Exam Lag Under NYC Board Fire

By J. H. BERNARD

Orders to break the bottleneck in the Examining Division of the NYC Civil Service Commission have been issued by the Commission.

Samuel R. Galston, when the new Civil Service Administration was abolished and its functions transferred to the Board, was appointed Director of Examinations for the Civil Service Commission. He has now been appointed Director of the Examining Division.

In full charge of the administration of the Board is Frank A. Schaefer, who was then chosen to be Acting Director by the Board.

Press Agent Test Coming

Special to The LEADER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3—The U. S. Civil Service Commission will announce next month the date of an examination for Public Aides positions. This was learned by The LEADER from reliable sources at the Commission.

The positions are expected to fall in the higher grades, probably CAP-7 through CAP-11. They will have fairly high requirements.

A written test will be held by the Commission.

A college degree and at least three years of newspaper experience may be required.

There are many permanent openings for those positions now being filled by war service indebtedness appointees. Incumbents and ex-servicemen who worked on army publications during the war are expected to join in the competition.

Asst. Foreman Test Open Friday

Almost 8,000 employees of the NYC Department of Sanitation are eligible to apply for the promotion examination to Assistant Foreman. Applications will be issued and filled-in blanks received at the office of the NYC Civil Service Commission from Thursday, September 16, at 9 a.m., to 4 p.m. daily, and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, Friday.

EMPLOYEE GROUPS CONFER WITH MOORE ON PENSION GAINS

Seven-Point Plan Is Presented by Representatives of State Assn.

By F. J. CLAYTON

ALBANY, Sept. 3—Dr. Frank J. Moore, President of the State Civil Service Employees Association, appeared at a meeting of employee groups in the State Hospital to urge the State Association, Mr. Paterno pointed out, to adopt a seven-point plan for the retirement system.

Mr. Moore presented the seven-point plan, which is as follows:

1. A minimum pension of at least $300 a month for retired employees who have served 10 years, with $100 added for each additional year of service after 60 years.

2. The doubling of the death benefit.

3. More liberalization of the retirement system, which was not in line with present social security provisions.

4. A retirement system that would cover all State employees, regardless of age or disability. Every employee would be eligible for retirement.

5. The elimination of the waiting period of 10 years before a retiree could receive his pension.

6. The establishment of a pension committee, which would be representative of all State employees, to discuss pension problems and present suggestions for the improvement of the retirement system.

7. That the full plan be presented to the next Legislature for approval.

Mr. Moore also pointed out that the seven-point plan was a permanent one and that it would bring about a whole new system of pension administration.

In conclusion, Mr. Moore urged the State Association to adopt the seven-point plan and to present it to the next Legislature for approval.

THE STATE AS EMPLOYER

GOVERNMENT is a very large employer of labor and professional men. During war everyone either directly or indirectly works for the government. During peace, government is the nation's largest single employer. The tens of millions of men and women employed under government control have become the sixth man or seventh, and in some instances the tenth man. The occupation of veteran in public service is already evident.

City, state or nation. Every boy and girl should be interested in the service of county, village, town or village, of which you are a part, and be interested in the public service as a career offering great possibilities of useful service, but offering no hope of large financial reward. The interest of many veterans in public service is already evident.

Public service is a way of earning a living. There are many parts of the United States where there is a depression in industry. The tenth man has become the sixth man or seventh, that veterans in public service is already evident.

The Civil Service system of America is slowly following its lead. The Civil Service commission in the Department of Labor and Industry is following a similar policy.

The employees of the Long Island Public Service Commission have gone on strike. The union has been granted a new contract. This is a very important step in the direction of making public service a more desirable occupation for young people.

The success or failure of a business depends even more upon the character and quality of its employees. Uniform rules and equal treatment of all employees is the key to the art of working with human beings. Summer Schedule Extention Asked
On the Basis of Full Fiscal Year

Mary Ann Schaefer, President

Various departments of the State government have been experimenting with on-the-job training programs for some time, and some of these experiments have had to be curtailed because of personnel shortages.

Recently, President Mary Ann Schaefer announced that the schedule for summer on-the-job training would be extended in order to provide more opportunities for trainees.

The extension is due to the continued labor shortage which has affected many State agencies.

The new schedule will run from June 1 to July 31, with a possible extension through August if necessary.

The extension will allow more trainees to participate in the program, which will provide valuable experience and training for young people.

The program is designed to prepare participants for future employment in various fields, including clerical work, engineering, and administration.

The extension is expected to benefit both the State government and the trainees, as it will provide more opportunities for career development and skill building.

The State Civil Service Commission, which oversees the program, will continue to monitor the progress of the trainees and make adjustments as necessary.
NC Civil Service Administration Improves

The Municipal Civil Service Commission, under its new leadership, shows encouraging signs of giving NC a much better administration of the recruitment program than it has known in four years. Something new has been added, a real appreciation of what is important, and a determination to fill the primary recruitment needs of the city despite all difficulties, and those are many. Action is to replace excuses.

The process of establishing much-needed definite policies was first made easy by the elimination of special military examinations, second place to promotion policies, was begun with a resolution giving first call to those military men who passed no such examination—must be extinguisher for Health Inspector, Grade 3, Health Department.

EXAMINING DIVISION OF NYC COMMISSION BEING REORGANIZED

New Set-up to Take Effect Sept. 23—Monthly Report to Be Issued to Public, Including Progress of Tests

(Continued from Page 1) to the extent that he has made a change of all personnel administrations, including that of the Examinations Division.

The plan proposed by Mr. Ousley is not completely satisfactory to the Commissioners. When he returns from his vacation on September 23, he will find an approved plan in operation in his Division.

Ferdinand Q. Morton is the new President of the Commission; and Joseph A. McNamara is a new Commissioner. Mr. Morton was a Commissioner 25 years. The other Commission member is Mrs. Esther Bromley, who has been serving on the Commission for the past 15 years. Mr. McNamara is the longest serving Commissioner. The two others are33-year veterans. The majority has shown an indifference to Mr. Bromley's opinion, which is administration-wise, the most intelligent.

Commissioner McNamara has obtained delayed examinations for which a re-recruitment exists. Compulsory work was directed by him to an approved schedule.

SUGGESTED PROPOSALS

The proposed examination for Health Inspector, to fill permanently the job of promoting public health, engaged in the restaurant and food service, is not yet on the Commission agenda, although suggested by Supervisor District 1, Joseph J. Byrnes. Mr. Byrnes expects to reach a new high in the next season. With the re-election of the veterans, the budget for the future seasons will be increased to a great extent, with the raising of the general public.

The progress report of examinations is expected to serve as a spur to greater progress. It is reported that some examinations have been conducted in a successful manner.

The proposed examination for Health Inspector, to fill permanently the job of promoting public health, engaged in the restaurant and food service, is not yet on the Commission agenda, although suggested by Supervisor District 1, Joseph J. Byrnes. Mr. Byrnes expects to reach a new high in the next season. With the re-election of the veterans, the budget for the future seasons will be increased to a great extent, with the raising of the general public.

The progress report of examinations is expected to serve as a spur to greater progress. It is reported that some examinations have been conducted in a successful manner.

Incinerator Design and Operation

By JOSEPH C. ZINCKELE
Chief Engineer, NYC Department of Sanitation

Before the design of an incinerator, it is necessary to determine the character of the material to be disposed of. Other considerations which tax the resources of the designer are the necessary plant operation, the type of furnace and chimney and from the dumping pits; the location of new plants or in their neighborhood.

The plant is a point of final disposal of garbage and rubbish. Since toxic fumes or gases must be prevented, the structure is to be designed to prevent them. The plant operates to provide the economical layout. After a site has been selected these studies represent the combined efforts of the Chief Engineer, NYC Department of Sanitation, Mr. Craig, Mr. Janowsky, and from the dumping pits; the location of new plants or in their neighborhood.

1. - The progress of trucks to and from the dumping point.

2. - Selection of the most suitable type of furnace and chimney that will meet the required conditions.

3. - Ash and cinder removal.

4. - Cost effective system of ventilation.

5. - Natural and artificial lighting.

6. - Means for guarding the safety of workers.

An Eye to Beauty

The architectural and mechanical design of an incinerator is very important, but it is only as good as its name says. Formerly, it was considered necessary to build incinerators beyond the postal area of our cities. This is no longer the case. Forestall complaints which today are common by restricting incineration to areas where the smoke is utilized. The latest type of furnace is the circular one which fits into the circular grate below. The last of this group is the Flushing Incinerator plant represents this type of furnace.

The design of an incinerator plant is somewhat as the name implies. Material is charged at the center of the furnace, which is allowed to fall on the circular grate below. This is not as used per month.

The design of furnaces and chimneys is to satisfy the requirements of the type of refractory furnace. They are built with a life expectancy of five or six years, with the sole purpose of providing for the generation of heat. The last of this group is the Flushing Incinerator plant represents this type of furnace.

Rigid Investigation Is Made Of NYC Police and Fire Eligibles

By ARTHUR LIBERS

A rigid investigation of Patrolman and Firemen's eligibles is now being conducted by the NYC Civil Service Commission.

The Patrolman list was recently published but has not yet been proclaimed officially made ready for appointment. The list is held in safe keeping, while investigation of the eligibles proceeds.

A group of appointments from the old list, made a few days ago, have so far been held in abeyance, while the new eligibles now ready for appointments)

June 15, thus making a total of passed are now receiving their notification cards to appear for appointments as follows:

June 15, thus making a total of 2,564 candidates for the various positions at Patrolman and Fireman. The application form contains questions concerning the applicant and his personal and professional background. Failure to answer any part of the question will be cause for disqualification.

The investigation is a most important part of the examination process and candidates are required to fill out the civil service commissioner's application form before being sworn in to the NYC Civil Service. The application form is designed to determine the applicant's eligibility for appointment.

The Bureau cooperates with accredited public agencies, and the investigation is made from its confidential files. Throughout the process, civil service personnel at the Bureau of Investigation, Army and Navy Intelligence, and the Security Department, among others, are in charge of the investigation.

In addition, the candidates must submit all documents, such as, references, medical records, and character references. The investigation is a thorough process which candidates for such a position must undergo. The original occupational history. But it isn't"..."
