Values of Membership in Civil Service Employees Assn.

By MAUREEN MOORELY
Rockland State Hospital

The values inherent in belonging to your employee organization regarding the position you occupy seem fairly obvious to those who are active for the group, but not so obvious to those who are new appointments or to those who have failed to maintain a close contact with the working unit in their own area of employment. It seems as though support would be given voluntarily and easily to an organization which is guided towards its goals through apportion interest in its members and is primarily concerned with direct benefits to active and retired members.

Not So Simple

However, these matters are not so simple of solution. New employees must, and should, be convinced of the practical accomplishments and efficiency of the organization which is enlisting its membership. This is fair to both the individual and the organization. Those who are delinquent due to an increasing lethargy, or who have broken with the organization because of some specific grievance, need to be convinced of the efficiency of a solidified front of paid-up memberships.

No formal, political, civic, or other club is as important to an employed person as that organization which seeks to bring happenings, satisfaction and comfort, as well as to the external world, your efforts are what you are to be able to do the front office. Because they are convinced that a satisfied member is a power in itself. Where Support Comes From

Our Civil Service Employees Association is serving the membership of each and every employee and is willing to obtain as great benefits as it humanly possible for all of its employees. You increase the hazards of your own membership and support. And we must come directly to the efficacy of a solidified front of employees. The values inherent in belonging to your employee organization because of some specific interest in the members, are low, terms are generous, and trade-in are an asset on the house of great values, where prices... $120 Raise Won in Chemung; $600 Bonus Put in Base Pay

ELMIRA, Jan. 25--Increases in pay for salaried and hourly paid County employees of Chemung County were approved recently, by the Board of Supervisors.

In unanimous action, the Board granted a $120 annual cost-of-living adjustment to most salaried workers, and approved a 7½-cent
hourly basic pay raise for the few employees of the Highway Department.

Also approved without dispute was the incorporation of $600 of the cost-of-living bonus into the basic pay of workers. This action raises the minimum and maximum basic pay rates for jobs in the county from $4.50 to $7.50
per hour.

Finally, the Board, in its final planning will be preferred from the County 2000 Fund for the year
of $55,000, which was set up in the 1952 county budget to meet unanticipated ex-

The bonuses received by county
workers last year was $564 above base rates. Six hundred dollars of that total has been incorporated into base pay. The other $200 of the total, however, was put on
as a cost-of-living bonus.

Per capita income this year, the Board considered, has been $2200
for Chemung County, and with this in mind, it was decided to approve the increase in basic pay.

The Personnel Relations Board, consisting of Allen S. Hulbert, Jr., Chairperson; Orville J. Vorel, Department of Labor, and George H. Kling, Insurance Department, considered the complaint of seven junior tax examiners (J-10) in the Department of Taxation and Finance that they have not been allowed overtime for certain Sunday travel.

While the complaining employees did not refer their complaint to the Board within 40
days from the time the department head made his determination, as required by the Board's rules, the Board decided that it is entitled to waive the time bece the record shows that there are other junior tax examiners in the Department with identical complaints.

The complaints of the junior
tax examiners arise from the fact that one or at most twice a year
during the income tax return filing period they are requited to travel to district offices of the department. The department requires that such employees report for work at the district of office which they are required to travel to on a Monday morning.

The Board decided that the employees have no case for overtime
be considered part of their usual duties.

are Orange County, New York, Orange

But They’re Still Behind the 8-Ball

A few comments on some NYC current events affecting civil service.

First: We feel that Manhattan Borough President Robert F. Wagner makes a good suggestion: that the Board of Estimate set aside a date to hear municipal employees on their salary needs, BEFORE the executive budget is completed. The City’s employees have long felt that the hearings as now conducted are cut and dried, just meaningless circuses. Mr. Wagner’s suggestion should be adopted by the Board.

Second: It is clear that Comptroller Joseph makes a lot of sense with his recent lectures on municipal finance. One item that has last week was an attack on the number of vacancies on the Commission payroll. From reading the newspapers, you would think that all of these are political hacks and stumbles collecting pay for doing nothing. It happens a lot of them are. Mr. Joseph does render a service, however, in sharply calling public attention to the problem of vacancies. At the same time, responsible reflection compels recognition of the fact that vacancies can’t always be filled; and that if you were to lay off the provisional investigators (say) in the Welfare Department, or the provisional attendants in the Hospital Department, without filling the jobs from civil service eligible lists, much suffering would be inflicted upon segments of the City’s population who depend upon the services rendered them by provincials holding the positions.

Of course, even in a time of tight manpower shortage, proper salary levels would increase the ability to recruit through civil service examination. Proper salaries would also decrease the rate of turnover, bringing into the service a higher grade of employee, and give more stability to City operations.

It has always struck us as interesting how many problems in the City are solved by the procedure of paying people what they should be paid.

Third: The Griffenhagen hearings began this week. No provision has been made, however, to hear the grievances of individuals who feel they have been allotted to a position with their salary out of line with what they were offered to have suggested before, and we repeat now, that appeals machinery is needed for these persons, and that such machinery is set up, the more chance there will be for the retention of a modern classification and wage structure.

And fourth: The City’s employees have still not been offered a pay raise, are still behind the 8-ball.

One Definite P. O. Aides Can Look Forward to Permanent Appointment

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 - Elitath on U.S. post office lists who were given only indefinite appointments, have been told officially at the U.S. Civil Service Commission that permanent appointments would be ordered. The official ruling is expected to arise later.

One reason why it will take so much time to get the order out is that it would necessarily affect all other U. S. clerks and inspectors.

The 1902 modification of the Whitten Amendment provided, among other things, that no department may exceed the number of permanent employees as it had on September 30, 1950. The American Federation of Labor postal unions construed this to authorize permanent appointments up to that limit. They had the unusual advantage of support of the Post Office Department itself.

Flagger Active

Patrick J. Fitzgerald, president of the New York Federation of Post Office Clerks, placed a promotion in question the case before the Commission.

In the New York, N.Y. post office alone about 1,890 indefinite appointments would be affected immediately, and in a matter of months several thousand more. In New York about 200 would get early benefit, and another 500 later.

Flagger Active

Patrick J. Fitzgerald, president of the New York Federation of Post Office Clerks, placed a promotion in question the case before the Commission.

In the New York, N.Y. post office alone about 1,890 indefinite appointments would be affected immediately, and in a matter of months several thousand more. In New York about 200 would get early benefit, and another 500 later.

Should his retroactive increase be effective as of the beginning of the next pay period, the employee's longevity step should be increased by the second step pay?

The Classification Act, as amended by Public Law 201, provides that increases granted by law after June 30, 1951, shall not be considered as an equivalent increase. Hence no reason exists why an employee's longevity step should not be increased by the second step pay?

Same Retractive Effect

A WITHIN-GRADe promotion was granted to a U. S. employee beginning July 1, 1951, in the case of O. W. T. Does the employee receive the second step pay?

No. The law requires that an employee be in the longevity grade for the adjustment had been applied before his longevity grade should be re-adjusted. The employee should be in the longevity grade for the second step pay.

Therefore, the employee's longevity step should be increased by the second step pay. No. The law requires that an employee be in the longevity grade for the adjustment had been applied before his longevity grade should be re-adjusted. The employee should be in the longevity grade for the second step pay.

Therefore, the employee's longevity step should be increased by the second step pay.

The adjustment had been applied, the employee was increased to the next longevity grade, and the promotion to the grade should be reflected back to July 1, with the pay increase integrated.

Longevity Step Limitation

A U. S. EMPLOYEE advances to his longevity grade three years before he may advance to his second step pay. This has not been changed.

Deductions from Income on U.S. Tax Returns

If an employee uses his own car on business travel he may deduct for gasoline, oil, garaging, towing, washing, tolls, depreciation, etc. Figure a car, new or old, as becoming fully depreciated in five years and proportions the chargeable depreciation accordingly. Insurance costs may be likewise prorated.

Not deductible are meals and hotel accommodations. Accommodation expenses, incidentally, include these: sales tax on meals or hotel bills, and any hotel service charges.

For Higher Pay

The overtime pay under the bill would be included in pension computation, but would not be considered salary for other purposes. Jackelen worked less than 40 hours a week would not be adversely affected by the bill.

1 P.C. Pension Bill

A bill supported by Assemblyman Leo P. Noceman of Chicago would provide a per cent pension plan for State employees.

The bill, introduced the first week by Assemblyman Joseph C. Quirk of Chicago, would provide over time at time and a half rates and a 40-year minimum for all present employees and would be optional for new employees.

In the event that an employee should retire at any time before his 40 years have been completed, the amount deducted from his pay for the pension plan would be returned to him. The employee would be entitled to a 3 per cent annual pension upon reaching age 65.

The overtime work done by the employee would be included in the computation of his retirement pay.

30-Day Police Pension Law Gets Second Test

The legality of the NYC local law passed by the Council, requiring members of the uniformed force of the Police Department to retire at age 63, will be argued today or to-morrow in the Appellate Division. The case is that of Walter A. Gorman vs. NYC and the new Council to pass any pension legislation is at issue. The PBA is taking no sides in that case.

The appeal to the Appellate Division is by the Corporation Counsel Bernard Richmond will argue the appeal, opposite James V. Polly, counsel for PBA.

The question of contractual inva-sion involved in the action of allowing benefits also arises in a case, yet to be argued, attacking the local law requiring members of the uniformed force of the Police Department to retire on reaching age 63. The question of the Council's power to pass pension legislation is at issue. PBA is taking no sides in that case.

The appeal is argued in the 39-day case is considered by both sides as having possible effect on the age-63 law.

In the age-63 case, Charles Humboldt vs. NYC, in which the plaintiff is 62 years old, the plaintiff's attorney is Leopold V. Reot. The plaintiffs are opposed not only by Assistant Corporation Counsel Bernard Richmond but also by Attorney Peter Schneider of 15 East 41st Street, Manhattan, a former corporation counsel representing 350 eligible on the pension promotion list and 50 on the captain list. The eligible want the law upheld because promotion opportunities would be hampered.

The plaintiffs in the age-63 case have pleaded a statutory judgment on the pleadings. The Corporation Counsel's opposition is that said SAMUEL GAIM CANES is dead, that said MARIAalicia is dead and that the chattels and credits of SAMUEL GAIM CANES are dead.

In one case, the Corporation Counsel's argument is that the PBA holds that the age-63 law is discriminatory and obnoxious, and because pension rights are pre-empted by the Constitution, it maintains that the age-63 law is not constitutional and invalid under Article 6 of the Federal Constitution.

The Corporation Counsel's argument is that the PBA has a right to dictate, regardless of any law passed by the Council, what they believe to be necessary for defense agencies in the State. The PBA is asking that no maximum age limit be set for any officers in each of the State agencies, as not limiting the ability of the State to control the age of the men in the service.

There's nothing like it—only the page to touch—all plastic. The record plays automatically! No switch to turn, no manipulation. The Corporation Counsel's argument is that the PBA has a right to dictate, regardless of any law passed by the Council, what they believe to be necessary for defense agencies in the State.
