WHICH FEDERAL AGENCIES WILL FOLD AFTER THE WAR?

BY CHARLES SULLIVAN

WASHINGTON—How long will the war last? How long will your job with the Government last? These are the two questions which come up most often among officials and government employees.

But what agencies will be dissolved first? Experience from the last war and the present war as a sort of guide for the dissolution pattern after this war, but the picture also presents some very different and complex situations.

 Naturally it is expected that the war agencies will go first, as they did after the last war. But the pattern won’t be the same this time. War Industries Board in World War I, which compared to our War Production Board, disappeared almost immediately after the armistice. Then, a few months later, World War II Food Administration and Foot-Administration were. The old War Trade Board, which did the job of our present Foreign Economic Administration, hung on for a long time with a dwindling personnel.

Longest to hang on was the Railroad Administration, because it had the job of running the roads in every detail. The Alien Property Custodian and the Veterans Administration never died at all. Authorities here say that a job in the Veterans Administration is likely to last longer than in any other war agency.

Another thing to bear in mind is the fact that, in this war Federal personnel reached a peak of almost 3,000,000, while during the last war the Federal employee population reached less than a million. And by June 1923, it was down to half that.

Business Agencies

It’s different now, too, because the Government has taken such a grip on business, and it won’t be a short process letting go. However, it is considered likely that the activities of the following agencies will be curtailed early: WPB, ODY, and agencies performing functions in similar spheres.

However, such things as reconstruction, continuation of some kind of rationing and limited war trade boards.

NEW ASSN. STARTS IN NYC FIRE DEPT

BY MAXWELL LEHMAN

Plenty happening in the NYC Fire Department!

On top of the gag-fest which resulted in the exiling of Fireman John P. Crane and five lieutenants, and charges against an important attorney handling a Fire employee case against the City—

On top of the liquidation of five Fire endowment associations—

On top of the piecemeal introduction of the guillotine two-platoon system—

On top of the verbal sparring which the City Council last week administered to Commissioner Walsh and to Mayor La Guardia, for interfering with the civil rights of firemen—

And on top of the legal battle between the Firemen and the City—

Comes now the story that officers of the department are organizing into a group which, its sponsors say, will be able to achieve objectives not possible under existing organizations.

The fact is that offices of the Fire Department feel no more secure than the men who serve under them.

The proposed new organization will be known as the Uniformed Fire Officers Association. It seeks members among Lieutenants, Captains, and Chief Officers. To avoid any possibility of financial decades now as have hit the Fire endowment groups, the new unit will have no endowment feature whatever. Dues will be nominal.

RATINGS by far and large in the Department of Agriculture Administration have been better than officials have been. There may be many. At 2 Lafayette, Chiefs Hazard and Appelgate have received protests related to the re- leasing of ratings they are making and are attempting to stipulate their ratings are being based on the greenhouse charts "women's advice is," that with the individual objects of a better rating, they could be made to fit into their charts in the grade. "If that is true, we find the scores from the charts that any rating at all was given to the employee. Many post are still getting their "Excellents" workmen have been reassigned, and paternalism is still prevalent in the breaking of the employees. VETERAN GROUPS, LABOR, REFUSE TO BE USED AS AN EXAMPLE

Legion, Other Vet Groups, Say They've Never Objected to Outside Jobs

The veterans who inspired Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's campaign against outside part-time employment by NYC employees appear to be the Little Men Who Weren't There.

Maurice Bromer, N. Y. State Administrator of the American Legion, in a statement to The LEADER this week, strongly denied any attempt to use the Legion in a political campaign against outside employment. "This is our business. We have nothing to do with the politicians. They want to use us, and they need the extra contracts. But on the question of the situation of City employees," Mr. Bromer went on, "we are not going to help them.

Mr. Bromer indicated a thoroughgoing opposition to the outside activities, which he and the Legion feel is completely against the interests of the personnel employed by the city. He said that the Legion's explanation of this position was given to the Mayor's Action Bureau for a planned campaign to get rid of the outside jobs. The bureau, in turn, submitted the explanation to the Mayor's Action Bureau and the Brooklyn borough commissioner, who both said they were very much pleased with the explanation.

American Legion

John R. Dunlap, secretary of the American Legion, announced that his organization would support any movement toward curbing the activities of City employees. "We are aware of the problem, and we are going to do whatever we can to large numbers of NYC employees, who work in outside positions in addition to their regular jobs," Mr. Dunlap's explanation of the problem may be true, but there is no such law as the "dual job" ordinance. The ordinance has been in effect for over a decade, and has been the subject of many court cases. The problem is not new, and the ordinance is not new either. The problem is that of the individual who wants to keep his job and still work outside.

The problem is not new, and the ordinance is not new either. The problem is that of the individual who wants to keep his job and still work outside.

Mayor LaGuardia asked the question of the Congress of Labor in his recent speech: "Are we sending our workers out to do the work of the newspapers and the radio stations?" The answer to his question is no, but the problem is still the same. The problem is that of the individual who wants to keep his job and still work outside.

Sanitation Backs Down on Firing 2-Job Employees

The NYC Department of Sanitation has apparently backed down on the dual job edict which was threatened to be enforced against employees. A ruling of the Supreme Court has apparently been reversed, and the employees have been reinstated.

Justice Eder has now reversed his previous decision, and has decided that the employees have the right to work outside. The employees have been reinstated, and the Sanitation Department has now backed down on the dual job edict.

Mayoral Foot in Mayoral Mouth as Storm Breaks on Outside-Job Ukase

Mayor LaGuardia's quiz committee which peers into the private lives of New York City employees has raised a storm of protest, which finds employees and officials alike agreeing that this time the mayoral foot has been put in the mayoral mouth.

So far, only employees of the Board of Transportation and the Department of Sanitation have been affected by the Mayor's attempt to prevent employees from holding outside jobs.

Be Withdrawn?

The latest report, at press time, was that Mayor LaGuardia was pondering withdrawing the entire questionnaire.

Here is the original questionnaire sheet, which is to be distributed to all employees.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The LEADER has carefully surveyed the various aspects of the NYC dual-job issue, covering the straitlaced press reports, the heat of the debate, the views of City officials and other impartial persons and publications. All who are concerned with the subject, and many persons now preparing additional stories on the issue, are referred to previous issues of The LEADER for background information.

Roundup of Late News on Dual-Job Battlefront

Here's a roundup of what happened on the NYC dual-job front during the past week:

The forecasts in circulation died down, but employees were waiting for the next move. The courts involving Frank Vincent Clay子公司 and Sanitation blacksmith Charles Polkowicz are pending, while workers are studying the law. Meanwhile an investigation of the Markets Department's last week, acted, charged with outside job-holding employees. A departmental order on the outsiders job question led to the decision of a combination of City officials and Municipal workers in favor of the Mayor's dual-job ukase. The courts workers are on the grill. NYC Municipal Code

JURISDICTION AND APPEAL

The NYC Municipal Lien Law requires property owners to file a notice of lien before they can file a mechanic's lien. The notice must be filed with the Clerk of the Municipal Court of the City of New York. The notice of lien must be filed within 10 days of the performance of services or furnishing of materials. The notice of lien must include the name of the property owner, the name of the contractor, the address of the property, and a description of the property. The notice of lien must also include the amount of the lien, the date of the performance of services or furnishing of materials, and the name of the person to whom the lien is filed.

If the property owner fails to file a notice of lien, the contractor or supplier may file a complaint in the Supreme Court of the State of New York, County of New York, to recover the amount of the lien. The contractor or supplier must file the complaint within 30 days of the date of the notice of lien.

If the contractor or supplier is successful in the action, the court shall award judgment for the amount of the lien, plus interest and costs.

In the event that the contractor or supplier is unsuccessful in the action, the court shall award judgment for the property owner, unless the contractor or supplier can establish that the property owner was aware of the lien and had the opportunity to file a notice of lien.

The NYC Municipal Lien Law is a complex statute that requires careful attention to detail. If you have questions about the NYC Municipal Lien Law, you should consult with a licensed attorney who is knowledgeable about New York City law.

What the Hatch Act Does To Federal Employees

The LEADER has opposed the Hatch Act since its introduction, believing that it was only fair that federal employees—just like citizens—be free to support or oppose a political party, to belong to a political organization, or to work actively or passively on behalf of a political party. Even the New York State Public Employees Association, with its membership of over 100,000 employees, is working for the repeal of this act.

The Hatch Act, in its present form, bars federal employees from any of these activities. It is a violation of the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees the right of free speech and association. The Hatch Act, in effect, denies federal employees this right.

LUKE C. SCHWENDENBACH
President, U.S. Civil Service Commission

The Hatch Act was passed in 1939 as a means of preventing federal employees from using their positions to benefit political candidates. However, it has not been effective in achieving its purpose. In fact, it has had the opposite effect, by restricting the freedom of speech and association of federal employees.

The Hatch Act has had a severe impact on the ability of federal employees to participate in the political process. It has also had a negative effect on the morale and productivity of federal employees, as they feel that their right to participate in the political process is being denied.

Government Openings

This is general information which you should know about United States Government employment. (1) Applicants must be citizens of the United States, and their qualifications must be physically capable of performing the duties of the position and must be free of defects which would constitute employment hazards. Handicapped persons who feel their defects would not interfere with their ability to meet the requirements of the position for which they apply. (2) Veterans preference is granted to honorably discharged veterans and to members of the armed services. Veteran status of honorably discharged veterans is also considered. (3) Persons who were honorably discharged from active armed services as a result of a war are also eligible for Federal jobs. (4) If you have been employed for more than six months after the war's end, (5) Persons newly employed in essential occupations must receive additional on- the-job training. (6) If you have a full-time job, a part-time job, or full-time study, or are a full-time student, you must apply for Federal jobs. An offer of a position will be accompanied by instructions advising what classes of jobs may be acceptable to you. (7) If you are unable to continue your employment, you must be free of defects which would constitute employment hazards. (8) No written test is required. Applicants may be required to substitute one or more years of Federal service for the 5 years of Federal service required, which means they will generally be free for the duration of the war and in 3 years of active military service for the duration of the war.

Training Opportunities Open to H.S. Graduates

Very few of this term's high school graduates will be able to plan to enter college. The young men who are physically fit can expect to be taken into the armed forces. Those who are rejected by the induction center, and the girl graduates, will be helping in many ways to bring victory nearer.

But there are many fields where they should take a war job or a training course to prepare themselves for a maximum contribution to the war effort. There are many fields where they can have opportunities. Here are a few of them.

DRAFTING

Drafting persons offer unique opportunities. Two or three months should be sufficient to take their jobs. There is a demand for skilled men among government and private industries, which can be filled in as little as 4 weeks.

BOOKKEEPING

There are many courses in bookkeeping, and a constant demand for trained bookkeepers. Information may be obtained in as little as 4 weeks.

Opportunities are not overcrowded. You may desire to help others, Chiropractic is a field where you can earn a high salary.

We Seek The Loveliest Girl in Civil Service

We never knew there were so many lovely girls working in the public service! But the photos coming in from City, State and Federal departments convince us that civil service has by far the largest percentage of comely employees, his eyes open for screen possibilities. Good black-and-white photos preclude the necessity of a full-length portrait. They will receive valuable and handsome LEADER trophies. The grand prize to the employee who works in New York State. Temporary and provisional employees can participate. The salary offered is only $1,200 a year, but a real animal can have a job with New York City.

The LEADER reserves the right to print any of the photographs. The contest is open to every State, Federal, Municipal, or other civil service employee whose models have appeared on magazine covers all over the world, and whose photos have been sent in. Those absent on Saturday are charged with a day's absence. Closing date will soon be announced in The LEADER. No entries will be accepted after the official close of the contest. Do You Like to Work With Animals? Any man who likes little animals can find a job in New York City. The Department of Health is in the market for a man to take care of the rabbits, guinea pigs and guinea pigs which are used for research. In addition to the public notice which will be accorded to the winners, there will be a chance as professional portraits. Good black-and-white photos preferred.

Which Federal Agencies Are Likely ToFold, Which Will Last, After the War?

A complete and constant process of consolidation will go on as the war needs diminish and more of the functions of the agencies will be absorbed in the permanent departments.

Some agencies will stay, Veterans Administration will grow. Rubber Reserve will disappear in a long time. War Department will dwindle according to progress of the war, but it will continue to be one of the largest agencies in the Government. Navy will cut down, but nowhere near to the small size it was after the last war.

With the present enlightened opinion on international relations, it looks like the debate that struck the Maritime Commission after the last war will fail to appear after this war, because there will be little need of it in the War Shipping Board and Maritime Commission. Obviously the U.S. will take absolute lead in the transportation of war trade and prevent any good feeling to anyone who wants to start something.

The question of what will be needed to keep that fight going to a successful climax? Here's probably what will happen. The war in Europe will end first. After that there will be a reduction of the war activities, no matter how much effort is needed to whip the Japs. A complete and constant process of consolidation will go on as the war needs diminish and more of the functions of the agencies will be absorbed in the permanent departments.

Some agencies will stay, Veterans Administration will grow. Rubber Reserve will disappear in a long time. War Department will dwindle according to progress of the war, but it will continue to be one of the largest agencies in the Government. Navy will cut down, but nowhere near to the small size it was after the last war.

With the present enlightened opinion on international relations, it looks like the debate that struck the Maritime Commission after the last war will fail to appear after this war, because there will be little need of it in the War Shipping Board and Maritime Commission. Obviously the U.S. will take absolute lead in the transportation of war trade and prevent any good feeling to anyone who wants to start something.

Fired Employee, If Reinstated, May Get Back Pay

WASHINGTON.—Civil Service Commission is asking Congress to pass a bill to provide uniform procedures for the suspension of employees suspected of violating laws or regulations.

Present laws have been interpreted so that some employees have been suspended, then restored to duty after being cleared, but could not be paid back salary for the period of suspension.

The proposed legislation provides that in such cases the employee will receive the difference between his earnings at the time of suspension, without changing any of the period of suspension to annual leave. This bill, as drawn up by the Commission and sent to Congress, merely clarifies the pay status of suspended civilian government employees. It does not affect procedures which provide for written presentation of charges and an opportunity to answer.

Noon-Hour Movies Presented for NYC Employees

Free noon-hour movies are promised for New York City employees on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at the auditorium of the World Building.

On the June schedule are: "Air Power Report," a 44 minute film of the New York activities around the world; and a short, asking for volunteers to join the war supporting agencies. Employees can arrange for admission tickets through their department. The World Building auditorium is at 135 West 35th Street.
