The Pay Scene

Wide Differences Seen in Federal State Pay Scene

ALBANY, Dec. 31—Recently the Pay Scene, an organization representing employee associations, reported that the average salary of 1,054,204 government workers was $1,004.62. This figure includes the recent increase granted federal employees. The increase, a year. This increase had been negotiated previously, conducted by the Federal Civil Service Commission, and though it had not been granted until late last Call. From the "Survey of Current Business," federal salaries were reported at $1,055 in 1955. This is the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This figure has been given federal workers shows an increase of 10 percent since 1940. This is a sub-

State Pay Rise

State Pay Rise Negotiations Continuing

BY JOSE B. McFARLAND
President, The Civil Service Employees Association

LOOKING AHEAD INTO 1952

TO ALL the members of the Civil Service Employees Association I sincerely wish a Happy New Year, one that will bring happiness and security.

May happiness and peace reign throughout the year, and for the years to come, so that life for all of us can be made more enjoyable and secure.

Objectives for the New Year

For the new year, the Association has solid plans for the betterment of the welfare of its members. A salary increase is being sought, through negotiations now under way, so that their income may have the purchasing power that it should have. Liberalization of the pension system is another major objective for the year.

These are matters of concern in the pocket-book and of job satisfaction. Members can be assured that the Association is bending every effort toward the achievement of such vital goals.

On the cultural side, the Association hopes to expand its activities beyond anything attempted before. Encouraged by the success of its first art show, held in Albany for those in surrounding counties, it plans to hold art shows in other localities. In addition, dramatic and choral activities will be the large agenda.

The County Division

The members of the County Division of the Association, many of whom have equally serious pay, job grievance and grading problems, will have the full support of the Association officers and headquarters staff toward obtaining remedial action. In the State Division the problems are often statewide; in the County Division they are localized; but in both instances the Association is fully equipped to deal with the problems, and is equally intent on gaining for County and local members the rights and privileges that are properly theirs.

The advancement of employee benefits is not confined to geographical limits. No victory for the one group fails to hold promise for the other group.

It is through unity that we have achieved our goals in the past. Through unity we shall achieve them in the future. Let 1952 be the year of maximum unity and it may well be the year of maximum achievement.

ALBANY, Dec. 31—A meeting of the state office credit union presidents will be held on Tuesday, January 8, 7:30 p.m., in the Capitol cafeteria, 4th floor, State Office Building, Albany. Directors and other officers will be elected. A paycheck is the ticket of admission. President of the group is Charles Gerson.
18 Barge Canal Operators Had $1000 Extra for Xmas

ALBANY, Dec. 18- Eighteen employees engaged in the operation and maintenance of three locks on the Barge Canal had more money for Christmas shopping this year as a result of their efforts in bringing distinction to their locks.

Continuing an annual custom, the New York State Department of Public Works awarded nearly $1,000 in cash bonuses to these workers for their efforts which resulted in their respective locks coming in first in their division during the past year.

First prize went to Lock 13 on the Erie Canal located near Braidwood Station for a score of 99.5734%, to Clarence Humiston, Canal Structure Operator; $276.00; A. S. Bailey, Chief Lock Operator, $201.00; Walter Chapman, Chief Lock Operator, $201.00; Alphonse R. Hodge, Canal Helper, $40.00; William Howard, Canal Helper, $48.00; William A. Becker, Canal Helper, $48.00.

Second prize was awarded to Lock 9 on the Champlain Canal, located at Smiths Basin for a score of 99.5564%. First prize went to Lock 12 on the Champlain Canal, near Tribes Hill, for a score of 99.5734%.

These annual rewards are based on frequent inspections of the locks by a special committee headed by Fred R. Lindsey, Assistant Superintendent of Maintenance and Operations of the State Department of Public Works, in reporting their findings to Superintendent Tallamy, Mr. Lindsey said, "The committee found all locks in excellent condition. The State of New York and this department are very fortunate in having loyal and efficient personnel to maintain and operate the locks, which have been kept in an exceptionally fine condition for the past thirty-five years."

Honorable Mention

In addition to the cash awards, Honorable Mention was also made of the next highest ten locks which were as follows:

Lock 3, Oswego, near Fulton; Lock 19, Eric, near Grenville; Lock 3, Oswego, near Polson; Lock 23, Erie, near New London; Lock 5, Champlain, near Northumberland; Lock 15, Beno, near Pratt Pond; (Cayuga and Seneca) Lock 4, C. & O., near Watertown; Lock 11, Eric, York; Lock 5, C. & O., Mio; Lock 19, Eric, Jacksonburgh.

There's a scene that was repeated many times last week in various government offices. The queues at the left-hand window of the State Comptroller's office in the Capitol were long and the atmosphere tense. "What do you want this time?" asked the clerk, her voice clipped and impatient.

"I need to file a claim," said a man in a suit. "I have been injured on the job." The clerk took his name and address and handed him a form. "Fill this out and bring it back in a week," she said. "We'll process it then."

The scene was replayed in offices across the state. Employees were filing claims for injuries sustained on the job. The Department of Labor was flooded with requests for compensation. The Workers' Compensation Board was swamped with applications. The atmosphere was one of frustration and anxiety.

The increase in claims was due to a number of factors. The state had recently increased the amount of compensation for injured workers. The cost of medical care had also risen. Many workers were struggling to make ends meet and were taking their claims seriously.

The Department of Labor was working hard to keep up with the flood of claims. They were hiring more staff and overtime was being worked. The process was slow, but the department was determined to ensure that every claim was dealt with fairly and promptly.

The increase in claims was also having an impact on the state's budget. The Workers' Compensation Fund was being depleted at an alarming rate. The state was running out of money to pay out claims.

There were calls for the state to reduce the amount of compensation for injured workers. The governor was under pressure to find a way to balance the budget and reduce the deficit. The issue of workers' compensation was a hot topic in the state legislature.

The scene at the State Comptroller's office was a microcosm of the state's economic problems. The state was struggling to keep up with the demands of its citizens, while the budget was in deficit and the economy was on the verge of collapse.

The workers' compensation system was in crisis. The state was running out of money to pay claims and the claims process was slow and inefficient. The state needed to find a way to balance the budget and reduce the deficit without compromising the rights of injured workers. The future of the state's workers' compensation system was in doubt.

Many comments have come in in the past few weeks as a result of Mr. A. B. Washington, D. C., who has asked us to reprinted below is a letter from his correspondent which includes his own correspondence with some interesting answers.

The Editor, CIVIL SERVICE LEADER, 76 Dame Street, New York, N. Y. Dear Sir: I have read with great interest Thurman Arnold's editorial in the November issue of "Indiscretions of Civil Employees," and I feel very strongly about it. I believe that the picture you paint is not only a public truth but a public shame. It is a public truth because people in high places are public figures, and they are a public shame to the country because they are not held accountable for their actions. Public servants are public figures because they are public servants and they are a public shame because they are not held accountable for their actions.

Quill Says Hell Step Up Organizing of NYC Cops

Michael J. Quill, international president of the Transport Workers Union, CIO, has some ideas and plans and a pro-union attitude that could make a difference for the 65,000 members of the NYC Police Department, should the courts uphold the CIO.

In an exclusive interview, Quill said the police were claiming that they had a majority of the policemen signed up, a contention similar to one that was made by theeam the last time there was an election. But the CIO was contesting the legality of attempts to unionize the police. A decision by Supreme Court Justice Charles C. Briel on a corollary motion containing citations of court of Mr. Quill. But the TWU president is now preparing his argument that the CIO has an organized structure.

"I looked at first as if we were up against the wall," Mr. Quill said, "but when I saw what happened then, Mr. Quill said, "I was prepared to go to the courts, and if the police department appealed, the courts will decide."

One of the problems confronting the committee is to get a place large enough to contain the exhibition. It is expected that the showing will include more paintings, sculptures, and other works of art than the highly successful art show held by the Association in Albany last October.

Oustodiau, Superintendent of the Civil Service Exam Preparation, put the whole weight of the Association not only behind the holding of art shows throughout the state but behind holding art shows on a state-wide one, but increasing cultural activities in other directions, as well.

High School Annex Heads Win $30,000

A settlement has been reached between 19 former high school annex heads in the NYC Board of Education who had been disgruntled and paid as senior teachers, whereby they will receive $30,000 back pay. The two started out in 1948, claiming they were entitled to a minimum of 12 percent of the salary of board of education administrators.

The settlement was for 76 percent of the pay difference, starting back to January 1, 1942, and excluding periods during which they were denoted as junior teachers. Interest and costs were waived by the plaintiffs.

Early in 1952 will be taking their junior martagement assistant jobs will be the sole determining factor. This will be followed during the year on which the candidate stands or the Federal exams the preference only to the scores of eligibles. In out the aid of the veteran preference points count toward the passing of such a test.

The easiest one is 5 (D), obviously Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn quoting.

Finding the Second One Of the four other authors, only the name of Washington Irving is strange. He wrote a grammar and the standard authors are known to go in for re- writing, deleting and summarizing their text. So the strange device of telling everything so as to write it at first could, by being Goode, be ascribed to the only non-standard author on the list. That would give you the correct answer, 3 (C), and full credit on the occasion.

The correct matching of the three remaining questions perhaps may not be accomplished so readily. However, there are clues left. The only author to advertise the economy of words could be assumed to be the same one who inveighed against waste in Piers Richard's Almanack. Certainly any one purchasing economy of words would not have written the No. 4 question, in which there are nine expendable words of emphasis. The first line of writing must necessarily be "the law to which all other laws are subordinate." The correct pairing of the remaining three: 1 (B); 2 (E); 4 (A).

Board's Comment "Most candidates," says the College Entrance Examination Board, "were wonder whether or not to guess the answers which they are not certain of. They were told to answer all questions about which they were certain. Because a shred of guess is better than no guess at all. In some exams wrong answers are penalized, but right answers are rewarded. Can- didates, therefore, should answer, if possible, true, and should not be deterred from guessing because of the unequal scoring penalties.

Division of Laboratories and Research, Albany A CHRISTMAS dinner was held recently by the Division of Laboratories and Research, one of the most popular and festive occasions of the year. The dinner took place in the auditorium in front of the State College, and was attended by over 200 guests, including members of the staff and their families.

The guests were served a delicious meal of turkey, ham, and all the trimmings, followed by a delicious dessert of pumpkin pie and ice cream. The ambiance was festive and lively, with music playing in the background.

After the meal, the guests participated in a variety of activities, including a talent show, games, and a raffle. The proceeds from the raffle were donated to the American Red Cross, to help those in need during the holiday season.

The evening ended with toasts and speeches, during which the appreciation of the guests towards the staff was expressed. The staff was congratulated for their hard work and dedication throughout the year.

In conclusion, the Division of Laboratories and Research's Christmas dinner was a great success, providing a wonderful opportunity for the staff to come together and celebrate the holiday season.
