Harriman Stands By Program, GOP Proposes $17 Million Pay Plan, Two-Hour Work Reduction

Harriman Tells Open House Plan

Governor Averell Harriman announced last Thursday that the State of New York will hold "Open House" throughout every department and agency of the State government during the week of April 25 to May 5. Plans for "Open House Week" were outlined by the Governor in an address at the annual dinner of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Opening Closed Doors

"In the past two years, one of my basic objectives has been to bring our State government closer to the people," Governor Harriman said. "We have been opening closed doors throughout the government. In all kinds of situations, people have been invited to join our discussions and help shape policies. On other occasions we've had public hearings, and I've seen groups on matters important to the people," Governor Harriman said. "I am confident that this year our efforts to secure Social Security coverage will bear fruit. The increase of maximum ordinary death benefits to one full year's salary, which has been proposed by me for some time, will also be achieved. We hope for a fair and equitable arrangement providing vested retirement rights. I am sure your examination of the report of our legislative committee will indicate the efforts being made in detail to secure the improvements in working conditions sought by our Association.

The State Health Insurance Plan is in its final stages. The insurance protection recommended by the Association as contained in the 10-point program approved by our delegates last October is to be provided under this plan in its present form. The Association has spared no effort to accomplish establishment of this plan at the earliest date possible, and we hope that the plan will go into operation at a very early date," he reported.

"We hope for more uniform and fair treatment of employees under the new State Attendance Rules which went into effect on January 3rd. State employees generally are disappointed with the results, and our Association will do its utmost to secure more fair and uniform treatment through more efficient application of the rules or amendments to them," Mr. Powers said.

"We have continued our efforts to improve the handling of grievances and the perfection of grievance machinery in the past year. One thing, however, he has known all along. That's backing. Right now it stands him in good stead. The little man's vote put him into office, and some of his

ALBANY, Feb. 25—An unbilled attraction—The Republican Party—turned out to be the most dramatic event of the Civil Service Employees Association's 47th annual dinner last week.

The GOP version of the H-bomb—a $17,000,000 Salary program for state employees, effective April 1—was detonated as Democratic Governor Averell Harriman was telling hundreds of CSEA delegates he was standing by his early decisions on wages and hours.

Republicain leaders announced that they would whittle another two hours from the 44-hour week of institutional employees.

Harriman's speech on his program was greeted with the excitement stirred up by the news from the GOP, which spread through the audience as the Governor talked.

Full details of the Republican program will be announced shortly.

The story titled "$17 Million News Story" for complete GOP announcement.

Harriman's Reaction

The Governor made only one reference to the Republicans when he said, "It will be glad to have them compete with us when it is in a good cause."

Republican Senator Austin Ervin, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, spoke on the GOP announcement after the Governor left the CSEA dinner to be with Mrs. Harriman for their 25th wedding anniversary.

The Senator received a standing ovation after saying the GOP announcement.

Earlier, the Governor said he would still work towards a 44-hour week for the State's employees.

Text of Speech

Here is the text of Governor Harriman's speech on his program for public employees.

Powers Honored By Syracuse

John F. Powers, president of the Civil Service Employees Association, was given special recognition by the Syracuse Chapter, CSEA, during the annual dinner meeting in Albany last week.

Doris Le Feve, of the chapter, presented Mr. Powers with a plaque, citing the CSEA president for outstanding service to the Association and to the cause of the civil service employee.

The presentation took Mr. Powers by surprise and his astonishment as delighted the delegates who heard and heard when he accepted the recognition.
Legislature Grapples With the Problems of State Security Risk Law

ALBANY, Feb. 25—The State Security Risk Law should be allowed to lapse on its expiration date, June 30, the New York Civil Liberties Union urged the State Legislature. The law was enacted was to be effective for one year, which Whitelaw Reid is chairman, stress put on security positions, in the present sessions of the legislature. The law was to be continued, but amended, with the stress put on security positions, and the attempt abandoned to designate security agencies. Governor Harriman appointed the committee because of many conflicting recommendations he had received concerning the operation of the law.

Two Bills Introduced

Two bills have been introduced in the present sessions of the Legislature, Senator Frewin's bill would continue the law for another year, while Assemblyman Haggerty's bill would eliminate the law and provide for hearings to applicants who may have been denied appointment for security reasons. The present law provides that no person may be employed in security positions in the state or any municipal government if reasonable grounds exist for the belief that, because of doubtful trust and reliability, his employment would endanger the security or defense of the nation and the state. The Civil Liberties Union says that the law is unnecessary, especially as the emergency that existed when it was enacted has long since passed. The union adds that more and more positions are being filled by persons who do not meet the law's terms, instead of the few positions originally intended. Existing other laws, the union declares, are adequate for the handling of any version cases.

Reid Committee Continues Work

The Reid Committee's study is continuing, as the subject-matter is broad, involving many departments and agencies. The committee reports that the State Civil Service Commission has designated 20 agencies in the State government as security agencies, or as having security positions. One of the objectives of the union is to determine the necessity and desirability of the Security Risk Law. The committee continues:

The Civil Liberties Union calls the appointment of the Reid Committee the first serious effort to determine the necessity and desirability of the Security Risk Law. The union continues:

"While the Civil Liberties Union agrees with the committee's statement that a proper measure of a security position under the law would be whether the employee has access to material classified as top secret or top secret by the federal government, it claims that there is no need for a state security risk program to cover such employees, since they would have to be cleared by the federal government in any event."

Sharper Focus Asked

The union also doubted the advisability of seeking clearance to try to prevent sabotage in some unpredictable future war.

"The few classifications of positions in which there is such an extraordinary opportunity for sabotage should be specified by the Legislature, and a procedure devised especially for them," says a pamphlet issued by the union.

Text of Speech

"On many occasions, I have said that I want to make New York State, as far as possible, a model employer. I am gratified that we are taking two important and significant steps forward this year which will add substantially to the security of our state workers.

"The long and complicated job of preparing a comprehensive health insurance plan for state employees is nearly completed. In about a week, Commissioner Pahl tells me, the massive material needed to compute cost proposals will be sent to some 30,000 insurance carriers. Let me tell you some of the particularly important steps in the development of this program. There will be coverage for surgical services and for physicians' services in the hospital, at home or at the doctor's. To protect you and your families from the ruinous costs of major illnesses or accidents, protection will be provided up to $7,500 in any one year, or $15,000 in a lifetime.

"This splendid plan will put our state employees at long last on a footing equal to or even better than employees of private industry. We are putting into effect a number of fringe benefits. The State of New York is one of the first to take such steps as hospitals to the lowest bidder, maximum 40 hour work week for municipal police and we will do our best to seek its enactment into law.

"Since our Annual Meeting last October, we have made good progress on our payroll dues deduction program for our State Division and we hope in the near future that this arrangement can be extended to our members employed by the political subdivisions. If our efforts to attain greater membership strength can be sustained throughout the balance of the current membership year, we can easily exceed a 75,000 grand total membership.

"Our group insurance programs continue to grow as we number of members insured and as to insurance protection and benefits provided to such members.

"The spirit of unity, willingness, and cooperation, which is necessary to the maintenance of a strong organization, prevails throughout CSEA. Our committee members and officers work without pay, giving unselfishly of their time and effort for the good of their fellow public employees. Many of them contribute freely of their time on duty and vacation periods. We take this opportunity to again extend the appreciation of all of our membership to those unselfish stalwarts who carry the great burden to promote and carry out the programs for our members." Mr. Powers said.

Welfare Salary Bill

"We have had several meetings with a committee of Welfare Commissions and worked with them on the question of the increase of health insurance. This is as great an advance in the area of health insurance as has ever been made in two years."

"The current year was notable in another respect, too. We broke the 48 hour week, cutting four hours from the work week with no reduction in pay, of more than 22,000 employees. I state tonight as I did a year ago — my cost to a maximum 40 hour week for all state employees just as it is. We still have to fight."

"It is encouraging to hear that a year after enactment of this subject, the Republican leaders are at last giving it its attention. We can be glad that they are evidently beginning to see the light. I like to have the Republican leaders compete with me when it's in a good cause.

"We are moving ahead in other ways too. You know that I am interested in strengthening the merit system and enlarging the competitive class. The bill is hard to fry on the latest move in that direction. Yesterday I approved a resolution placing the position of forest ranger in the competitive class. Of the 152 forest ranger jobs, 118 are permanently filled. This means that 172 more employees will from this day have the benefits that go with service in the competitive class. Within the next month, two groups of employees will start preliminary counseling courses. Few em

The estimated General Fund cost of salary increases and work week reduction is $17 million.

The decision for a graduated salary increase is based on the recognition that the State of New York is competing with other employers for personnel. Unless its salary levels for the State of New York is competitive, the State is in danger of failing to retain and attract qualified candidates for the various positions in the State service.
Promotions in Parks Without Any Exam Voided By Court

Seventeen employees of the New York City Parks Department were denied a decision in New York County to be done through competitive examination what the law requires to accomplish by transfer and without any opportunity of competing in a promotional examination.

Leader Editorial Quote

They contended that 28 Park Department employees, who held similar and subordinate titles were "promoted" without examination and with an increase in salary to the positions of park director, assistant park director, director of golf courses, director of concessions, director of mechanical equipment, and assistant director of maintenance and operations.

Park Commissioner Robert Moses claimed the dismissals were "purely a matter of evaluation of the employee's experience, background, leadership, initiative and ability.

Quoting from an editorial in The Leader, the petitioners contended that "it is no defense, in effect, to create new higher positions without reference to civil service law and regulations, and to fill these positions by promotion without holding examinations; and also to promote to a superior civil service position those who have not taken an examination for that position. All of these positions can be filled by examination, and they should be filled by examination."

Three of the 28 jobs are affected by special circumstances, but still requiring an examination, the court held.

The successful petitioners are Philip F. Carolan, Jacob Goldman, Fred Catlin, John Costello, Morris Benowitz, Edgar Kehlberg, Ciro D'Andrea, Emanuel Klaiber, Herbert Windmill, George Mannina, Richard Chastanion, Harry H. Martin, Austin T. Sattler, James Farrel, Harold Bernstein and Anthony Calveth. They are at present in charge of park operations.

WHAT IS the connection between disability benefits under Social Security and vocational rehabilitation? J. V. O. T.

If you apply for a disability insurance benefit, a disability free, or disabled child's benefit, your name will be placed on a national rehabilitation agency in your state. That agency may be able to provide rehabilitation services that will help you prepare for and find suitable work. To assist the rehabilitation agency in determining your work capacity, whether rehabilitation services can be provided, the agency will review your medical records. It is your responsibility to cooperate with the agency and to provide them with any information that they need in order to determine your work capacity.

IF A WIDOW remarries, does she lose the Social Security benefit she received on her first husband's account? If so, how does the law of the new state affect her eligibility for Social Security?

If a widow remarries, she may continue to receive the Social Security benefit she received on her first husband's account. Whether she is eligible to receive benefits will depend on the requirements of the state where she is living. The law of the state where she is living may affect her eligibility for Social Security.

Widow Taxed on Full Pension: First Ruling of Its Kind

ARLINGTON, Va., Feb. 15—The Virginia Department of Taxation has notified Mrs. Evelyn R. Bruns, widow of a civilian employee of the Army, that she must pay an inheritance tax on her husband's full pension expectancy, a ruling that may affect any level of government that has so far, as records show, attempted to tax future pensions.

Mrs. Bruns was incensed when she received the news. Her protest was to no avail. She did not like the ruling. She replied that she could not afford a court battle to resist because to impose a tax would defeat the very purpose of the pension system.

But Mr. Bruns spoke of invoking the Virginia General Assembly to amend the State tax law, to provide specifically that widows' pensions shall be exempt from inheritance taxation.

Gov't Takes a Hand

Governor Takes a Hand

The widow enlisted the aid of Representative Joel T. Broyhill (R. Va.), who protested to Governor Stanley W. Knight that the State Tax Department was misinterpreting the tax law. The Governor promised to see that prompt action was taken to the contrary, meanwhile suggesting that the lawmaker write to the Commissioner of Revenue for a review of the decision.

James A. Campbell, president, American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO, that his union would make a test case in court out of the widow's appeal.

 Officials of the Commission said that the law has been on the books for many years, but that this is the first attempt to enforce its provisions.

Time to Wake Up

The fact that prospective applicants stay away in droves from New York City police examinations should be proof enough that the salary is too low. It's $77 a week, to start, and after three years rises to a little over $100 a week. In other years that might have been fine, but not now. The whole scale is too low, the starting pay particularly so.

In other years that might have been fine, but not now. The whole scale is too low, the starting pay particularly so.

In the written test held on February 16 last, 1,875 candidates were not even interested enough to show up, although they had gone to the trouble to apply, and had paid their examination fee. There were 9,367 candidates originally, so about 20 percent quit without even trying. The inducements of private industry and other public jurisdictions were too much.

How Low Can You Dare Go?

As if this were not bad enough, the 9,367 constituted the smallest number ever to apply for the patrolman test which, in recent memory would attract around 40,000, and in 1956 drew only 13,000 applicants. Thus the City has hit the bottom of the barrel, not only by obliterating the smallest number of police candidates in its history, but in suffering the largest percentage of absences to start, and after three years rises to a fifteen-cent increase. The new budget is in the early stages of preparation, and the Police Department is already hit by a mileage rate, that is, wages equal to those paid in the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The duties of a special officer are all the more onerous because the person concerned is placed in circumstances which make him not back him up when called upon to do so. The special officers are perceived by the public today to carry arms for self-protection, but the Welfare Department refuses to permit it. We are asked to be social workers, and in that work must take a back seat.

Several special officers and social investigators have been arrested recently for falls-back, Hair-pulling, face-slapping and vile language must be faced often. A man who has been so seriously and viciously required to wear a uniform; now he is asked to buy one costing him from $135 to $160, toward the cost of which the Department of Welfare is going to assist.

Social investigators employed by the Welfare Department may have had their suspicions swirled in by the Police Department as special officers, until the latter investigated their activities and exposed them. Psychiatric Social Workers, Assistants Want Higher Grade

The psychiatric social worker and assistants have put an appeal before the Division of Classification and Compensation requesting reallocation of their positions from Grade 11 to Grade 14 and Grade 5 to Grade 10, respectively. These social workers contend that the salaries for these positions are too low and that this is causing serious recruitment problems. They also pointed out that the relationship of this position to other positions in the fields of occupational therapy and recreation worked to the disadvantage of these social workers.

Other psychiatric social workers and apprentice social workers also seek higher pay.

Deadline Extended For Joining Group Life Plan

The deadline for applying for CSEA Group Life Insurance has been extended through Tuesday, March 5. Those who are under age 65 and have not previously been rejected for this insurance may apply without taking a medical examination.

Who Is Available
Applications must be signed while the employee is actually at work and must be received at CSEA Headquarters, 8 Elk Streets, Albany, not later than March 5, 1957. This offer is available to members of the Association or eligible employees who join the CSEA Group Life Plan. The CSEA Group Life Plan is now available to employees of the State, to employees of the counties of Westchester, Chemung and Ste. Lawrence, and the cities of White Plains, Newburgh, Ogdensburg and Potsdam.

Many extra benefits have been added to the CSEA Group Life Plan without increase in cost to insured members. Additional insurance amounting to 39 per cent of the face amount of coverage took effect on November 1, 1956. Double indemnity for accidental death was also added. Waiver of premium in the event of total and permanent disability commencing before age 65 is also provided for all employees whose insurance is under $8.

The cost of CSEA Group Life Insurance is very low—13 cents per week per thousand of insurance for insured members 29 years or younger with proportionately lower cost for older employees. Applications for CSEA Group Life Insurance may be secured from Headquarters, 8 Elk Street, Albany, New York.

Six Tax Aides Facing Investigation Resign

ALBANY, Feb. 25—Resignation of six state tax collectors just prior to removal charges being placed against them has turned the spotlight on state pay levels.

The six deputies, all working out of State Tax Department offices in New York City, resigned following an investigation of charges they allegedly had collected "unauthorized fees" from taxpayers.

Tax Commissioner George M. Bragalini disclosed the resignations saying many taxpayers had paid "phony service charges running from $2 to $5" to the collectors. The state pays tax collectors a starting salary of only $3,600 a year.

Mr. Bragalini said there was no evidence the state had been defrauded of a single cent of tax money.

The investigation started when a taxpayer called Commissioner Bragalini and indignantly demanded to know why the Tax Department would not accept a postal money order, asserting that a tax collector had returned the money order and insisted on cash.

Mr. Bragalini, a former postmaster for New York City, affirmed his faith in postal money orders and began a searching inquiry, covering returns of 1,500 taxpayers, which established a pattern of unauthorized payments to the six collectors who are no longer collectors.

The victimized individuals were persons who had failed to file state income tax returns required by law or who were delinquent in tax payments. In most all of the cases the individuals actually owed no tax because their exemptions exceeded income.

The inquiry showed that the collectors had told the individuals they would have to pay a "service charge" to the collector for making out their return. The collectors then allegedly pocketed the money.

Nils Olsen Dead

Nils Olsen, charter member and former third vice president of Nassau chapter, CSEA, died February 21. Mr. Olsen, of North Bellmore, L.I., was very active in the group.

Social Security News, comments, questions, answers appear regularly in The Leader.

John F. Powers, CSEA president, and Joseph Felly, first vice president, were snapped as they discussed a point during the CSEA Special Delegates Meeting in Albany last week.

Harriman Proposes Open House Plan at Dinner

of special concern to them," said Governor Harriman.

"Now we are taking another step. For the first time, to my knowledge, in the history of any state, we are going to have "Open House." During the week of April 29 to May 5, all of our citizens will have the opportunity to come in and see how we public servants have been keeping house for them. This will give them a chance to see what we are doing in their interest, and how we are doing it. And they're going to have a chance to give us their reactions because there will be a suggestion box at every office, and I hope out of this we'll get some good ideas on how to do a better job," he said.

So The Public Will Know

"I hope the people will get an understanding of the fine things being accomplished and, most im-tant of all, of the people who are working for them. The State has more than 500 offices and institutions spread throughout our 62 counties. The welcome mat will be out everywhere—at our great hospitals, our college campuses, our police barracks and our national guard armories, our game farms, our laboratories, our offices and institutions of all types that help us provide a service to the people that I believe is unequalled by any other state in our country.

"Many of you will be called on to help directly in showing people around, in presenting films, lectures and demonstrations that will make the public aware of the state's public institutions. All of you can take part by being helpful and courteous to every visitor. The railroad I used to work for had the slogan, 'The passenger's always right.' With us, it will be the taxpayer who's right. I know it will be as rewarding an experience for you as it will be for our visitors. I know I can count on your full cooperation," said Governor Harriman.

THREE NAMED TO INSURANCE BOARD

ALBANY, Feb. 23—Governor Harriman has sent the names of three state residents to the State Senate for confirmation as memers of the State Insurance Board.

The appointments include William A. Shae, of Brooklyn, Paul H. Betty, of Monroe, and Angelo J. Martino, of Glen Cove.

DELEGATES CONDUCT ASSN. BUSSINESS

JOHN AND JOE DISCUSS A POINT

John F. Powers, CSEA president, and Joseph Felly, first vice president, were snapped as they discussed a point during the CSEA Special Delegates Meeting in Albany last week.

Harriman Proposes Open House Plan at Dinner

of special concern to them," said Governor Harriman.

"Now we are taking another step. For the first time, to my knowledge, in the history of any state, we are going to have "Open House." During the week of April 29 to May 5, all of our citizens will have the opportunity to come in and see how we public servants have been keeping house for them. This will give them a chance to see what we are doing in their interest, and how we are doing it. And they're going to have a chance to give us their reactions because there will be a suggestion box at every office, and I hope out of this we'll get some good ideas on how to do a better job," he said.

So The Public Will Know

"I hope the people will get an understanding of the fine things being accomplished and, most imp-tant of all, get to know the fine people who are working for them.

"The State has more than 500 offices and institutions spread throughout our 62 counties. The welcome mat will be out everywhere—at our great hospitals, our college campuses, our police barracks and our national guard armories, our game farms, our laboratories, our offices and institutions of all types that help us provide a service to the people that I believe is unequalled by any other state in our country.

"Many of you will be called on to help directly in showing people around, in presenting films, lectures and demonstrations that will make the public aware of the state's public institutions. All of you can take part by being helpful and courteous to every visitor. The railroad I used to work for had the slogan, 'The passenger's always right.' With us, it will be the taxpayer who's right. I know it will be as rewarding an experience for you as it will be for our visitors. I know I can count on your full cooperation," said Governor Harriman.

THREE NAMED TO INSURANCE BOARD

ALBANY, Feb. 23—Governor Harriman has sent the names of three state residents to the State Senate for confirmation as mem-
ers of the State Insurance Board.

The appointments include William A. Shae, of Brooklyn, Paul H. Betty, of Monroe, and Angelo J. Martino, of Glen Cove.
