Clerk List

In NYC Due On Sept. 19

The names of 9,797 candidates comprising the Clerk Group are expected to be ordered published this week by the New York State Civil Service Commission. Shortly thereafter, those named will commence giving medicals and calling in the men and women for examination. The next step will be the promulgation of the list, at which time it will immediately be certified for filling over 1,500 jobs in numerous city departments.

The methods of appointment will be: First: Large members of candidates will be called to the Commission's office, there to make appointment of all departments and vacancies. They will be seated at desks closely identified with specific city departments. The candidate goes to whatever department desk he chooses; either taking a job then or asking questions about location, hours, or anything else he wants to know about that particular agency.

Permanent Status for U.S. Aides

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4—It is estimated that nearly 50,000 Federal employees are already at work who, under President Truman's order permitting federal civil service status for non-status employees as follows:

1. He must have served continuously for the competitive service, without break, for at least 3 years.
2. His record of all PROMISE must be good or better.
3. He must pass a non-competitive test. This test is designed not only to test his own ability, but also his ability to meet the needs of the department.
4. Temporary workers who have already passed a competitive test will not need to take another examination.

Many Dismissed DPUI Employees To Be Absorbed

Recent action in Albany by the Department of Labor, which oversees the Dismissed Persons Unemployment Insurance (DPUI) program, is likely to result in the absorption of many dismissed employees into new positions. The action was taken in response to a request by Governor Dewey's administration to protect the interest of the dismissed employees. The Governor's order was issued on August 31, and it directed that the DPUI program be used to protect the interest of the dismissed employees. The order also directed that the DPUI program be used to protect the interest of the dismissed employees in cases where the DPUI program is not effective. The order was issued to ensure that the dismissed employees are protected in cases where the DPUI program is not effective.

Physiotherapists Work Debated At Albany Hearing

ALBANY, Sept. 4—J. Earl Kelly, director of the Division of Chas- tity and Mental Hygiene, said he expected to give his decision on the proposed downgrading of five senior physiotherapists at the West Haverstraw Rehabilitation Hospital in Rockland County yesterday.

"I have as yet no knowledge of the hearing on August 29 request- ed by the Civil Service Employees Association—which bitterly op- posed the proposed downgrading—Mr. Kelly promised an "early decision, probably within a week," he said.

The move is expected to be permanent.

The hearing was marked by frequent argument and discussion over the operation of the civil service law and the selection of employees for the post.

"In 1945 during the outbreak of the war,physiotherapists were sent to the front," said Dr. Canning's only statement, "none at all for downgrading."

"The Division has long had what I believe to be the best training plan in any of the State departments. It had its plain my attitude toward, and my concept of, the DPUI."

The Division has developed a network of procedures and a maze of labor-saving devices and forms calculated to multiply the ability (already high) of its thousands of employees to discharge their duties with greater ease. By something, in the matter at hand, that something is, of course, the DPUI, that fabulous creation of the human mind and the human spirit and the new conscience to do the almost impossible.

"It's Strange and Wonderful"

The Division has had long what I believe to be the best training plan in any of the State departments. It had its plan my attitude toward, and my concept of, the DPUI. It is an immediate challenge to the Division of Place- ment and Unemployment Insurance to use its great ability for maximum efficiency and economy, have gone too far with resulting friction, overtime, and even emotional drag. It is an immediate challenge to the Division of Place- ment and Unemployment Insurance to use its great ability for maximum efficiency and economy, have gone too far with resulting friction, overtime, and even emotional drag.

I HAVE LONG looked with much wonder and some amazement at the New York State Machinery to combat unemployment and its ills. If you will consult any large dictionary, you will find very few words are more applicable to explain my attitude toward, and my concept of, the DPUI. The dictionary will tell you that "wonder" describes the emotion that is called into being by something new, unusual, strange, great, extraordinary, not well understood, or that cannot be explained by human failure and want in a purely factual and routine way of applying formulas and procedures which produce jobs or checks for persons desperately needing jobs or checks.

ALBANY, Sept. 4—It won't be necessary to have a college degree in order to compete in the accounting exam which will be one of the requirements for the New York State Department of Audit and Control, in the 55-year retirement law of the state that was approved last week.

According to the announcement of the department, the degree will no longer be required to compete in the exam, but will be kept in line with comparable public employment agencies.

The examination for the bachelor and master degrees was dropped this year. A biology specialty has also been substituted for it.

•ire

Other changes in this year's series include dropping of two levels of management assistant titles. A single exam will be given instead of five.

ALBANY, Sept. 4—Nominating petitions for the candidates who have been circulating through the state are being issued at the present time.

Where the college degree is wanted, the applicant must have comparable experience.

The examination for the bachelor and master degrees was dropped this year. A biology specialty has also been substituted for it.

The State System is Better

LAST week, representatives of State employees, and officials with a direct interest, appeared to argue the relusion of a proposal to lower salaries. The hearing was held before J. Earl Kelly, Director of the Civil Service Commission.

Earlier this year, the Division announced that it had reversed a recommendation proposing a downgrading in the classification of physiotherapists. The reversal came after two hearings at which employees vigorously overturned the official arguments made by the state.

The New York City Commission decided to hold a promotion exam for Fire Marshal. A story was made of the record of the job, but there was a feeling that a good deal more attention was paid to the investigation than appeared on the surface itself. After all, a Fire Marshal is in charge of a staff that investigates all fires. This investigation is important to the public, and there are many cases where public employees have no such opportunities. There are always two sides to the story, between the employees and the Classification and Compensation Division. In the United States—where public employees have no such opportunity—the system is a good one. One has to contrast it with jurisdictions and there are many examples that prove this.

There is an important lesson here: Where employees have an opportunity to present their views, fully and freely, there is no need to be alarmed by any tendency to cut down salaries.

There have been disagreements, sometimes serious ones, between the employees and the Classification and Compensation Division. But these disagreements have been substantiated and resolved. A case can be made that the hearings of the Division have always been models of judicious handling, with all sides permitted to marshal the facts and circumstances on which an examination should be based. The examiner may even, occasionally, risk his life. Nobody would have imagined that any such risk attached the supposedly calm occupation of an examination.

Let's see what happened in one case.

EXPERT ADVISES CANDIDATES ON HOW TO TAKE A TEST

A large number of written tests will be held in the fall. Those who are not familiar with the tests will have to do some studying. Many candidates take a course in order to prepare for the test. The test is given in three parts: reading, writing, and numerical ability.

In order to pass the test, candidates must score at least an 80 in each section. If a candidate scores below 60 in any section, he will be eliminated.

The test is given on Saturday morning, and candidates should arrive at 8:30 a.m. It is important to arrive on time, as the test begins promptly at 9 a.m.

There are no questions on the test that are not based on common knowledge. However, some questions may be difficult. If a candidate feels that a question is difficult, he should try to answer it.

Defterer Policies for Reservists Guard

The following continues the article on defererent from military service in the Event of the Reservists Guard and is based on a report from the CIVIL SERVICE LEADER and is based on an event that occurred in last week's edition of the newspaper.

Requests for delay in call to active duty in response to the call of the President for the Reservists Guard under the provisions of the Selective Service Act will not be considered unless they are accompanied by a statement of the type of service in which the applicant desires to enter and the length of time for which he desires to enter such service. Requests for delay in call should be addressed as follows:

Other job openings at Fort Monmouth include: Engineering Draftsman, $2,005 to $3,400 per annum, with three years of experience needed for the basic salary. Pharmacy, $4,000 to $5,400 per annum; Laboratory Technician, $3,005 per annum; Illustrator, $3,005 per annum; Pharmacist, $3,005 per annum;据了解, there are no immediate vacancies for administrative personnel, requests via their Naval Recruiting Station, are filled by temporary indefinite appointments.

Applications for positions should be addressed to Naval Recruiting Station, Building T-530, Port Monmouth, N.J.

In everyday useage a temporary appointment means nothing more than a position only temporarily. But in civil service terminology, a sharp distinction is made between a temporary position and a permanent indefinite appointment.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4 — Organizations of veterans and of federal employees went on record last week as vigorously opposed to a proposed hearing before a Senate Civil Service subcommittee that raised particular objection to a proposed change that would rank candidates by a "catgorem" rather than numerically. It would allow a return to patronage and the pay-as-salary systems they argued.

The National Federation of Federal Employees joined the attack.

Officials of the Government opposed the proposal, saying it would not be necessary or helpful. They held that the bill would prevent any return to spoils by such safeguards as price approval by the Civil Service Commission of all agency employment plans, periodic inspections by Civil Service, employment appeals to the Commission, etc.

Opposing "Wining Words"
The major opposition to the proposed reform were Herbert L. Jacobs, of the American Legion; Luther C. Steward, of the National Federation of Federal Employees; George L. McKay, of the American Federation of Labor; and Charles E. Foster, of the Disabled American Veterans.

Postmaster General Jesse Donahue urged that his department be exempted from the provisions of the bill — if and when it passed, he said, and then in the form of a system, candidates taking civil service examinations would be ranked by number, but by words, such as "very satisfactory," "satisfactory," "fairly satisfactory," etc. The "excellent" group would be restricted to 80 to 100 in exam markings. The appointment would be made in the name of the job and he proposed that the name of the entire examination would also be predetermined. The veteran spokesmen asserted they were well satisfied with the manner in which the preference law is now worked.

Postal Pay Veto Upheld

Another objection was to the Senate's veto of the Hoover Commission report on civil service and veteran preference. He cited statistics showing that: 100 in exam markings. The appointment would be made in the name of the job and he proposed that the name of the entire examination would also be predetermined. The veteran spokesmen asserted they were well satisfied with the manner in which the preference law is now worked.

NYC Opens Housekeeper Test Sept. 11

Applications for Housekeeper, Grade 1, jobs are open for filing from September 11 to 26 with the NYC Civil Service Commission. There are now nine positions available. Applications are expected during the last few days of the filing period.

The pay starts at $1,860 a year. The filing fee is $1. Those who are interested pointed out the frequent opportunities for advancement in the field of Housekeeping.

The experience required is 1 year in the supervision of a housekeeping unit in an institution, hotel, or residence hall with a capacity of about 100 rooms.

The duties are to assign and supervise the housekeeping personnel in a hospital or institution, keep the unit in an institution, hospital, or institution, housekeeping equipment, record and distribute linen and supplies; make inspections and determine that efficiency and cleanliness are maintained. The written test and experience each have a pass mark of 70. Successful qualifying test.

Detroit Employees Fired for Leaving Jobs

DETROIT'S bid to cut unemployment and reinstate workers who were dismissed by Mayor Alger E. Cobo for behavior that was considered theft or illegal practice is just taking hold. About 300 workers have so far returned to work.

The Mayor, acting under the State Hutchison Act which authorizes the city council to rehire dismissed public employees, has been finding a quiet and often enthusiastic response from the unemployed or those who were dismissed.

Employees who did not knowingly commit a breach of the law will be reinstated, the Mayor said. The workers, members of the United Auto Workers, are asked to sign a 24-hour unconditional contract. About 300 members have signed City Hall. The others did not appear for work.

Cartoon is Re-Elected Head of State Police Conference

John E. Cartoon has been re-elected president of the Police Conference of the City of New York. The organization has 40,000 members throughout the State. He is the sole holder of that post to be re-elected from the entire rank of patrolmen. One former president was not eligible to run after he retired from the force. Mr. Cartoon is also president of the NYPA's Benvenuto Association.

Under Mr. Cartoon's leadership, the State Police Conference, with the endorsement of both AFL and CIO, successfully lobbied the New York State Legislature to approve the five-day work week. The organization has spent a large amount of its funds in obtaining signatures to petitions brought in by the conference. This has enabled the conference to win many benefits for NYC police officers.

Although the five-day bill was unsuccessful in the Assembly, it was reported not by the Senate, a vote. It will be the State Conference's task to present the legislation again in the 1961 session of the Legislature.

By HERBERT M. BENSON

The following continues study material for the Social Investigator course sponsored by NYC Civil Service. The next meeting will be Saturday, October 28.

Questions

15. An investigator is called upon to verify the identity of the applicant and a supposedly legitimate card index of the applicant's complete situation. The investigator should be free to decide whether the applicant is obviously honest and reliable. In this situation, the applicant should find that (A) it is unnecessary to substantiate the identity of the applicant and a supposedly legitimate card index of the applicant's complete situation, (B) it is necessary to verify the forgoing information to establish identity, (C) it is necessary to verify the forgoing information to establish identity and establish reliability; (D) it is necessary to verify the facts given above in order to establish identity; (E) it is necessary to verify the forgoing information to establish identity and establish reliability.

16. An applicant for relief has a 15-year-old son who is attending school but is threatening to drop out and go into business for himself. How do you handle the situation? (A) It is unnecessary to substantiate the identity of the applicant and a supposedly legitimate card index of the applicant's complete situation, (B) it is necessary to verify the forgoing information to establish identity, (C) it is necessary to verify the facts given above in order to establish identity; (D) it is necessary to verify the facts given above in order to establish identity and establish reliability; (E) it is necessary to verify the facts given above in order to establish identity and establish reliability.

17. Enough information has been gathered to determine the applicant's eligibility; the burden of proof is on the applicant. Verification of eligibility as to citizenship is the burden of the Social Investigator; the qualifications of the applicant entitled to cooperation and honesty from the applicant. Dishonesty or concealment may result in the withholding, suspension or withdrawal of relief. Although the investigator is entitled to be both tactful and patient, refusal by the applicant to provide necessary information should result in the facts, once established, not being penalized, but relief is only extended when the facts warrant it.

Proving Your Identity

The best evidence of continuous residence is rent receipts, gas and electric bills, school records, recent tax bills, clinics, hospital and rec root records, employment records of the N.Y. State Department of Economic Research. No means of identifying a person are as incorrect as good evidence, since these can be fraudulently obtained. The selection of an envelope to the applicant when he actually resides somewhere else. If it becomes necessary to tentatively accept this second form of evidence, the sender of the envelope should be interviewed. And the investigator will undoubtedly be able to establish the applicant's inability to furnish the necessary proving evidences. The burden of proof is on the applicant.

Interviewing the Applicant

The investigator's first interview is to establish the Social Service Exchange report of the application, and in cases of removed applicants, to get over the problems in the past, how other social agencies have failed, or succeeded, and the general outlook. How is a person's case handled? This is based on the assumption that the applicant is truthful. He is shown his application, his eligibility, and main.

6 Months to a Year's Deferral
In Draft Is All That an Individual Policeman or Fireman Will Get

By M. J. BERNARD

There will be no blanket draft exception of Brooklyn policemen or firemen, but local boards will decide cases of individual deferment. The process which might run from six months to a year, take six months. A decision of the Civil Service Board, NYC Director of Selective Service, the same policy will be followed, he added, as in World War II. and he emphasized the fact that the law, still substantially the same, precludes blanket exceptions or determinations.

Mayor O'Dwyer, having conferred with Mayor William O'Dwyer, the head of the Mayor's committee on civilian defense, and Acting Deputy Mayor Louis Cohen, Director Cohen stated in answer to the whole situation with the Mayor.

No Formal Request

There will be no formal request by the NYC Administration for an exception for Brooklyn policemen and firemen. Commissioner Quayle, however, requested a blanket six-months deferment for all policemen and firemen in the City, but this was one of the acts prohibited by the Municipal Civil Service Board. Also, there could be no exceptions for New York City policemen and firemen under any circumstances.

O'Dwyer said he was co-operating with the Mayor's efforts in handling the problem in an orderly and intelligent way, so that the law would be enforced with as little damage as possible to the City's operation of its defenses.

List Begins to Grow

Meanwhile the City's list of those on ordered military duty is small, but it is a small list even now. For instance, it has been reported that the Police Department 20 policemen have been drafted military leave, and in the Fire Department about half as many Firemen. These 28 were members of a reserve force or corps, or the National Guard, and were ordered to military duty.

Under Section 179 of the State Military Law, the granting of military leave is regarded official as compulsory in such cases. The men have job protection; while on active military duty, any advancements which would have been earned had they not been called away would show up as increased pay for the future, on their record, and seniority protection and pension credit rights would be preserved. This applies to all City employees ordered to military duty.

Mr. O'Dwyer, as Mayor, issued a directive authorizing leave of absence without pay to those City employees who are called into active military duty and perform active military duty as members of the State Military through June 30, 1956 (Korea Days). But this directive did not cover all employees, and only those regular civil-service employees, not military leaving, who are called, are covered by the law. Commissioner Quayle made no distinction between employed regular civil-service employees in allowing pay for the accrued leaves.

Mr. Horowitz was formerly First Deputy Commissioner. He is a lawyer and chemist by training, and connected for three decades.

The Mayor attached a "position list" means a schedule of employees on military leave to drafted employees.

The Griffenhagen staff supplies each unit head with the completed forms to be filled promptly as they occur.
