8 Civil Service Groups Consider Common Action

ALBANY, Nov. 17 — A working arrangement on specific civil service issues among independent public employee organizations in eight states is in prospect. The proposal was first advanced by William McMonigle, executive assistant to the president of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Common Problems

The success of independent organizations of public employees in all the states lies in the fact that there are many problems common to all and that coordination of ideas is now the practice, because the economic difficulties exist for a plan of closer cooperation. At the present time, each organization would manage its own affairs without action of its own.

Talks to Continue

The New Jersey Civil Service Association, through its executive director, announced that a group of national and other New York State groups would work out a common system of labor relations.

Governor Meets CSEA Representatives on Pay; Talk Deemed "Satisfactory"

ALBANY, Nov. 17 — Representatives of the Civil Service Employees Association and the State administration met last week for the purpose of discussing the CSEA proposals, but nothing except the payment of a Governor T. Norman Hurd and Civil Service Commissioner J. Edward Conway represented the State. The case for the employees was presented by CSEA President Joseph B. McFarland, counsel John T. DeGriff and Assistant Counsel John Holt-Harris.

The meeting indicated that the administration defined the problem as one to be solved by legislation and that it would not be discussed further.

Expect Plan on Social Security

ALBANY, Nov. 17 — The State Comptroller's special committee to study the social security fund for civil service employees has scheduled its third meeting for Tuesday, November 19, at the Comptroller's office.

The meetings held to date have been "far from orderly in nature," a spokesman for the Department said.

Each policyholder who is entitled to more insurance as of October 25, 1952, will not only find another two pages of outstanding values but the Cost of Items They Seek.

Mid-State Employees Meet Solons

ULTICA, Nov. 17 — A meeting of the Civil Service Employees Association chapter in the Utica area will be held tomorrow evening, November 18, at 8 p.m. at Westwood American Legion, 110 Main Street, Whitesboro.

Economists Lose Confidence

ALBANY, Nov. 17 — The appeal by economists for an increase in the State's payroll through the Federal Government has been followed by a drop in consumer confidence.

Mr. Kelly said that the denial was "for the time being." He added that it is possible that some of the lies suggested by the announcement of the decision is that Mr. Kelly will propose some other grading plan.

SPECIAL NOTICE — CSEA Life Insurance Policyholders

"DON'T REPEAT THIS"

If you are entitled to a higher amount of insurance effective November 1, 1952, based on your gross salary as of that date, the premium deduction from your salary for the pay period ending October 21 will be increased to pay the higher amount of insurance in effect.

Each policyholder who is entitled to a higher amount as of November 1 will receive a "Note," providing the higher amount of insurance in effect.

Please note that the categories and benefits available as of October 21, 1952, may not be increased after that date.

New State Job Rating System Goes into Effect

ALBANY, Nov. 17—State employees will soon receive their first new pamphlet explaining in detail the recent changes in the method of job performance rating which was given initial approval by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

At its last meeting the Civil Service Employees Association Committee on the new plan for all State employees except Mental Hygiene and Firemen said that this latter will continue to be evaluated by the old system until then.

The new system adopted for all other employees was first tried in sections of the Department of Social Welfare for the past 12 months. Those latter will continue to be evaluated by the old system until now.

The new system, adopted by the Civil Service Department, working in conjunction with a special committee of the Civil Service Employees Association, provides for the rating of the individual employee as well as the supervisor interview at which time the employee is given a copy of his rating form indicating why he received the rating in each of the various areas.

The new system has two parts: the formal record and the appraisal that follows the formal record. This latter will continue to be evaluated by the old system until now.

The Civil Service employees association believes that the new system will not only increase the satisfaction of the employees for their work, but that it will result in a more orderly and productive manner of working on the part of the employees and supervisors. The new system will also result in a more equitable and fairer evaluation of the employees performance. The new form will have two purposes: the formal record and the appraisal that follows the formal record. This latter will continue to be evaluated by the old system until now.

Firemen's Heart Bill
It Must Become Law

No one questions the difficulty or the dangers of the fireman's work. Not so well known are the subtle effects of the job—what it does to his heart, his lungs, and his blood vessels, to the inner structures of the body, often in a slow and insidious way eating into the fabric of a man's life.

The State Legislature will receive from the firemen a bill that eminently deserves to be passed, as it was at the last session, and signed by the Governor, as it was not. The bill, fair, honest, and mild, seeks to place into law the concept that heart disease be recognized as a presumptive evidence of a disability incurred in line of duty. The rate of heart disease among the men in the Fire Department is so high as to leave no doubt that it results from the intense physical and emotional impact of the job.

The difference between present procedure and that recommended in the measure is simply this: the burden of proving that either disease of the heart or respiratory tuberculosis were not occupational would fall on the department rather than on the man himself, when a fireman of his good lungs, there is no way at all of compensating him for the heavy debt for uniforms and equipment.

As is the case in the case of the State requires him to wear a uniform, the State must pay the cost of the equipment.

The bill was only recently been signed last year by the NYC Health Department, and not, at the last minute, requested its veto. It might, you see, cost a little money.

Richard H. Knauf suggests that "in all cases where State employees must wear a uniform, the State should in all fairness pay the full cost of the uniform; and not, as is the present custom, make the employees themselves pay for it."

Assemblyman Knauf has a point. The uniform, used solely for service to the public agency, ought to be paid for by the agency. At the present time, the purchase of the uniform is a tax upon the employees for performing a task in which the State requires him to wear a uniform.

The same principle ought to apply to all agencies of government which require special uniform or special tools. For example, it is no more logical in requiring of a fireman to pay for his uniform than to require that he pay for the hose he uses in fighting fires. The revolver which a patrolman uses ought certainly to be the community's property, and not his own. In many cases, the new public employee starts his career saddled with a heavy debt for uniforms and equipment.

To pay for uniforms would of course add a new burden to the cost of running government. But what good reason is there for the employee to bear that burden?

Vet Vacations Explained

P. J. Siew, commander, Four-Horse Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a letter to the Editor of The Leader on September 2, issue, pointed out that in different State institutions differing policies as to accumulated vacation allowance for military service are being practiced. Sometimes, he said, four weeks' vacation is granted on that basis.

The Leader referred the matter to Mr. Schreiber, executive director, State Civil Service Commission, who was informed that the Veterans of Foreign Wars could not be the only group having such policy, and that such vacation allowance should be allowed to all State appointing officers and employees subsequent to his reinstatement in the State Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Schreiber's Reply
Mr. Schreiber wrote that insured employees are allowed four weeks vacation credit to veterans upon their reinstatement in the State Civil Service Commission, following their return from their period of active service, and was informed by Mr. Murray, executive director, that the above-already-granted vacation allowance is in effect, and that four weeks of vacation is allowed to all State appointing officers and employees subsequent to their reinstatement in the State Civil Service Commission.

Disability Pensioners Benefit by Vogel Bill

The Vogel bill to grant supplementary pensions, in amounts not to exceed $300 a year, to retired NYC employees who receive allowances to exceed $600 a year, will be before the Board of Estimate for action at its meeting on Thursday, November 20. Ralph L. Van Houten, former secretary of the NYC Employee Retirement System, will write in support of the bill, which was passed unanimously by the Council.

At first the Retirement System was uncertain whether disability pensioners would be included, but Van Houten has now become convinced that they are.

This is the feeling, announced after the State Law Attorney General Nathan L. Goldstein has ruled that, under the State measure, disability pensioners are covered.

Officially confirmed.

The NTU bill states that to be eligible, among other things, the pensioner must be at least 60 years old, "unless retired for disability." This statement left a doubt whether the limit is intended to apply to disability pensioners. Because they're practically always retired at far lower ages, or whether disability pensioners are intended to be excluded. Pension lawyers who studied the Vogel bill also saw no possibility of the exclusion interpretation.

The LEAPERS last week, as the result of its own study of the bill, stated that disability pensioners are covered. Because of the conflict, the LEAPERS received many telephone calls and letters from worried disability pensioners and thereupon confirmed at the Retirement System that disability pensioners would be included.

Nassau Seeks 200 for Public Works Jobs

John C. Gilbert, of Baldwin, Nassau County Commissioner of Public Works, appealed to men or women residents of the county to apply to his office for jobs in engineering, designing, construction supervision and operational tasks.

"We can just get along with our present staff," he said. "We cannot enlarge our work with the same number of employees, so we are ready to accept applicants for all kinds of positions.

All appointments will be provisional, pending Nassau County civil service exams. But civil service exams draw too few people, he commented.
