New Vacation Rules Issued for U. S. Jobs

New rules have been made necessary in regard to overtime and vacations on account of the enactment of the Federal Employees Pay Act of 1945. The United States Civil Service Commission has issued Office Memorandum No. 50, to all commission employees, covering these topics and others, under the Pay Law. The memorandum also serves as a guide to other Federal departments, agencies and establishments.

On the basis of the memorandum, the two questions that have bothered Federal employees the most can be answered: 1 — How does Saturday figure in the annual leave computation? 2 — If you are absent any day of the week, does your pay for that day not count as annual leave? Answers Given

The answers derived from the memorandum are:

1. If the employee does not work on Saturday he does not count as annual leave. If your office allows you, but can

In Summer No Hide

This is the man walking around on Centre Street in this hot week in a suit of heavy underwear on his arm, don't jump to conclusions that he's a meat inspector for the NYC Department of Markets. To combat the black market, a group of Inspectors is taking special courses in meat grading underwear necessary.

After conferences with the Budget Bureau, Civil Service Commission took this action.

What It Means

Recently the municipal Civil Service Commission, in a joint meeting with the Board of Estimate, adopted a proposal for the admission to the civil service of non-residents, which has been under consideration for some time.

The proposal to admit non-New Yorkers to the examination is expected to this approval last month. However, the attempt would fail.

The Municipal Civil Service Commission began work on an open-competitive examination. Experience requirements called for a Division of Water Supply Control, to protect the purity of the municipal water supply. This post, Senior Civil Engineer, was granted preference, for Fireman, Fire Department.

Non-resident Opposed for $7,500 Job

A problem in the NYC Parks Department for many years approached solution last week when the Municipal Civil Service Commission voted to put the 265 stewards and pruners in the department in the Competitive Class.

These employees are in the Labor Class at the salary of $740 a year, with no opportunities for advancement or resignation. They were hired after passing a civil service qualifying examination. Order of filing the application was an important feature of the examination.

Many of the employees, and many of the organization, particularly the State, County and Municipal boards of America, asking to have these men reclassified to regular competitive employees for many years.

After conferences with the Budget Bureau, Civil Service Commission took this action.

The regular meeting opened at 3 p.m., when the executive committee assembled, and it continued until late in the evening.

The regular meeting opened at 8 p.m., and featured an address by Paul M. Brennan, medical examiner of the Municipal Civil Service Commission, who discussed the operations of the merit system in civil service.

Interest Appreciated

Members of the Executive Board of the organization expressed gratification at the tremendous interest, in the organization shown by many of the officers who attended the meeting during the course of the day.

It was the first meeting held since Fire Commissioner Walsh announced his resignation from the organization.

Following the business of the evening, refreshments were served and talented members of the association entertained the meeting.

52 Receive Diplomas in Househo1d Training

Welfare Commissioner Leonard V. Harrison presented diplomas to 52 women graduates of the Department of Welfare's Household Training Project at graduation exercises held recently in the auditorium of the Board of Estimate.

The class was the sixth graduated from the project in October, 1943. All graduates are from the rolls of the department.

Demonstrations Given

The graduation was followed by demonstration classes in the various subjects taught, which included house and cooking and laundering.

A special picnic at the grounds consisted of a room furnished with inexpensive rents.

Health Inspector Promotion Only One Held Up

The 29 Inspectors in the NYC Health Department who took a promotion examination for Health Inspector, Grade 4, last September are still waiting for the list to be promulgated officially. Till that detail is completed no promotions can be made from the list. Meanwhile, the department has submitted all other available lists to the Board for possible 1945 promotions, effective July 1 last.

The examination was marked and the promotion list published by the Commission in April, 1949, but never promulgated.

Skeleton Staff Is Rule

For Saturdays, but
Early, Closing Varies

Some New York City employees get off early during the summer months. Others work the regular work week. There is no uniformity in the City departments. Practically all departments work with skeleton staff during the summer months.

Public Works and Marine and Airports Department works with skeleton-staff work weeks with some arrivals on some Saturdays, depending on the departmental requirements. In many instances, some people are put off three days at a time. The Marine Department's watchmen, for example, if the weather is good and the Department is not overcrowded, normally operates on a 6 a.m. to 12 a.m. schedule, which makes it necessary to arrange the watchmen's time. In the Marine Department, the employees get off at 4 p.m. when work is done.

In July and August, the Parks Department arrives at 9 a.m. and leaves the office at 4 p.m., an hour later than normal. In the Parks Department, there are many clerks who work after lunch, and an hour for lunch is set aside. The staff is dismissed at 5 p.m. on Saturdays, except the clerks who work extra for lunch. The clerks are dismissed at 4 p.m. and return at 8 a.m. on Monday. Other mondays, Bully and Judith are Correction Department office workers who get off at 4, an hour earlier than usual. Welfare has recently reduced their work week to 5:59 for the first time since the beginning of the war.

The Health Department works during the summer months, but a skeleton staff on Saturdays works the regular work hours for the whole work week. Hospitals' Police Department works the same as the other departments, with a skeleton staff on Saturdays.

Employed Employees

Employees who work during the summer months have a reduced working schedule. Many employees get off early, and some work for only a few hours. This makes it necessary to arrange their work schedules to accommodate the reduced hours.

One of the most notable problems is the issue of the work week. Some employees work only a few hours, while others work a full day. This creates a problem for the management, as they have to arrange the work schedule to accommodate the different hours.

Another significant issue is the uniformity of the work week. Some employees work on Saturday, while others work on Sunday. This makes it difficult to arrange the work schedule for the whole week.

In conclusion, the summer work week presents unique challenges for the management of New York City employees. The reduced work hours and the different work schedules create a problem for the management, as they have to arrange the work schedule to accommodate the different hours.

Hospital War Bond For Exceeded

Devoting many off-duty hours to the sale of War Bonds, employees and staff members of the New York City hospitals are representative of 24 hospitals and have exceeded the weekly goal of$300,000, which was set by the municipal hospitals for the fiscal year 1944-45. This job had to be done in one smooth, and called for long over-time work on the part of employees. Even on the hottest days of the week, when other Commission employees went home early, the Pegorinos went on to work around the clock and ten at night, but the job was finally completed.

The 20 regular employees and 19 temporary employees were headed by John J. Curran, LEADER Merit Man, fith grade clerk.
Two Sides to a Rule
Of Civil Service Law

The rule of law by which a court will not substitute its judgment for that of the officials administering civil service is well settled, and is based on the separation of the judiciary and the executive.

The substitution question came up again recently in the Feeney case in Westchester County. Thomas J. Brennan, the County Clerk, refused to hold a promotion examination, and the Supreme Court held that it was not practicable. At least, that is the effect of the decision in the case of Feeney v. Brennan.

The decision in the Feeney case is in line with a wide range of civil litigation. In general, civil service law in New York is based on the separation of powers doctrine. The State Civil Service Commission is the administrative body charged with determining promotions and other personnel matters, and its decisions are final unless appealed to the courts. The courts will not substitute their judgment for the administrative agency's decision.

The Feeney case is a good example of this principle. Brennan, the County Clerk, refused to hold a promotion examination because he thought that it would be too expensive. The Supreme Court held that this was a reasonable decision, and it is final unless appealed to the courts. This principle is well settled in New York law and is based on the separation of powers doctrine.

An important point emerges from the recent enactment of the Civil Service Law. Under the new law, the supreme court determination is final unless reversed on appeal to the Appellate Division of the Third Department. This means that the courts will not substitute their judgment for the administrative agency's decision, and that the administrative agency's decision is final unless appealed to the courts.

Therefore, in the Feeney case, the Supreme Court held that it was not practicable to hold a promotion examination. At least, that is the effect of the decision in the case of Feeney v. Brennan. This principle is well settled in New York law and is based on the separation of powers doctrine.
State Employees Want to Know:

STATE employees are writing to the Association of State Civil Service Employees to score in the months ahead on the many important issues on which they are informed. A recent letter asked for a statement on the problems which are being discussed by many more persons than the writer of the letter. I shall state the questions and answer them, as I see the position to help the Civil Service.

"What is the difference between the duties and powers of the Civil Service Commission and the Personnel Council?"

The personnel of the State Civil Service Commission is an advisory agency as the State Civil Service Commission is a personnel agency. The Personnel Council is an advisory agency to the Civil Service Commission, the Budget Division, and the agencies in the several divisions.

Advisory and Educational

The Personnel Council's functions are mainly advisory and educational in nature. The function of the personnel of state employees in agencies of state powers is to aid them in processing of vital matters on which the Personnel Council would have to meet the needs that they were intended, and such shortcomings in state powers to which the Personnel Council may well set itself as certainly as any other body, so as to develop a general revision of the Civil Service Commission and then to consider in a new effort to iron out the peculiarities of the personnel administration, as the Civil Service Commission and the Personnel Council in turn.

Not for Classification or Standardization Appeals

The Personnel Council is not an agency of appeal as to classification and it makes no appeal. The powers and functions of those agencies having jurisdiction over such matters are established in the general revision of the Civil Service Commission and may not in any event be included in the definition of the Governor, the Legislature, the Civil Service Commission, and in certain particular laws.

For instance, it will prove false

It is only by obliterating the agency that it will be able to achieve the end of state employees. It is only by its record for developing practical improvements in the performance of its duties that its usefulness as a creative agency can be attained. The personnel of the Civil Service Commission will operate completely in the open, with every public office kept clearly visible. If it hesitates to deal with the existing system, it will fail. It must face the facts and work with the power of its standards and skills. It must set itself under the code of no regard for any errors which it may make.

The Pay Act may be considered under four main topics: 1. Coverage and exclusion; 2. Basic compensation; 3. Extra pay, and 4. Within-grade advancement. Last week coverage and exclusion were discussed.

II. Basic Compensation

That the increases in basic compensation apply almost exclusively to officers and employees in the executive branch who occupy positions subject to the Classification Act of 1923, as amended, is emphasized by the fact that the increases are included in the P.E.P. Act of 1945, the author discussed last week. The pay rates in the act and were previously enumerated.

Each of the basic rates of compensation set forth in section 15 of the Classification Act is “increased by 20 per cent of that part thereof which is not in excess of $1,200 per annum, plus 10 per cent of that part thereof which is in excess of $1,200 per annum and not in excess of $4,600 per annum, plus 5 per cent of that part thereof which is in excess of $4,600 per annum.”

Basic Pay Raise Formula

In other words, basic compensation up to and including $1,200 is raised 20 per cent, any part of basic pay more than $1,200 up to and including $4,600 is increased 10 per cent, and that part above $4,600 is increased 5 per cent. Such augmented rates shall be considered the regular basic rates of compensation.

There is no tabulation of the pay increases of the increased basic compensation which was added to increments on the following grades.
