Pilgrim State Hospital

Greetings and a comment regarding mental hygiene at Pilgrim State Hospital, appeared in your paper recently. It was presented by Dr. O’Neill.

Delia McMahon, for whom a reception was held in her honor, has been married in the Little Church of Pilgrim. Tuesday afternoon and the following day.

Career services to the public were computed with handiwork and best wishes.

The evening of May 4, the class of '55 of Pilgrim State Hospital had a reunion.

An orchestra, made up of part-time employees, gave a retirement party for Delia McMahon at Manhattan College. The function was held in the Library of the College on the second floor.

Each student was accompanied to the stage by his or her sponsor. They were presented with a traveling cap and chevron. They were promised, if they will plan a retirement party, to have it given by the shop teams. Larry Johnson, secretary, attended a conference in California.

The public relations office representatives and committee chairmen met at 8 a.m. on the floor of the seventh Madison Avenue building. An annual meeting, on May 28th, was held.

The principal speaker, Edward Hubert, president of the Civil Service Employees Union, spoke of the developments and progress in the bargaining picture at Napanoch Institute.

The meetings are attended by a large number of employees who are interested in the negotiations for the next contract.

Mr. Reinhardt also received a promotion to the position of assistant to Gwynne Ross, manager of the National Industrial Relations Association.

The general public is invited to attend as our guest a class session of PILGRIM SERVICE LEADER.

Civil Service Needs Better Exploitation

We have always felt, and often said, that Civil Service Commission don’t do a good promotion job, in selling opportunities abroad. A copy may be obtained free, by addressing the State Civil Service Commission, Governor Alfred E. Smith State Office Building, Albany, N. Y. It would be false witticism to say that this attractive and succinct booklet is worth the price.

We liked, also, the posters that the NYC Civil Service Commission used in advertising the exams for filling header jobs in the Board of Transportation.

The Federal Government gets out some attractive booklets, too, in campaigns at collegiate recruitment, and even gets a spot now and again on television.

Such efforts are laudable. They do not, however, represent attainment. If in private industry one resorted to such scattered efforts at promotion, a busy world would pay little attention to the wares or services one offered.

Not only do individual exams require promotion, but the whole idea of working for the government has to be sold to the public, sold all over again perhaps, because of recent adverse publicity which so unflatteringly hurt public employees and may have had a retarding effect on recruitment.

The Ideal Spot

We would like to make one suggestion. We speak neither from sheer hope nor from mere theory, but from practice, having recently started another publication, “Children’s Times,” on a national scale. Its success arises in Van Cortlandt Park. That’s a good place to hold it, in the clear. There’s room enough, and if there’s only resourcefulness and enthusiasm enough, the police, and the firemen, and the transit workers will be held in the Plaza of City Hall Park.

NYC Jobs Plentiful

Even Amid the Furor

In SPITE of the current fiscal crisis in NYC, which many employees have seen as a threat to job security, the City is continuing to hire permanent personnel. In fact, the very unit which causes the financial furor, the Board of Transportation, is seeking a couple of thousand new employees. So if all one reads are the front-page headlines of the daily press, a wrong impression would result.
Competitive Promotions
In U. S. Service on Way

Promotions in the Federal service, through competitive examinations, are definitely on the way. They may not be ordered this week or next, but the U. S. Civil Service Commission is considering recommendations which, if adopted, would bring that improvement about.

In a talk to the Eastern Regional Conference, Civil Service Assembly, given in Boston, U. S. Civil Service Commissioner George M. Moore listed six objectives. One of them was: "Adoption of an effective and uniform promotion policy within the Federal service."

Incentive from Within

While it would be easy to read too much into that, five U. S. Government departments do make promotions on a competitive basis, though not necessarily department-wide. One of them is the Navy, which has been outstandingly successful with such tests. Also, the brochure, "Building Better Promotion Programs," issued by the Commission's ALBANY, May 18 —Served up on a platter by U. S. Civil Service Examining boards are the results of a series of open-competitive examinations to appointing officers in the Federal Service Department's softball team.

Competitive promotion examinations would markedly improve the diverses and not always definable results obtained under the present laissez-faire promotion practice.
