Nassau Aides Get Some Benefits But No Raise

MINEOLA, Nov. 16—On November 9, when the Nassau County budget for 1960 was filed, Nassau County employees found they were the seventh straight year without across-the-board salary increases. This was true for all County employees with the exception of the Nassau County Police Department, whose members received pay raises of from 5 to 10 percent.

Nassau Chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association, through its President, Raymond A. Flammembaum, has continuously pressed the County Board of Supervisors for the full funding of the Chapter program, whose number 1 plank was an across-the-board raise for County employees. With the coming of the new budget, and no raise in salaries, County employees are asking whether they are second-class employees because of this lack of consideration by the Board of Supervisors. Mr. Flammembaum said he would make a final plea before the County Board of Supervisors for increased wages at the Budget hearing which will be held on Wednesday, November 29, in the Board Room in the Old Court House, Mineola.

Some Gains Made

County employees were not completely ignored in the 1960 budget. As of January 1, 1960, they will receive 26 pay days per year with a 15 to 20 percent increase in wages at the Budget hearing which will be held on Wednesday, November 29, in the Board Room in the Old Court House, Mineola.

Fate of Weighing Stations Is Up To Legislature

ALBANY, Nov. 16—A recommendation that the state close its permanent truck weighing stations is threatening the status of some 200 state workers, most of whom are members of the Civil Service Employees Association. The stations are being pressed by the County Board of Supervisors for this increase be-

FeilY Asks Defense Dept. To Allot Funds For Air Technicians Retirement

ALBANY, Nov. 16—A direct appeal has been made to the U. S. Defense Department by the National Guard participation in the New York State Retirement System, which sponsored legislation successfully last year in the Legislature to allow the technicians participation in the system.

Joseph P. Feily, president of the Civil Service Employees Association, which sponsored legislation successfully last year in the Legislature to allow the technicians participation in the system, wired Defense Secretary Neil McElroy directly asking for solution of the pension problem.

As matters stand now, the air technicians do not participate either in the Federal or the State Retirement System. However, legislation signed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller last year allows such participation in the State system if the Federal Government will pay the employer's contribution.

Joe Rockefeller signed legislation last year in New York State enabling the State Civil Service Employees Association to participate in the New York State Retirement System which will be held on Wednesday, November 29, in the Board Room in the Old Court House, Mineola.

Spanish Speaking Civ. Servants

The Spanish speaking policeman will soon become an integral part of New York's City service just as the speaking Welfare Worker, Seventy policemen from Barkley Ave. and Simpson Ave. have volunteered to take a 16-week course sponsored by the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico and the Police Department. A similar course for a Brooklyn precinct was given at the Police Academy early this year. Altogether some 1,500 members of the police force have taken similar language courses. In addition, approximately 200 members have learned the language from their Spanish speaking parents. Given the course, two hours a week, are two volunteers teaching at Boyle Elisio and Miss Francisca Vigo. Even more acute than the police problem for the community of some 50,000 families who speak only Spanish, has been the problem in the Board of Education. When the language barrier first appeared, the Department gave a special unit to investigate any problems of a multilingual community. When it was revealed that teachers in the department were not fluent in the language, the Department gave a special unit to investigate any problems of a multilingual community. Officials estimate that a goodly percent of all field workers have some knowledge of the language.

Appointments are Urged for 200 More Firemen

A request has gone in from the New York City Fire Department to the City Planning Board for 200 more firemen appointments Dec. 1. It is now up to the Budget Bureau when, if and how many will be made. The Personnel Department files 3,800 names last Sept. 16. The last man appointed was number 459. Formal certification was made in October. Information of further developments regarding the firemen list will be reported here as fast as they happen.

Fallout Shelters for Albany Aides Under Study

ALBANY, Nov. 17—New York State is studying the possibility of providing fallout shelters in state office buildings at the campus site in Albany's West and Hill sectors.

Governor Rockefeller has asked the State Department of Civil Service for cost estimates to provide the shelters to protect state workers from radioactive fallout should an atomic war come.

A special task force set up by the Governor earlier this year recommended all state residences build home shelters.

The State Department's Office of Plans and Research, which here is reviewing its plans for office buildings on the campus, has been asked to add plans to a state Tax Department building.

This building, as envisioned, would be large enough to accommodate employees now housed in already-completed buildings.

Architects also are reviewing plans for one of several public works buildings on the campus to decide whether several rooms on each floor could be closed off and reinforced as fallout shelters. The order to study feasibility of including shelters in the drawings for the buildings was issued as delaying the project somewhat, but not substantially. The cost of the project is expected to be known within three or four weeks.

3. Improving employer-employee relationships.

As a step toward increased service from the chapter, Miss Hammond initiated the possibility of an open Credit Union at the hospital. A representative of the Credit Union Association outlined the advantages and benefits of such a savings and borrowing plan for the membership.

Plans for proper organization activities were outlined by Philip Kvetko, CSEA public relations aide and Paul Kvetko, editor of The Leader, and spoke upon promotional techniques.

The proposed plan is outlined in the following framework:

A. Voluntary solicitation for membership.

B. Improving services to membership.

C. To provide regularly scheduled consultation hours with the Chapter. Provision must be made for necessary publicity to inform all members of the available services.

Air Technicians' Request Is Fair

Technicians in the Army and Air National Guard in New York State are practically orphans when it comes to retirement systems. They can't buy a Federal pension and the State won't let them in their plan unless the U. S. Government pays the employer's contributions.

In Federal government, we allow such payments that the Defense Department will pay out of its budget. The Civil Service Employees Association has appealed this decision to Secretary Neil H. McEvoy to solve the technician's dilemma.

It's a fair request and we trust the Department will allot the necessary contributions and allow these men a shot at the best of public employment—participation in a retirement system.

A Good Step Forward

A PROFESSIONAL recruiter in private industry has written to me the other day that he has the idea that college students and graduates snub civil service employment.

He said that government is a "natural magnet" for the brightest young people even though many of them plan to spend only a few years in it for the invaluable experience it offers. After spending only a few years in the civil service, they plan to move on to positions in private industry.

I heard this same complaint, which has discouraged and embarrassed, had forsook government for private employment.

I concluded that government could get its fair share of the best young people if it would make and follow through on definite job offers to them.

A $270,000 grant has been awarded by the Ford Foundation to the State University at Stony Brook to start a pilot project for $800 scholarships for 25 New York and New Jersey college students a year to train them for and integrate them into Federal civil service positions.

This seems to us, and we think the gentleman quoted above will agree, to be an excellent start in the right direction.

Questions Answered On Social Security

Are all earnings subject to the so-called "earnings test?"

Yes, earnings from both covered and non-covered employment or disability benefits are counted in determining whether deductions will be imposed.

Can a child become entitled to benefits on his mother's social security record if she became disabled and entitled to disability benefits?

Yes, if the child is dependent on his mother, alive, under 18, and will be under 18 when she becomes entitled to disability benefits.

Further details on the above would include:

Suppose your earnings exceed $1,200 a year. Is there a way to determine how many months benefits I may receive in a year?

If you are an employee with earnings exceeding $1,200 a year, your excess earnings are determined in multiples of $100 for every $100 or fractional part of $100 over $1,200. You will lose one month's benefit each year. However, no deduction will be made if your annual earnings are $1,500 or less.

Re: Your Family Doctor

Why He Is So Important To You!

For you the family doctor is the most important member of your H.I.P. Medical Group. He is the one you turn to first when you need medical care and advice.

He is trained to recognize illness in its early stages before it becomes deep-seated. He is trained to treat a wide variety of illnesses.

In modern teamwork medicine, the family doctor has the advantage of having readily available to him the varied skills and experience of the many specialists making up the medical group to which he belongs. When necessary he refers you to the appropriate specialists within the group. Or he may refer you to the laboratory for special tests.

He does not have to worry whether you can afford to pay for specialist care, for X-rays or for laboratory tests because in H.I.P. they are already paid for. Nor does he have to worry about losing income for himself if he refers you to a specialist.

The specialists send him their reports and discuss your case with him so that he has a complete and continuous record of your state of health. He is always in the position to treat you as a whole person. He is also in a better position to devote himself more thoroughly to the branch of medicine for which he is best qualified.

In H.I.P. the family doctor—and every other member of the medical team—provides only those services for which he has been specially trained.

U.S. Career Job Exams Still Open

Many college graduates, and talented non-graduates, find their way yearly into high paying, secure jobs career jobs with the U.S. Government through the Federal Service Entrance Examinations.

Appointments resulting from these exams are in U.S. agencies throughout the country and abroad, in more than 60 fields. The Federal Service Entrance Examinations are scheduled for Jan. 9, Feb. 13, April 9 and May 14. Filings for each test will close about three weeks before that test. Applications will still be taken for succeeding tests.

Student-Trainee

The student-trainee program is open to recruit college students and well-qualified high-school graduates for several thousand student-trainee opportunities in Federal agencies.

How to Apply

Detailed information and the application card, Form 5000-AH, for both the FSEE and student-trainee programs are available from college placement officers, many post offices, the U.S. Board of Civil Service Examiners, Service and Civil Service Region, Federal Building, Christopher St., New York 14, N.Y., or the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C.

City Badly in Need of Social Investigators

The New York City Department of Welfare is badly in need of qualified social investigators to fill jobs paying from $4,250 to $5,328 a year. Applications will be accepted until further notice for these jobs. Applicants must have a bachelor’s degree for appointment, but anyone who expects to have one by June, 1960, may apply, take the test, and if successful, have a job waiting for him upon graduation.

Further information and application forms may be obtained in person or by mail from the Application Section, New York City Department of Personnel, 96 Dun-dine Street, New York 7, N.Y.

High School Diploma Only Requirement For City Bookkeeping Job

Anyone who has a basic knowledge of bookkeeping and a high school diploma can apply now for the City's exam for account clerk, a job paying from $5,000 to $5,000 a year. There are no formal requirements, and a familiarity with the subject comparable to that taught in a high school bookkeeping course will probably meet the demands of the job.

Two Weeks to File

You may apply for this desirable job until Nov. 2. The educational requirements, a diploma or equivalent, are not necessary for filing, but must be furnished by time of appointment.

City clerks perform routine computations and post or compile financial data as directed. The exam will consist of objective questions designed to test the candidates' knowledge of bookkeeping. Topics included will be journal entries and ledger accounts, arithmetic problems and definitions of business terms.

Applications can be obtained from the Application Section of the Department of Personnel, 96 Duane St., New York 7, N. Y., two blocks north of City Hall and across the street from the Leader offices.

PRINTING JOBS IN
TITLES: $21-37.34

U. S. Employee Group Seeks Title Change

A group of claims authorizers in the New York payment center of the Social Security Administration has retained attorney Samuel Resnicoff to represent it in a U.S. Civil Service Commission hearing on their classifications. This is an initial step which may ultimately lead to a court test of the administration of the Classification Act, spokesmen for the group said. They contended that their positions should be classified as legal adjudicative positions. Civil service placement practices involving this type of position have recently been questioned by the American Bar Association, the group said.

Public Works, Dist. 10

William J. Zabel, "Master Canal Engineer." William J. Zabel has been a career employee with the State Department of Public Works for over a dozen years. Zabel graduated from Cornell University with a degree in civil engineering. He is responsible for the maintenance of the state's waterways and has shown signs of increasing further in the ensuing year. Studies made by our Association salary analytic committee shows approximately 4 percent, behind private employees pay for similar jobs.

No Room for Postseason

The fact that one case for a raise in 1957, nonetheless, will not alone guarantee a raise in 1958. The work hard to make sure that the Governor and the Legislature get our plight their serious consideration.

In discussing the problem with many of our Delegates I find that most of them are already taking steps to meet the problem of their local legislatures. Our pay has been and still is part of a big political game. Bubbles are more apt to be given in major election years rather than in off years. All in all, it is highly unlikely that our case does not mean that our case is not just. Do not accept the stock excuses—NO PAY, ECONOMIC BUDGET, MAYBE NEXT YEAR. An optimistic attitude is very important. If we admit defeat before we start the rest of the State will be very quick to agree with us.

SQUEEZE PLAY

The State bowling team, the Glebeaufs, is busy preparing for the national meet. They are working hard to get their full quota. Our CSEA President and negotiating team have already made arrangements to have a series of meetings with the Governor and the Budget Director, Mr. Norman Hof, each State employee should watch the developments very carefully as your action at the right time might be the decisive factor in obtaining a much needed salary increase in 1958.

SOCIAL WELFARE

A sale of articles suitable for gifts is being held at the Social Welfare offices of the Capital District for the benefit of the County Social Welfare. At the State Department of Social Welfare, a similar sale is being held in the Social Welfare offices of the Albany office. All articles sold will go to benefit the children of the Capital District. Last year the sale of articles surpassed all expectations.

Albany Labor

The Albany Department of the Cleveland Employees Association will hold an election to fill a four-year vacancy in the office of the chief executive officer. The existing position is held by Mrs. Helen Brown, who has held the position for the past four years. The election will be held in early March and the candidates will be formally notified as to the exact date.
