Opposition Mounting To Bill Lowering Eligibility For Social Investigators

ALBANY, Feb. 1 — Legislation to void the requirement that social case workers and investigators — who are members of the State Civil Service — must have a college degree has passed the State Senate and is now before the Assembly. The measure has stirred opposition throughout the state.

The bill is opposed by the State Social Welfare Department as "administrative and costly," is sponsored by Republican Sen. John R. Brydges of Niagara Falls.

The vote in the Senate was 32-24, with 13 Democrats and 9 Republicans voting against it. Democratic Senator J. Mahoney, commenting when the bill came up for a vote, "there is something wrong with welfare in New York State and every time we try to do something about it we are robbed with letters from the public welfare people who just want projects of their own hide."

Mr. Mahoney is an advocate of a non-year welfare residence requirement for relief, which is opposed by social welfare groups and by the Governor.

Senator Pyzdek said his bill was designed to ease a shortage of caseworkers and relieve them of their clerical duties. He called the college requirement "obtuse and unnecessary."

The Rockefeller budget message, held out hope for additional fringe benefits for state workers. He reported:

"A special committee expects to recommend legislation instituting a pension payment program for state employees. While there will be no budgetary requirements in 1959-60, this recommends a pension plan to be paid by the state out of its supplemental budget bills."

Travel Allowances

Regarding higher travel allowances, which have been proposed for state workers, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"Throughout this budget, recommended appropriations for travel are considered adequate to cover the anticipated increased rates recommended by the State Comptroller as the result of the Attorney General's opinion of July 1959 which awards that gratuities are legally reimbursable."

Mr. Rockefeller listed a total number of $26,806,464 in state purposes appropriations of $26,806,464 in the schedule showed that five state departments would receive increases under the Rockefeller fiscal plan, while other agencies all cut from previous allocations.

Displaced Alfies Hedr

"My" recommendation to cut the budget to manageable proportions have, in some instances, reserved the need for personnel," he declared, adding:

"Where a program or operation is to be discontinued, I am recommending, where necessary, sufficient appropriations to complete the operations until May 1, 1961. Such projects may properly be brought to a close. Wherever possible employees will be relocated in other state work for those who leave state service, there will be appropriate payment for unliquidated

leave and overtime."

"In addition, the provisions of the Civil Service Law which protect the interests of our State employees will be complied with rigidly. Since normal turnover averages about 10 per cent per year in the competitive class, it is my expectation that few, if any, individuals will be dropped."

Asks End of Budget Hearing Secrecy

ALBANY, Feb. 1 — Assemblyman Daniel M. Kelly, Manhattan Democrat-Liberal, has asked the House to pass a bill to release all secrecy in state budget procedures.

Mr. Kelly introduced the legislation in the past year, state employees have won major gains late in the legislative session through supplemental budget bills.

Pennies Excluded

The Rockefeller budget message held out hope for additional fringe benefits for state workers. He reported:

"A special committee expects to recommend legislation instituting a pension payment program for state employees. While there will be no budgetary requirements in 1959-60, this recommends a pension plan to be paid by the state out of its supplemental budget bills."

George J. Mahoney, Secretary of the State Civil Service Commission, made the formal announcement of the plan.

Mr. Mahoney said that "the State of New York should not be in any business unless it is absolutely necessary."

He added there as was "considerable" opposition among Fund officials as to whether business was being solicited.

Alexander Falk, Of Civil Service Comm., Stricken

Alexander A. Falk, Commissioner and former president of the State Civil Service Commission, suffered a stroke recently and has been confined to St. Peter's Hospital in Albany. His condition was reported as fair.

A new pension system for state employees will be "greatly enhanced," he said, adding that "the State of New York should not be in any business unless it is absolutely necessary."

Economic Study Will Show Inadequacy of Police Pay

PBA Heads Fight in Albany

The New York City Budget Bureau, under the direction of Mayor Robert F. Wagner, Jr., will soon get a preview look at an extensive economic study of salary, benefits and working conditions of New York City Police.

The study was commissioned by the Association and was done by Leo Marx, economist and attorney and former chairman of President Harry W. Truman's council of economic advisors.

The study, according to PBA spokesmen, covers the past 20 years and shows the continuing failure of Police Department pay raises and other benefits advancement at the same rate as those provided for professional employees, persons in private industry, and even policemen in other major cities.

Another Battle

Meanwhile, as the economic study nears completion, top policemen are preparing for an unprecedented spate of labor unrest, beginning this very Monday and Tuesday in Albany, where the State Legislature which affects New York City policemen.

The majority of the bills are PBA sponsored, although several are sponsored independently by members of the Legislature and are now getting full association backing.

Last Raise Inadequate

According to the economic survey, "the total inadequacy of recent wage increases is sufficiently large to highlight the fact that the New York City Police, charged with the task of protecting the economic life and limb in by far the wealthiest city in the world, are now found to have for the past, been greatly underpaid."

Mr. Kershing, in his cities five criteria, by all of which, it is alleged, City policemen are indignantly paid for the work they do:

Move to End Residence Law For Ed. Board

ALBANY, Feb. 1 - State Senator Malcolm Mitchell, Manhattan Republican, wants the borough residence requirement for members of the New York City Board of Education eliminated.

Tenting the move "long overdue," Mr. Mitchell said: "In a highly mobile society such as New York, obsolete and continuing restrictions as to residency rooted in a deep historical past do nobody, the least the interest of our educational system, nor will they permit the selection of the best and brightest to fill the job of those men and women with outstanding qualifications for community service in this important area.

If the bill now before the Legislature, would modify the residence requirement to provide that four members of the board be selected at large, while five shall continue to serve as borough representatives.

City Youth House Aids Seek Peace Officer Status

ALBANY, Feb. 1 — Custodial employees of the New York City Youth House have appealed to the Legislature to pass the Markell-Brown bill. The measure would classify the employees as peace officers.

The group plans to send a delegation to the Capitol soon to ask passage of the measure.

In support of the bill, an employer statement declared: "The old thing in this whole situation is that a children's court protection officer who is basically a social worker is a peace officer. A children's court officer whose duties are not only involved with detention work as ours, is a peace officer. An agent for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty in Children, basically a social worker, is also a peace officer. Yet these custodial officers of Youth House are treated as second class citizens."

CORRECTION

The Leader, in reporting certain prospective changes in the New York City Civil Service Commission, included erroneous information for periods for Police Department and Transit Authority policemen, erroneously announced that the changes had been made.

Actually, a public hearing was set for Sunday, Feb. 7, to examine the changes. It is expected they will be adopted.

New Post Office

Opening in City

Dedication ceremonies were held January 26 in ceremonies marking the official opening of the new post office station into operation in New York City. The new one replaces the area post office which is being modernized.

Closing the old Manhattan-area post office, the new one will serve the residents of the West Harlem area with improved facilities and better working conditions for employees. It is located at 565-075 West 125th St., on the main floor of the old building. However, the old station will be open for another month.

In addition to Postmaster Charles

Wendt, speakers at the ceremonies were Regional Office Director, Senator Jacob Javits, and Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, Jr.

Camilla Williams of the City Council was named the honorian toastmaster.

Some Details on the New

Federal Health Plan

In answer to many questions about the new plan, the new Federal Employees Health Benefits program and other programs are to be enrolled in the Civil Service Commission announced that anytime an employee may do to improve his health status in New York City will affect his standing in the new program when it goes into effect in July, 1960.

It was decided, from one plan to another with a single carrier, or may change carriers or, and that a once-in-a-lifetime health examination is not completed. However, the commission warned, if an employee drops his coverage now, he will have none until he enrolls in the new plan.

On a slightly different angle of the new health plan, the Civil Service Commission has announced that it expects 180,000 Federal employees to retire during the 1960 fiscal year, beginning July 1, and a few to participate in the new plan. It has been estimated that 56,000 will take family covering.

50 Top U.S. Personnel

Meet in Virginia

Fifty top U. S. personnel men met recently in Williamsburg, Va., to discuss various problems facing their offices. During the three-day meeting, the issue most of all was the seriousness of that employee discipline.

The personnel directors submitted a program for the reform of personnel policies and discipline, and general feeling was that the Eisenhower Administration and the Civil Service Commission would have to act on it.

The group felt that management should be handpicked and that employees should be selected for discipline and Commission decisions based on that basis. They said that many officials preferred to tolerate some insubordination and immature behavior and face all the accompanying problems. This, they said, caused the morale of other employees to suffer.

The group also criticized the attitude of many persons that getting fired from a Federal job is a "bad stigma," and that this would be the "end of the road" for many employees. This causes unwillingness on the part of officials to fire employees who do not perform.

Changes suggested by the group included a study of the job protection policy for personnel officers and changes in the Civil Service Commission's rules. Previously, the period of probation was considered part of the examination process, and an employee could be dropped if he failed to pass the examination.

Now, probationers must be given specific details of how they failed. The group felt that such should be corrected.

They also suggested that employers be given equal rights after employment; that non-veterans and veterans have the same appeal privileges; and that a study be made of the performance on the job of employees who had been released and then got their jobs back through appeals.

They suggested that advice be given to the various agencies on how to handle disciplinary problems and that the education program be set up for both employees and officials advising what can be done and what has been done in the field of discipline.

Civil Service To Get

Ready for "Transition"

The Civil Service Commission has been tacked a new program to prepare for the inevitable transition of the Federal service when the new Administration takes over next year.

The two purposes of the new program are to help the new administrators understand the civil service, and to prevent repetition of the upper cut when the Eisenhower Administration took over after 7 years of Democratic rule. As is turned out, most fears were unfounded, and few employees lost their jobs.

Police Pay Study Points Way to Higher Salaries

LEGISLATION which would allow lower requirements for social welfare workers has been rightly termed by the New York State Civil Service Employees Association as "a wedge to fulfill recruitment needs by lowering standards rather than granting adequate salaries." This notion has already passed the State Senate and it is now before the Assembly. The bill should be defeated. For years the problem of recruiting and retaining personnel has been continuously brought to our attention. There have been many reasons offered for the lack of interest in a public career but in reality the reason is singular— inadequate pay.

The number to recruit in the area of social welfare or any other civil service position is to upgrade the job—financially and otherwise.

Lowering requirements is a step backward and a dangerous avoidance of facing the truth about difficulties in getting good people in government.

I read a newspaper item recently which stated, "If you are a male teacher who plans to retire, you should make inquiry at your local social security office for the "post-retirement " benefit you may receive." Does that mean I must come in three months early in order to qualify for retirement?

No, this is not the case. The idea behind the retirement benefit is that you domine in early is that we can get back your earnings record from our central office. It will also save you time to secure evidence of your age and any other material needed to establish the amount of social security benefits before you actually reach age 65. In most cases, if you make up your claim early, we can get your first check out to you shortly after you do or within a long period of time during which you may not receive it...

My husband died three years ago. I will be 62 in July. I would like to file next month and would like to know if I should file my application for retirement benefits now or should I wait until I am 67?

You may file your application at any time. However, the earliest age you may receive benefits is age 62. We suggest you file your application at the earliest opportunity to allow us to process your marriage and your husband's Social Security number before we can call at our office. If you have a social security number of your own, be sure to bring your card with you.

I have a son who became disabled when he was three years old. I expect to file an application for him. I was told I should wait until I file my own application six months from now. Is there any way that I can have my application to be processed with his?

Your son's application cannot be filed until you have filed your application. You may file your application as much as three months before you reach retirement age; that is, you have until age 62 to file.

We suggest, therefore, that you file your application as soon as possible so that when you have your own application to be processed, your son's application can be attached to it.

You should be aware that your son's application must be made to correct this condition. If your son is a minor, he may have received a treatment. The list should show the dates treatments were administered.

What proofs about my recent earnings will I have to bring when I file an application for retirement under the Social Security law?

You must bring proof of your earnings for the year in which you die to the Social Security Administration office in order to receive benefits.

We'd greatly appreciate your help in our effort to be promoted from the current career rank on the Civil Service list.

No promotions were made this year and we were told that the duties and rank which we have hold no future for us.

This discourages incentive for those local City employees who wish to progress in the service. After passing such a difficult exam, it is a terribly frustrating situation, besides being unfair.

The page contains a letter to the editor discussing the situation at a hospital and the issue of promotion opportunities for employees. The author argues that there are many employees working under less-than-ideal conditions and that promotions are rare. They suggest that a feeling of injustice is being created, leading some employees to consider leaving the Department. The author concludes by asking for the attention of the hospital administration to rectify the situation.

In the context of the U.S. civil service, the letter highlights the need for equal treatment and opportunities for advancement. The author suggests that the hospital should be held accountable for the feeling of injustice and that steps be taken to improve the situation.

The letter ends with a request for assistance in addressing the concerns raised by the employees. The author emphasizes the importance of fair treatment and equal opportunity for all employees, regardless of position or seniority.

After a delightful cocktail hour (7) and dinner, continuous music was provided by the 40 & 8 band, and singing on two floors. Many thanks to Bob Cramion and her committee.
