Government Workers: A Dozen Fables and Facts

In the next coming two months, as the fever of election campaigning grows hotter, public employees will become increasingly the targets of men vying for public office. The trend is already showing itself. It is therefore important to keep the facts separated from the fables.

United States Senator Harvey Kilgore has collected and analyzed the most prevalent of these fables and knocked them over the head with hard facts. He makes the best possible editorial on the subject.

1. FABLE: Government workers loot all the time.
FACT: The average government employee takes only 75.3 percent of the vacation time that is due him, according to a recent Congressional Committee report. This is not as bad as it might appear.

Last year, over 400,000 Federal employees voluntarily quit, the great bulk of them leaving government service entirely. If a government job is such a soft touch, compared with business or industry, the trend is already showing itself. It is therefore important to keep the facts separated from the fables.

2. FABLE: Government workers form one vast political hack block.
FACT: Ninety-three percent are under the civil service merit system. Ninety-three percent are under the merit system and to fire a 21,000 postman positions within the merit system by doing away with the requirement of State confirmation of appointments.

3. FABLE: The government is utterly inefficient.
FACT: Our government is among the most efficient large business in the world. The Treasury in the 1951 fiscal year collected $50.4 billion in taxes, at a cost of less than a dollar per person. Ad- ministered under penalty of losing or being suspended from their jobs. The Maryland and Virginia counties adjacent to Washington — where a higher proportion of government workers live — have their own merit systems, such as T.V.A., the Atomic Energy Commission, the Central Intelligence Agency and the F. B. I.

4. FABLE: The government is full of grafters.
FACT: The two Hatch Acts of 1939 and 1940, as amended in 1950, forbid Federal employees from taking any in kind holding stock or local office positions, or participating in any way in the political activities of any party.

A fifth of all Federal employees work in the postal service. The Social Security administration had over 83,000,000 employees. Of these, one sixth of one percent of all Bureau employees. On a percentage basis, the Bureau has proved so far 99 and 80 percent clean — purer than Ivory Soap.

5. FABLE: Government workers work all year, roll in taxes could be greatly lowered.
FACT: The Social Security administration had over 83,000,000 employees. Of these, one sixth of one percent of all Bureau employees. On a percentage basis, the Bureau has proved so far 99 and 80 percent clean — purer than Ivory Soap.

6. FABLE: Government workers work only one and one half days a week. (This doesn't mean that there isn't still room for a great deal of that kind in some papers.)
FACT: Government workers are paid by the hour and work six days a week.

7. FABLE: The government is full of political hacks.
FACT: Ninety-three percent are under the civil service merit system. Ninety-three percent are under the merit system and to fire a 21,000 postman positions within the merit system by doing away with the requirement of State confirmation of appointments.

8. FABLE: Government workers form one vast political machine.
FACT: The two Hatch Acts of 1939 and 1940, as amended in 1950, forbid Federal employees from taking any in kind holding stock or local office positions, or participating in any way in the political activities of any party.

10. FABLE: You can't fire anyone from a government job.
FACT: A total of 22,078 government employees were fired during the last calendar year.

11. FABLE: Government employees are all desk workers.
FACT: A third of all Federal employees are industrial-type workers. Most of these work for the armed services, on and off guns, constructing and working at air, land and sea bases and elsewhere.

12. FABLE: The government pays more than other employers.
FACT: Government industrial workers are paid by law approximately the same hourly wages that private employers in the same trade and the same area pay to their employees.

The answer to that question is that the middle pay brackets, business and government salaries are about the same. In the top brackets, business pays far more than any civil servant receives for comparable work.
Civilian aircraft maintenance and repair jobs in 10 titles are offered by the Air Force at Mitchel Field and Floyd Bennett Naval Air Base, L.I. The jobs, hourly rates, and required experience follow. Aircraft engine installer, aircraft mechanic, aircraft hydraulic repairer, aircraft propeller repairer, and aircraft servicing electrician, $1.60; 4 years. Some mechanical jobs pay $1.85 an hour. Aircraft radio and electronic repairer and installer, and aircraft shoe metal manufacturer and repairer, $1.25; 4 years, respectively. Parachute and leather inspeter and repairer, and aircraft instrument service, $1.75; 2 and 4 years, respectively. Aircraft fireman and dope mixer, workmen, $1.73; 2 years.

Apply as a first-class category employee in the Department of the Navy, U.S. Civil Service Region, 611 Washington Street, New York, N.Y., or MartinT. Walsh, executive secretary, Board of U.S. Civil Service Examiners, Hempstead, N.Y. Age limits are 18 to 37 but do not apply to veterans. No closing date has been announced.

Substitution for Experience

For some positions completion of courses in CSSA approved aircraft schools may be substituted for experience in aircraft repair. Air Force, Naval, or Army schools may be approved for some of the experience.
Applications will be received until Monday, September 29, by the NYC Board of Education, 110 Lafayette Street, New York City, N. Y., for school clerk and substitute school clerk jobs. Separate applications are required.

The written test will be held during the week of October 13 and will deal with such English, dictation and shorthand subjects as are expected to be completed by the candidate.

The date by which candidates must file separate applications is September 22, 1952.

Applicants may take the written test only after attending the course in preparing for the test in shorthand and typewriting. Applicants are expected to show satisfactory shorthand and dictation performance.

The examination will be held to fill 350 jobs now vacant. There may be, also, a test in public health nurse work. At present such jobs, similar ones located elsewhere, though 25,000 persons are engaged in public health nurse work.

The absence of a promotion resident on the date of the written test was noted. This was taken as an indication that there should be competitive promotion examinations conducted as just indicated, with rosters of eligibles.

(Two weeks prior to the written test the Board of Examiners for the Civil Service Commission, 641 Washington Street, New York City, N. Y., will issue written directions as to how to obtain an appointment).
