Diners Cheer Hanley's Plea for Employee Gains

by NAOMI SCOTT

"I look forward to the day when every New York State civil service worker, including me, can go to work knowing that I could be in private industry, said Lieut. Governor Joe R. Hanley to Syracuse and Onondaga County listeners at the 40th anniversary of the New York State Civil Service Employees Association chapters of Syracuse and Onondaga County.

The event was held at the Onondaga Hotel, Syracuse.

"In fact, I would like to say that I believe we should make up as much as $6,000 a year," said Hanley, who went on to discuss the work of the Board of Psychiatry and Neurology, which he described as the most important agency in the state.

Hanley also spoke about the need for better working conditions for employees, and he urged them to fight for their rights.

"The merit system has proven itself," he said.

Mayor Thomas J. Curran of Syracuse congratulated the Association on its anniversary and informed employees of the city's government that their jobs are secure.

"As long as you are filling a job here, you will be removed for political reasons by any Mayor or any other official," he said.

Tribute from Dr. Talman

"I commend you," said Dr. Talman, former mayor of Syracuse, to the employees of Onondaga County who were the first to join the Association in 1928. He also noted the work of the Association and the Department of Psychiatry and Neurology.

"I, too, must remember this. I'm only the Governor or the Budget Director. Lieutenant Governor. I can't do it," he said, "but that much I can and will do."

Lieutenant Governor Joe R. Hanley would earn as much as $6,000 a year, he said, if he were in private industry, "and I could in private industry," he said.

Among the guests were chapter presidents of the Association, Dr. Frank Carroll, Syracuse; Dr. Fred J. Konrad, Onondaga; Dr. James W. Mitchell, President of Syracuse; Dr. Melba Binn, Rochester; and Dr. Henry A. Cohen, chairman of the Association, to introduce the speaker.

Lockport Teachers Seek Better Pay

LOCKPORT, May 29—Civil service employees of the Lockport post office, after a 27-hour strike, have settled their wage adjustment with the federal government. The settlement covers the $400 cost-of-living bonus paid to employees during the past two years, it was announced at the recent meeting of the Lockport Post Office Joint Committee. The agreement was ratified by the Lockport Post Office Joint Committee and signed by the Assistant Postmaster General, Anthony J. DeMarco.

Dennis Begins Duties

ALBANY, May 29—Dennis McNamee, P. K. at Sing Sing, as of May 15, is the new Public Service Employees Association's New York State Department of Labor and Industries. He has been a depository for several years and was chosen for the job by the PSE Association's national executive council. He will be responsible for the association's representation in the Department of Labor and Industries.

He has served as a delegate to the National Convention of the PSE Association and as a member of the New York State Council of the PSE Association. He is a member of the American Labor Union and the American Federation of Labor.

The Public Employee

GO SLOW? STOP! LOOK! & LISTEN!
The Chief Danger to Efficient Government is Pro- longed and Continued Delay in Reaching Decisions and Taking Action. The Mills of God Grind Slowly but the Mills of Government Sometimes Grind Very Slowly. The Mills of the Great Government Slowdowns are Inherited. Every administrator worthy of his job desires to make a record for efficiency. He is apt to find that his every action is impeded by red tape and reporting requirements, which, unless handled deftly, sells him in his work. His associates probably tell him what he needs is more forms, more machine processes, more detailed methods, more complex procedures and more elaborate office techniques of every sort. He then suggests various expedients rather than of results and the slowdowns tend to become vested and inevitable.

Happy Hunting Ground

No wonder the government hunting ground is for the efficiency expert and the manufacturer of mechanical machines and robots. In general, these experts are not limited to practical ideas that will streamline and simplify processes and bring prompt results. They can play with the existing machinery and develop new control mechanisms and make everything even more elaborate. They can be ignorant of the many things that are done to attain the desired efficiency. They may be the first to start an investigation of a visit of government. The normal work of that unit is thereby tacitly retarded or disrupted. A reorganization is set up. The new organization is bolstered by a set of new gadgets and fresh procedures, which are developed by a group of experts and the old organization enjoyed.

One can well look with wonder and admiration at the thousands of the small improvements in the law under which some of the large departments require for the transaction of their business. Solomons inhumanly good. So far as standards, to regulate and to record relatively simple ways of doing the obvious things.

Over-Elaboration

Of course there is a reason for the over-elaboration of detail in the public business of the State and its subdivisions. The administration and all the departments are more or less under constant suspicion, and they must have a complete record and a reason for everything they do or any one of their employees does. The government, in other words, is a house of insecurity. The result is that the most essential things get delayed. The government is not intended to be always above and beyond any suspicion, could be devoted to making a record for efficiency. He is apt to find that his every action is impeded by red tape and reporting requirements, which, unless handled deftly, sells him in his work. His associates probably tell him what he needs is more forms, more machine processes, more detailed methods, more complex procedures and more elaborate office techniques of every sort. He then suggests various expedients rather than of results and the slowdowns tend to become vested and inevitable.

The Answer

In my opinion the answer to this problem is not a Hooverian commission but a facilitating and understanding of appreciation of government services by the people of the State. If we can arrive at a point where the common assumption is that a public employee is an honest, patriotic citizen, anxious to do a good job, that very atmosphere of confidence and trust would make possible a new kind and quality of service by the public employees for the benefit of the State. The time and the energy lost in the attempt to be always above and beyond any suspicion, could be devoted to making New York State and local government better.

A creeping Wage-Cut?

A T week's end, it was reported from Albany, without official confirmation, that another "wild pitch" downward grading was being prepared by the State Classification and Compensation Division.

In the 33 years, the downward salary adjustment are to be the physical therapists, if the reports are correct ... and we hope they aren't. The work of the therapists in New York State institutions has won nation-wide renown. At West Highland, for example, where the largest group of physical therapists work, some excellent results are being achieved in the alleviation of the terrible effects of polio. It is unsavory that the employees doing this work should feel the sudden chill of cut salaries. No one had appealed to help an employee build or buy a house or permanent home. The color grading was being prepared by the State Classification and Compensation Division.

The report for the year 1949 shows that there are 54,683 members and that capital is $87,174,570.01. When the organization started, on December 31, 1916, it had 19 members and $570 capital. The enormous rise in 33 years attests to the growing deposit of decisions, which is largely cross-examination. The Claims Examiner is a trier of fact! The Board must recognize it in determining the issue under examination.

The responsibility for seeing that the Claims Examiner's work is done properly is vested in the Regional Office after he has been appointed. The Regional Office is a trier of fact and it takes four employes to fingerprint 4000 employees.

What to Do at an Exam Explained

The course being given in preparation for the State Employment Interviewer exam by a group in the DPUI, under the auspices of the Civil Service Employees Association, includes a discussion of how to proceed at the examination itself.

The classes are held at 87 Madison Avenue, NYC. H. J. Bernard, executive editor of The LEADER, addressed the group last week.

The advice to candidates follows:

"A candidate should first read all the questions on the whole paper before attempting to answer even one, but mentally note which questions seem difficult. Those should be chased mentally as the trouble questions. Answering them should be reserved until the last. "Having carefully read through the questions once, and not merely glanced at them, the candidate now should read them again, one at a time, answering first each one to which he feels he knows the answer. The trouble questions are skipped over this time."

"After having answered the so-called easy questions, read with renewed care each question to which you feel you do not know the answer, and try to figure out the answer. Sometimes the difficulty is in properly understanding the puzzle, question, rather than lack of knowledge of the answer."

"It may appear that an unusually long time is left in which to answer the trouble questions. Remember difficult questions take a disproportionately long time to answer."

"With the difficult questions write any proposed answer, re-check with the question and, when fully satisfied that you have arrived at the answer, or the closest approach to the answer of which you are capable, register that answer. Proceed slowly and carefully with each of the remaining troublesome questions and write the answers in only after you have come to the best solution of which you are capable."

"As questions not answered are counted as wrong answers, answers should be given to all questions. The candidate has nothing to lose."

After all the questions have been answered, if there is any time left the candidate should devote it to checking and re-checking all his answers. This should include revising the troublesome questions. If any answer is to be changed, the candidate should write in the new answer and indicate that the tentative one has been deleted.

66 Public Works Men on Annual Pay

By HELEN MOLAN NEIL

ALBANY, May 25 — Sixty-six employees, all daily-paid workers formerly per diem per diem workers, have been granted annual salaries, retroactive to May 1, by the Civil Service Department.

The 16-year fight by The Civil Service Employees Association on behalf of hundreds of employees of the department for annual salaries was established by former Budget Director John E. Burton.

The first annual salaries also went to only those employees who have been in the Civil Service Department for a minimum of five years. The Civil Service Employees Association has 2,000 members.

The announcement was made by Chief Assistant Commissioner Arthur J. Mahoney, secretary, and Margaret Mahoney, treasurer. Mrs. Mahoney is also chairman of the Capital District Division of the Civil Service Department.

Capital Group Renominates

ALBANY, May 29—Dr. David M. Schneider, head of the Research and Analysis Division of the Department of Social Welfare, has been nominated for a second term as chairman of the Capital District Conference of The Civil Service Employees Association Inc.

All other incumbent officers were also named for the offices they now hold by the nominating committee, of which Arthur J. Mahoney is chairman.

The Classification Division of the Civil Service Department is also processing the titles of such per diem employees as asking for an annual salary status.

The annual salary for a 40-hour work week, with 10 percent overtime, received by the Civil Service Department was $22,000 for 1950.

Group Disputes Dewey

The Association for Improvements in the Mental Hygiene of the State of New York, which has taken issue with Governor Thomas E. Dewey's proposal to sell off mental institutions, has suggested that there is no solution to the problem of mental illness, and that the best solution is to provide mental health services to the public.

The link of the appropriations made by the state to the state's mental institutions is continued to be higher costs of living and an increase in the public's interest in the matter, declared David M. Fields, president of the Association.

Change in Rules

Studied for Applying
New Preference Law

In preparation for the new preference law that takes effect on January 1 next, the NYC Civil Service Commission is exploring the changes in its rules and procedures. One of the problems concerns those who fail by 0.5 points, the Commission realizes it will have a job to do and is considering an audit of clerical errors and clerks as to the scores, as is made in time form.

With more than 60000 applicants, the Commission wants to be sure that the new law is not only fair, but also efficient. The new law was set to take effect on January 1, but with the current backlog, it will likely be delayed.

The Commission is currently reviewing the proposal, and is expected to be ready to implement it by the end of the year.

Hillard Hopeful of $300 Raise for Social Workers

Welfare Commissioner Raymond M. Rasmussen is one of the advocates of the new law, which would provide a $300 raise for social workers. He has been considering the issue for some time, and is confident that the new law will be implemented soon.

Rasmussen is also working on a proposal to increase the salary for social workers to $2000. He认为 this is necessary to attract and retain qualified professionals.

The new law is expected to be discussed at the next meeting of the City Council, and is likely to be passed by the end of the year.

Commemoration Breakfast

The Catholic Guild of the Department of State, held in the Comprometer's Office, on Court Street, NYC, won its suit against NYC over the increment. The Court of Appeals ordered the City to pay the difference between what had received and what should have been received under the increment law, David A. Savage, of the Alliance for NYC employees, announced.

The increment law was enacted in 1947, and was designed to provide a 5% increase for all employees. The law was challenged by the City, which argued that the law was unconstitutional.

The Court of Appeals disagreed, and ruled in favor of the employees. The increment law is now expected to be implemented.

Bookbinders' Pay Increased to $3500

The Government and Civic Employees' Association (GCEA) is re-negotiating the contract with the NYC Administration for a raise in pay. The current contract is set to expire in January 1950, and is expected to be negotiated in the near future.

The GCEA is represented by John Brennan, who is the President of the association. The contract is expected to be renegotiated to increase the pay of bookbinders.

A protest over one cent per gallon for the Surface Line Operator last month with the NYC Civil Service Commission. The protest was filed by a union member who believes the company is not paying the proper rate.

The Commission is expected to issue a decision in the matter within the next few weeks.
