Bill Calls for Equal Pay Applied to Employees of Counties, Towns, Villages

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—A bill has gone into the State Legislature requiring that all employees of the counties, towns, and districts set up salary plans and merit promotions. The measure is sponsored by the Civil Service Employees Association.

Under existing law the political subdivisions of the State, as distinguished from the State, are not required to provide equal pay.

Annual Schedules

This bill would amend the Civil Service Law to provide that each political subdivision of the State must have a set of annual schedules which would provide more suitable job mobility, salaries, and uniform title classification.

A LEADER PROFILE

The Newsmen Who Became Superintendent of Banks

One thinks of bankers in the familiar image of the rigid gentleman. And one would find it difficult even to imagine that the head of a banking department would be the type of these characteristics.

What a surprise, then, to speak with Mr. John A. Mooney, the Banking Department whom Governor Harriman appointed as the State Banker of New York. He's a newspaperman, talkative and relaxed. He has the gift of saying things that one might not consider personable — probably without the slightest intention of being. He says things as they are, not because the facts show it, but merely because he thinks it. And he is not averse to pointing out the faults in his own section of the senior class.

Mooney, a native of Elmira, is a graduate of Fordham University in New York, where he received a Bachelor of Science degree in economics.

The idea of becoming a banker took root shortly in The LEADER.—Editor)

Javits Sets March 15 Limit For Statement of Outside Interests by Employees

Code of Ethics Opinion Has Wide Impact

ALBANY, Feb. 14.—State Supreme Court Justice Walter J. Javits has announced his intention to set up a committee on ethics to study the code and make recommendations. The code was established by the Assembly in 1914 and last year's LEADER (All Officers to Join State Service in Future).—Mr. Javits said his opinion was based on the fact that the code and the status of employees in the State are not in complete harmony.

For Guidance

If Mooney's opinion is accepted, it will mean a complete change in the work of the State Department of Civil Service. It will mean that the employees of the State Service should accept employment or employment by the State agency to which they are appointed.

The provisions of the code, which states that one may not disclose confidential information to the public, would be made binding upon the employees of the State Service, and the employees of the State Service would be required to take a oath of allegiance to the State and its Constitution.

The legislation does not violate the civil service law to provide that each employee of the State Service is subject to the provisions of the code. The code and the state law are intended to protect the employees of the State Service from the political influence which is exerted upon them by those who are not subject to the provisions of the code.

More Information Should Be Distributed on Social Security

PUBLIC EMPLOYEE interest in retirement, once centered on benefits, has moved on to the problem of the federal government's increased role in providing pensions. If the Social Security Administration is now viewing toward higher life insurance benefits and filling the void of survivorship benefits. The survivors are usually the widow and children, both of whom must have their rights acknowledged. If life insurance provisions, separate from those in the retirement law, are established, as was done last year in the Federal government, the employee should add to the other. It is citizen advisable even to take out additional life insurance, through a company.

Minor Children

The survivorship benefits, although concerning about the same problem as life insurance, are probably more important, because, at least for the widows, would provide a continuing income, for minor children, the benefit normally would cease on children reaching age 18. Further, assuming that the blood counts of several groups of employees may be the most important. The member of a public employees system may provide for his wife, too, on an annuity basis, a valuable choice, but one that simply apportions the purchasing power of the money he puts up, to benefit a surviving beneficiary.

The percentage of retirement at a minimum age is not large. An employee on a pension at age 65 and in retirement age, often finds he can not afford to retire. He may have children in high school or in college; for men, age 65, the employer paid in the previous life. If he can not afford to retire, he certainly can not, so speak, afford to die. The situation is worsened if he dies while in service, because there is no provision for such beneficiaries.

There have been various suggestions of a pension for widow or children of such members, but without any recommendations about what to do if the employer's enrollment is that the employee should.

The present method is one whereby the annuity contributions of retired employees are divided equally a pool. The monthly checks are based on life expectancy. Some persons live beyond the actuarial period, other live a shorter period. The plan so designed helps to do the annuity costs of the long-lived. Social Security provides a measure of protection against that calamity for which the public employee retirement system has no remedy.

Larger Survivorship Benefits

If pensions are not large enough, neither are survivorship benefits. The very idea of uniting Social Security with any public employee retirement system, as was done last year in the Federal government, provides pensions as a much lower cost than a private company can provide, so does higher raises likely to succeed? The fear that once the Federal government gets a foothold in the field of pensions, it would take that system over entirely, a belief that is the least likely. But even for present employees, there is the possibility that the Social Security Administration will make a copy of the Civil Service Retirement System's plan and fill it with administrative details. This would make matter of public record at any time.

9 Appointed to Police

Nine NYC policemen were appointed last week. One was Lawrence Jessup, 21 years old, the day he was appointed. He should not have gotten the job a day sooner, he said, because he has a hunch he’s going to be a policeman.

Only 48 more appointments are to be made, to fill the quota. A few are expected to be made this week.

Iron Curtain Over Civil Servants?

Moves by public officials toward the suppression of news were denounced last week at a meeting of the State Society of Newspaper Editors, in Syracuse. Civil service employees, seeking to present their views as employees, are often curtailed by such officials. Puffy, narrow, self-censoring of files, the employee is simply shut out of the discussions and meetings.

This is to serve notice that The Leader intends to raise its voice, to name names, and fight as hard as it can against those who, whatever the pretext, try to suppress the essential liberties of public employees.

Summerfield and the Postal Workers

It seems to us that Postmaster General Summerfield has already proved that he can be obstinate and stubborn, but at the time he withdrew his former appeal to the Court of Claims to proper pay raise for postal employees—and insistence that any pay increase be held to an increase in postal rates? Much ill will has been engendered in the Post Office Department by Mr. Summerfield’s decision. It has seemed to Congress that it is ready to go along with a higher pay increase that we would accept. We respectfully suggest that he bow out of the pay picture. After all, President America’s labor leader for Public Employees

Harriman’s Actions On Basic Civil Service

Governor Harriman has moved swiftly and effectively to right certain clear-cut and long-standing injustices in the State scene. He took the occasion of a regional meeting of the Civil Service Employees Association to bring his points home, said the Governor.

"One of the glaring defects . . . is the absence of a system throughout the government which will assure that an employee against whom serious charges have been alleged shall have a fair hearing in a fair hearing," the Governor said.

"If the extra pay you draw should be found excess, it will be by a court of appeal, and that it will be reviewed by the court of last resort. If the record is taken, you shall have the right to present your case in the court of last resort," the Governor said.

"In 30 days of clear information and fuller living standards it is the responsibility of the Commission to decide whether there has been a violation of the law. It is not necessary to pass a judgment on an employee in the case of a lower standard because of lower wages paid. It is not necessary to be satisfied that there has been a violation of the law. It is not necessary to be satisfied that there has been a violation of the law."

"The Governor acted this week to have legislation introduced which would accomplish this purpose. The bill," the Governor said, "will provide for a more equitable system of pay and fairness in promotions and advancement."

The Governor also mentioned that he will work to further the cause of the civil service employees in the state, and that he will work for the improvement of the civil service system in the state. He mentioned that he will work for the improvement of the civil service system in the state.
