legislature's sessions are divided into regular sessions, and special sessions.

Regular Sessions:

A regular session of the Legislature is held in January after the election of the Governor and the Legislature. The session is continued until May 30, unless otherwise provided by law.
SOMETHING FOR THE SERVIGE MAN

For the boy who worked in your office and is now serving in Uncle Sam's uniform.

For your friend or relative in the fighting forces, serving in Uncle Sam's uniform.

Each bill is identified by two numbers—the "Introductory number" and the "Print number." The bill carries these numbers because the legislature has requested that employees retain these weekly listings for future reference.
The other day, Gen. Arnold lifted us right out of our seats cheering.

He said, "One day last month over 1,600 planes were in the air going from the United States overseas to some war theatre."

Of course, that was just one particular day, and a big one. But even so, that's good. In fact, that's more! Then Gen. Arnold went on:

He told how the Army Air Force and the RAF saved our men at Salerno. And how, in doing it, we had to scrape the bottom of the barrel. How we had to use every plane in North Africa—how we had to gather planes from every training center, depot and modification center to do the trick.

He said the Italian invasion "would have been easier with more planes—and could not have been done with less."

He talked about the American raids on Germany. On one, 24 big Fortresses didn't come home. On another, 31. On another, 37. On another, 21. And since he talked, 60 bombers—and their gallant crews—went down in a single raid. No one can attempt to evaluate their loss in dollars or the loss to the enemy in destruction of war materials needed by him to carry on the war. But planes cost dollars to produce—millions of dollars.

Then he pointed again to the obvious fact that the Italian fight "is a small engagement compared to the gigantic expedition which one day, and we hope not too many months hence, will be set against continental Europe."

In short, if a fact was ever made crystal-clear, Gen. Arnold made this one: What we're doing now is good—but still not nearly enough!

And that goes for our building, for our fighting—and for the War Bond buying that makes the building and fighting possible.

Coming soon is a day when, with one mighty effort, we're going to smash into Hitler's Europe and bury Germany under an overwhelming mass of men, equipment—and all the materials that money can buy.

And to do it we've got to boost our War Bond buying. We've got to buy more Bonds and more Bonds and more Bonds right up to the final minute when the Nazi and Jap flags go down into the dust—for good!

Keep on backing the attack!
