Way Cleared For Returned Aides
To Obtain Social Security On
Rejoining Retirement System

Levitt Obtains Ruling to Help
Older Employees

ALBANY, Aug. 19—State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced today that at his request the Federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare has revised its Social Security rulings to allow public employees who have retired and returned to employment to obtain Social Security coverage and to benefit from the retroactive provisions of the State Social Security law. Under the new rulings employees who have retired and returned to work as temporary employees may have Social Security coverage for their active employment during the retroactive period if they rejoin the New York State Employees Retirement System. Employees who were eligible to join the Retirement System but did not do so after the beginning of the retroactive period and employees who were ineligible to join the Retirement System but who have become eligible for membership due to a change of circumstance will also benefit from the rulings. They will be given Social Security credit for the entire retroactive period providing they are members of the Retirement System at the time the contracts between the State and Federal governments are signed.

Levy Was in Doubt

Prior to the new rulings there has been serious question about the eligibility of any employee who has retired within the retroactive period for coverage for employment before retirement. For example, until this new ruling was received an employee who retired March 1, 1957 because he reached the mandatory retirement age who returned to work immediately as a temporary employee would only have been entitled to Social Security coverage for the time he worked after March 1. Now, if he rejoins the Retirement System he may be credited with his entire employment within the retroactive period.

Some Risk Involved

Mr. Levitt urged all those persons affected by the rulings to consider rejoining the Retirement System. He said, "If they do so, and if they are members of the Employees’ Retirement System when the Federal-State agreement is signed they will receive Social Security credit for their active employment during the retroactive period. He cautioned, however, that "every member who rejoins the retirement system takes a risk and all of the people who consider this action should be aware of it. Any retired employee who rejoins the system and who dies before he is able to finance his Social Security credit and retire again, may incur serious financial loss for his family." Social Security credit for the retroactive period is available only to those employees who were employed at the time the Federal-State contracts are signed. This retroactive credit is for the time within that period which the person has been actively employed.

These changes were made at a conference held with representatives of various local governmental associations and the Civil Service Employees' Association. At the meeting the Comptroller recommended that sympathetic consideration be given to returning retired employees so that they may benefit from these new rulings. He pointed out that it was not necessary that they be employed in their former positions. It is necessary that they be employed in positions which allow retirement system membership.

Powers in Attendance

Attending the meeting as representatives of their organizations were:

Edward Uda, Executive Secretary, Association of Towns of the State of New York; Clarence Chamberlain, Executive Director, County Officers Association of New York; Addison Malloy, Executive Secretary, New York State Conference of Mayors; John Powers, President New York State Conference of Mayors; John Powers, President New York State Conference of Mayors; Edward Dyer, Executive Director, School Boards Association.

CONSULTANT NAMED

On Historic Sites

ALBANY, Aug. 19—Dr. Marvin A. Bagg, associate executive dean of Cornell University’s colleges and technical and agricultural institutes of the State University, has been named consultant for the joint Legislative Committee on Preservation and Restoration of Historic Sites. The appointment was announced by Assemblywoman Mildred P. Taylor, chairman.

Pardon Our Blushing

The LEADER was naturally delighted this week when it received a high compliment from the Federal Social Security Administration on the excellence and accuracy of its reporting, comment and correspondence on Social Security subjects. The correspondence consists mostly of answers it publishes to questions of general interest; many queries of only special interest are answered by mail.

In addition, the Social Security Administration acknowledged that through The Leader, from 100 to 300 requests each week are received for the free Social Security booklet. An advertisement appearing this week on page 7 tells how to get this booklet.

The official commendations of coverage of the technical subject included the statement that on subjects affecting state law, the Federal officials consult copies of The Leader that contain its view on the subject.
U. S. Offers Hundreds Of Jobs to Engineers At Up to $223 a Week

The Federal government has issued a new and urgent call for hundreds of engineers. It emphasized that more qualified engineering opportunities as well as the promotion prospects. Engineers of every background and inexperienced candidates will be hired. Pay ranges from $400 to $1,610 a day.

"The government," said the announcement, "employs some $800 million in engineering throughout the country; about 10,000 of those are employed in the District of Columbia, D.C. area. More than 50 agencies in this area utilize the services of professional engineers in the variety of engineering fields."

Professional assignment may be in any one of the following specialized fields: aeronautical, agricultural, architectural, biomedical, civil, mechanical, mining, naval, petroleum, radio, railroad, railroad electrification, and telephone engineering. Pay varies from $250 to $350.

For positions from grade GS-8 through GS-12, those who do not have a degree in engineering will be required to pass a written test to determine the adequacy of their technical engineering experience and education in a private study. The test is designed to measure the applicant's knowledge of fundamental technical and professional sciences underlying professional engineering sciences and engineering principles, and in many cases, the branch of engineering for which it is being applied. The test will not be required of senior engineering students, persons who have already passed this same test, those currently served as a Professional Engineer by any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia, or persons qualified for grades GS-11 through GS-15.

You must also have had professional engineering experience, as follows, for appointment to the specified grade:

- GS-5 to GS-7: None
- GS-8 to GS-9: $4,480
- GS-10 to GS-11: $6,115
- GS-12 to GS-15: $8,990
- GS-13, 14, 15: $8,990 to $6,115

Graduate Study Counts

For grade GS-12 and above, at least one year of your experience must have been in the specialized branch of engineering for which you apply. Six months of specialized experience is required for positions at grade GS-7.

Your professional experience must show marked ability and attainment in your specialized field of engineering appropriate for the grade of the position for which you wish to be considered.

Graduate study in engineering or in closely related fields may be substituted for all or part of the required experience depending on the grade of the position.

General Requirements

You must be a United States citizen or one allegiance to the United States, and be physically able to perform the duties of the position to which you are appointed.

If you are a student and plant to complete your senior year or required graduate study within the next 6 months, you may apply now. You will be appointed graduate study to complete your course work, but you may not enter on duty until the program of study is completed.

This examination replaces several individual engineer positions. It also incorporates new requirements. Therefore, it may be necessary for some candidates currently on eligible lists to apply again. Those candidates will be notified.

New York City will open its next examination for filling housing officer jobs under more auspicious circumstances than ever before. This salary is on the way toward being raised, and there is a plan afoot to increase the size of the force. Also under consideration is the assignment of police titles, and the creation of supervisory positions that would increase promotion opportunities.

Applications will be received in October and the written test tentatively set for Saturday, February 8.

While the examination has always proved popular, lately the Housing Authority has had to can- cels an abnormally large number of eligibles before it could gin ap- plicants. This condition is expected to change, in connection with the eligibles remaining on the present list, and those who will be on the forthcoming and superseding list, because of the pay improvement.

Pay
Prospects

The present pay ($4,335, or nearly $174 a week, rising to $4,380, $82 a week, through annual increments. The salary scale is that of grade 7 under the Career and Salary Plan, 4570-14,830, but appointments are made at $4,335 because that pay was advertised in the examination announcement.

As an example of how fast the present list is moving: 50 appointments are now being filled. It is expected that appointments in the Custodial, Labor, and Fire departments will go on needing on the services. Since the service is destined for expansion, the job opportunities are expected to increase consider- ably.

The Housing Authority has rec- ommended that pay start at $4,300 ($84), as of January 1, 1964, with an annual increment of $850. In the Federal entrance examination held until at least October, New Jersey, called 1,051 candidates, covering New York and dates, of whom 626 were from the same name repeated because various agencies had vacancies in the same specialty.

The tests were largely in the following titles: investigator, Civil Service Commission, election examiner, tax collector, labor economist, librarian, evaluation and methods examiner, personnel assistant, and post-reception.

The test is open to qualified U.S. citizens. Although semiprofessional and technical jobs are filled to the Department of Hospitals and as they are expected to be continued with only minor changes, when a fresh start is made in the fall.

If Your Eyesight Isn't Right You May Not Be Right for the Job

In the coming year, hundreds of public employees will be preparing themselves for promotional examinations. Thousands of others will be taking tests to enter public service for the first time.

In both promotion and entrance tests, the physical examination sections of the test ranks high, particularly in the case of office workers and other employees.

Furter and present employees should exercise the greatest care in presenting themselves in the proper physical condition and this is particularly true in regards to eyes.

Most physical defects or deteriorations are obvious but weakening eyes are often neglected because one feels that it is merely a temporary condition or "something that can be taken care of later." Don't make either of these mistakes.

Get your eyes in shape for the sake of your promotion as well as for your life.

And don't make the mistake of thinking you can figure out the condition by yourself.

Get an appointment with the nearest oculist or ophthalmologist and correct yourself against future failure in your physical examinations.

Your eyesight is one of your most valuable tools. Don't abuse it!

Questions, Please

I RECENTLY was asked for the medical examination for an investigator. It has been more than six months since the examination was given. Will appointments be made soon? What are eligibility chances for appointment? **

The list has not yet been established. For the February examination, 748 applied and 456 passed and 147 failed. Failure notices were mailed out on July 17. The list will be established soon and certifications mailed to various city Departments. If you have not received a failure notice your name will be on the list. However, since the medical examinations were given as recently as July 30, the Civil Service Commission has not had much time to prepare the list. The appointment prospects for an investigation list -disenrolled from social investigator - are fair. But expanding sales tax investigation promises improved prospects.

Merit Man
City Enriched By Gift Of Talent From Chas. Silver

The Leader's Merit Man of the week is a highly successful business man who works hardest at a job that doesn't pay him more than a dollar a year.

He is a man who says he "never learned the art of playing," yet he devotes a great deal of his talents and energy toward providing the children of the poorer section of New York with sufficient recreation.

Westchester Has Answer

RECRUITMENT is the bane of public service today and government on all levels has devoted many words to the causes of inability to attract personnel to public employment.

These words are, in the main, wasted because none of the phrasing contains the two words which would solve the majority of recruitment difficulties—"adequate salary."

During the ordinary year, this newspaper is the recipient of notice after notice from government agencies on various levels offering careers in public service. Often these notices are accompanied by an appeal for this newspaper to lend a hand in helping the particular agency acquire sorely needed help.

To these many levels of government service we wish to draw attention to Westchester County, which has solved its personnel problem in a direct and simple way.

Recently, the County’s Board of Supervisors voted nearly a million dollars in raises for its employees. Last year, the same board voted three-quarters of that amount. In raising board approval of both was unanimous and not even argued.

said County officials: "It is the only means by which the County can compete with private industry for personnel. It is the only means by which we can hold the valued workers whom we have."

It is as simple as that. Mr. Budget Director, Mr. Executive Officer and Mr. Bureau Head.

The labor supply in America is constantly getting tighter. There is only one way to get help. Pay for it.

A tall, handsome, prepossessing man with a 35-year-old career behind him, Mr. Silver has lost none of the energy, drive and dynamic spirit that enabled him to rise from the rank of office boy to that of vice president of the American Woolen Co.

He now devotes this massive talent to the service of the people of New York.

Little-Known Facts About Social Security

If husband and wife are both working in jobs covered by Social Security, each may retire on a separate pension, when qualified. In other words, there would be the two separate pensions mentioned above.

There is a prevalent notion that it is impossible for both to draw pensions on their own accounts.

If the working man's social security earnings history is that at or over $2,000, the separate retirements, each under its own individual coverage, may double the pension payable to one worker.

The maximum benefit now is about $1,000 a year, so the retirement on the separate-card basis would yield about $600 a week total. But if her average pay is low compared to her husband, even though she may start her had she could retire at 62 even if her husband is still working, though at the reduced benefit.

In addition, the wife who has a card of her own has disability retirement coverage, whereas the husband’s card does not.

It is assumed there are no children, and no parents who could be prospective beneficiaries, either. If there are such dependents, then, too, they too provide a problem, because there is no telling what the salaries of husband or wife will be in the future, and by having coverage assured from two cards, instead of one, neither husband nor wife may have the benefit of having earnings on both cards since earnings of a husband who's retired may reduce or stop his pension, a wife retired on her own card is not subject to that pecuniary handicap.

The assumption must not be made that if a husband and wife are in covered employment, or self-employed, that they have a choice to go on with Social Security or drop it. While at present public employees of New York State and city employees have the privilege of accepting or rejecting Social Security for themselves personally, nobody being forced into it, in private industry Social Security coverage is obligatory for employees, and for those hired by the State or its communities in the future, who fail within the groups for which Social Security was authorized by law and voted by employees, it will be obligatory, too.

Another misconception is that persons who are already retired under Social Security do not have to make supplementary payments because any of job held during retirement, even under covered employment, or self-employment on earnings of at least $400 a year. Anybody in covered employment has to pay a Social Security tax. A possible benefit from the supplementary payments is that on "second retirement," the pension may be refigured, and could be larger.

The idea of establishing Social Security was to provide for retirement and survivors benefits for the median and lower-paid. Therefore no tax was imposed on any part of salary in excess of an exempt amount. From 1951 to 1954 the figure was $3,600; after 1954 it is $4,200. The present tax rate is 2½ per cent. Therefore the maximum tax on any individual or employer, for any one employee, whose both pay equally, is $85.50 a year at present rates. The rates are scheduled to rise, but there have been instances of Congress postponing a previously voted increase. There is less likelihood of postponement now than then, because of the demands for larger benefits and earlier retirement age.

How does the amount of taxes paid compare with the benefits one may possibly get.

The complete answer would require a full discussion of Social Security benefits. But at least it is clear that the older person can benefit most because the older ones are nearer 65.

The required number of quarters depends on age. The rule for persons retiring at age 65 is that they must have 40 quarters of coverage in 1956 and reaching 65 in the second quarter of 1956 could retire then after having paid in only $250.25.

If his average pay was $4,200 or more, he gets $1,200 pension, and his benefit would be an actuarial value of more than $20,000. And in the case of survivor benefits after a member with a pension dies, the earnings of the surviving spouse or children, the actuarial benefit could rise to $30,000. In that case he would be younger than the other man taken as an example, and in this case the same, but still the benefit compares as a windfall to a drop of water.

One frequent question is, Who do I have to do to receive Social Security benefits? Qualify for them. Apply for them. No application, no benefit.

Ten Frequently Asked Questions Of Social Security Benefits

When an insured worker dies, a lump-sum death payment may be paid under Social Security, between $100 and $250. Application must be filed no later than the second anniversary of the wageearner's death.

Survivor benefits on a deceased wage earner's account may be paid to his dependent parents or parents. A necessary part of the parent's eligibility is proof of support. The time allowed for the filing of a support application, whether the parent is eligible at the date of death, is two years from the date of death. This time limit is involved in monthly benefits to be paid to the dependent parent.

Important Dates

For disabled workers, June 30, 1958 is a date to bear in mind. A period of disability may be retroactive as far back as 1941. After June 30, 1958, the required number of quarters may be one year. Failure to report disability before that date could result not only in loss of disability benefits, but insured status as well.

Definitions for benefits, whether original or subsequent, in many cases, cover retroactive periods on which benefits may be paid. Later filing could mean a loss of benefits.

QUESTIONS-ANSWERED

I WILL BE 65 in July, 1958 and plan to retire at that time. I expect to be receiving a pension of $150 a month. Will this money affect my Social Security pension benefits?—E.E.

No. Only earnings from employment and self-employment will affect your monthly benefit.

I HAVE worked in New York for the past 22 years. I plan to move to Florida shortly after I retire. Do I have to come back here to file my application for benefits?—F.J.B.

No. You may file your application for benefits in Florida.

I HAVE WORKED in employment covered by Social Security for about eight years. Several months ago I had an accident which prevents me from working at my old job. However, I have rather good health, I really do want to be working. Am I eligible for disability benefits under Social Security law?—P.L.

You are eligible for disability benefits only if you are not able to engage in any substantial work and your disability is expected to be of long continued duration. You are not eligible if you are fit or temporarily disabled.

BOTH MY WIFE and I are over 65. However, I have not worked in the past few years, as I am in poor health. She has a Social Security card. My wife is working but plans to retire shortly. Am I eligible for any benefits on her Social Security record?—D.O.

If a husband can show that he is dependent upon his wife for at least one-half of his support then he may qualify for monthly benefits on her wage record. This amount is one-half of her benefit. For example, if your wife is entitled to $80.50 a month, your benefit would be $40.25.

HOW MUCH may I earn while receiving Social Security payment without losing any monthly benefits?

If you are under age 65, you may earn up to $1,200 a year without losing any monthly benefits. However, if you earn between $1,200 and $2,000 a year, you may receive a certain number of months of payments. (Continued on Page 13)

Schecter Says City May Concel Fees
In Promotion Exams

By THOMAS D. MANN
Chairman Joseph Schecter of the New York City Civil Service Commission at his regular press conference said that 155 patrolmen are slated to take the special examination for sergeant (P.D.). As yet, no date has been set. The examination is designed to provide a opportunity for promotion for the men who were unable to take the original test because of illness, or other legally excusable causes.

Only those qualified for the original examination, and who showed cause of previous inability to appear, are qualified. Candidates have 60 days from January 3, the date of the original test, to file for the special one. Successful candidates will have their names inserted in the sergeant list in the order of relative standing.

Fire Captain Appeals

Chairman Schecter has acted on 22 of the 59 appeals of candidates in the test for promotion to captain (P.D.). One protest was successful, and 21 were denied. Action on the other appeals will be taken soon, he promised. Transit Patrolmen Requirements

Although the requirements for the transit patrolmen test have not been officially adopted, chairman Schecter believes that a high school diploma or an equivalent certificate will be required. He mentioned the inactivity of requiring a diploma from one group of policemen and not the other.

The physical part of the transit patrolman examination is competitive," he said. "The duties of transit patrolmen have been shown by job evaluation to be more strenuous than those of the police patrolman. The transit patrolman is constantly going from level to level in the various stations, and frequently must pursue culprits along the tracks close to the third rail."

The age limit would be set at 31 years, with concessions for veterans. Mr. Schecter said that the tests would begin about the middle of March.

8783. PATROLMAN. POLICE DEPARTMENT. $4,350-$5,731. Three vacancies in the Transit Authority Patrolmen. Candidates must be graduates of a four-year senior high school, have at least one year of experience as an X-ray technician in a hospital or as an X-ray technician in a senior high school equivalency diploma, and have at least one year of experience as an X-ray technician in a senior high school. Applications will be accepted only from those not already employed by the Transit Authority or by the New York City Board of Education. A satisfactory equivalent in experience will be accepted.

A performance test weighted at 70% will be given. TVP is required to pass. Applications must be submitted by October 1. Candidates will be summoned for the performance test in groups of not more than 25. Separate cards will be established for each group examined, and will be certified in order of the date established. In the performance test, candidates will be required to demonstrate their ability to perform the duties of the position for which the examination will be given to candidates who fail the performance test (closing date).

Schechter Interview (continued from Page 7) for the Transit Authority and Police Department will be held on November 15 at 9:00 a.m. for those qualified for the position. Notarization Abandoned The abandonment of the requirement of notarization of all civil service applications, beginning with those scheduled for October 1, 1957, is being recommended by the Department of Personnel, he stated, "to avoid an unnecessary miscellaneous procedure and expediting the handling of applications," he explained.

Filing Fee for Promotion "The Commission is going to take up the question of setting filing fees for promotion examinations at a September meeting," said Mr. Schechter. "Commission approval in principle is the proposal of eliminating the fees for these examinations."

monthly payments depending on the amount of earnings. Also, if you earn less than $80 a month, you would be eligible for payments in which you are not employed at all. For example, if you were not employed at all during one year, you would receive $80 a month for each year you were not employed.

I AM MY BROTHER'S only survivor. Is it possible for me to receive the lump-sum death benefits?

Yes. Where there is no eligible spouse, the Social Security Law provides that the lump sum is payable to the person who has paid the burial expenses. The fund cannot be determined who is entitled. You don't actually have to pay twice for the same period of coverage. Any excess arising from coverage paid under different employees is deductible from Federal income tax.

I AM OVER 65 and receiving a monthly old age insurance benefit. I was not employed when I was earning $800 a year. I have been told that Social Security is charged against my wages. Is this correct?

Yes. Social Security taxes must be deducted from wages up to $300 a year of all employees who work under Social Security rules. But the amount that is charged against your wages is not limited to the minimum. You could benefit greatly.

I WORKED under Social Security from 1950 to 1957. After that I began working for New York City and have not used any Social Security benefits since then. I do not remember the number. Should I apply for a new number?

No. You should apply for a duplicate Social Security card at the nearest Social Security office. Indicate on the application that you previously had a card. The Social Security card is essential for your application with your payroll supervisor under special arrangements made with the City of New York. You will then receive an assignment for the more than one application, however, it is not required.

who have what one could not call a hobby but what Mr. Silver termed a "pet project.
He hopes more and more to turn over the use of the many schools of the city for recreation purposes during the summer when the buildings are not in actual use for teaching.
But to talk of one facet of Mr. Silver's many interests would be impossible to describe a building by only telling about its facade.
He is comparable to describing a building by "not only the biggest structure there but unquestionably the best."
An Alger Story
Here is a figure woven from the tradition of the great American legend of self-made success—but brought up in the streets of the lower East Side, self-taught for the most part, sincerely believing that America is the land of opportunity—and proving it not only for himself but for the many he has helped on the way.
Charles Silver's sphere of interest is the whole spinning globe and all the people on it. This man, without a moment to spare, appears to have time for every cause that calls on him for help. His moments of relaxation are few.
His walks and luncheons are usually interrupted; his telephone is rarely silent.
For more than thirty years, he has been a member of the Board of Trustee of Beth Israel Hospital. This is his eleventh year as President. The Charles H. Silver Board of Directors of Loans, Inc., has held an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Yeshiva University, and of Doctor of Humanities Letters from Hebrew University.

Sheerin States Policies As New UFA President

The newly elected executive board of the New York City Uniformed Firemen's Association was introduced at a reception at the Hotel Commodore. A large number of members of affiliated labor organizations and representatives of the City administration was present.

Walter J. Sheerin, the new president, in welcoming the guests said:

"I want to acknowledge and heartily appreciate the confidence manifested by the membership of the UFA in electing me to the presidency. This is an honor I accept in humility and with the solemn realization of the responsibility it incurs.

"I pledge to devote all my energy and ability in discharging the duties of my office, and to provide a responsible, constructive and effective administration.

"I have a fine group of men associated with me on the UPA executive board, and we hope to present a progressive and reasonable program in behalf of the firemen and other members of the City's cultural setup.

"The UFA is an integral part of the City of New York and its administration. As firemen, we have a definite stake in the City's welfare and as such, we shall include a close and intelligent phase of this the phase of the City's welfare. We have a unique duty to both the City and to the fire fighters who so unfailingly dedicate their lives for the citizens of this community.

"Will be Co-Operative" in the name of our executive board I pledge to face up to such responsibility in a manner that be the best traditions of the Fire Department as a whole and of the membership of the Association, which can truly and be both a labor and a civic organization.

"It is my purpose, to solicit the cooperation and sympathetic understanding of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, the other Board of Estimator, the Budget Director, the Fire Commissioner and the Commissioner of the City Department, in the solution of our problems and to maintain the highest possible morale among my brother fighters without regard to rank or grade.

"I would like to add my unqualified support and that of my fellow UFA officers to the Report on a Program of Labor and Industrial Relations for City Employees," submitted to the Mayor by Labor Commissioner Harold A. Peto. I feel it is fundamental that the program in all fairness may be termed the "Little Wagner Act.

"I am anxious to be instrumental in implementing the program taken by Mayor Wagner, that is in the public interest for City employees, through representatives or representatives of their own choice, to bar responsibility in both policy and economic matters which affect them."

Asks Constructive Consideration "If we hope to preserve our programs and request early negotiations toward that end before the preparation of the budget. We wish to have our reasonable requests considered objectively and to establish the best interests of the citizens of this community always in mind.

"President Sheerin on behalf of the UFA thanked the representatives of the City administration, the Fire Department and affiliated labor organizations for their attendance.

Sergeant List

The names of eligible for promotion to sergeant, New York City Fire Department, are published beginning in The Leader of August 6, to No. 1294. They were published by Nos. 1296 to 1298 in the issue of August 13. The names and numbers to No. 1999

Three More Lists Issued by NYC

The New York City Department of Personnel has issued the following eligible list, effective Wednesday, August 21. The number of eligibles for each list is indicated.

Harriman Eulogizes Newark School Staff

NEW YORK—Governor Harriman has paid tribute to "the devoted care and attention" the staff of Newark State School is giving to its charges.

On an inspection of the Newark facility, Harriman added: "Unfortunately, in the present state of our knowledge about mental retardation, we are confronted with continuing increases in the number of children requiring special care and treatment. We cannot reverse this trend, until we know more about this affliction which causes so much heart-break."

Mr. Harriman praised the work of the staff at the school and noted his administration would intensify research in the cause and prevention of mental retardation.

How To Let Your Co-Worker Enjoy Your Vacation, Too

ALBANY, Aug. 19—Here's some advice for states employees planning to go on vacation, as outlined in "Sincerely, Personnel," house organ of the State Civil Service Department.

So things will run smoothly while you're away:

1. Be as complete as many chores as you can before you leave and arrange to have one of our clerks call you or one of your members. Mark, a June graduate of the Mansfield School, received appointment to West Point from Robert Liddy, a school on the campus of the Mansfield School.

2. Be sure to have your time attendance reports printed and turn in your monthly time reports.

3. Consider keeping an eye on your desk when you're away. For example, you may have a vacation or sick leave application that needs your signature or a request for an appointment with a supervisor or a member of the Civil Service Department.

4. Leave some instructions for your co-worker, such as where to find the manual for the machine you use or how to handle a particular situation.

5. Leave a contact person in case of emergency. This could be a colleague or a friend who works in a similar capacity in your department.

6. If you're away for an extended period, consider prepping your co-worker for your absence. This could include giving them a rundown of your daily responsibilities and any upcoming projects.

7. If you plan to take your co-worker with you on your vacation, ensure they have the necessary travel documents and instructions for the trip.

8. Consider assigning a temporary deputy to cover for you during your absence. This could help ensure that your team remains productive while you're away.

9. Keep in touch with your co-worker during your absence. This could be through email, phone calls, or even face-to-face meetings if you're both on site.

10. Provide your co-worker with any necessary resources or equipment they might need for their tasks.

A PRACTICAL JOB

When do we think about our health? How do we plan our health care? A health plan can help you do both.

1. Preventive care. This includes regular checkups, screenings, and vaccinations. These can help detect health problems early and prevent complications.

2. Contingency planning. This involves creating a plan for managing health issues when they do occur. This could include having a backup plan for work or personal tasks.

3. Health education. This involves learning about health topics that are relevant to your situation.

4. Financial planning. This involves considering the cost of health care and how to manage it.

5. Emergency planning. This involves considering what to do in case of an emergency, such as a natural disaster or illness.

Can Pay Health Plan Cost

ALBANY, Aug. 19—Attorney General Louis J. Lefkovitz has ruled that cities may assume the entire cost of hospitalization medical and surgical insurance for village officers and employees.

The ruling was made in an informal opinion sent to Mr. Lefkovitz by the Attorney General of Wisconsin, for the benefit of some Wisconsin municipalities.

The practice, referred to in the opinion, is that of a village to pay a sum equal to the total cost of hospitalization medical and surgical insurance to its employees.

Over ninety per cent of this class are still engaged either in hospital administration or work for the state, it was said.

The village is being prepared to establish a more practical grade allocation for these nurses. Persons interested in the nurses' grade shall contact: Dr. J. Levy, 125 W. Main St., New York.
