Public Works Again Denies Signing "Bill of Rights;" Says It Is Not Signing Any Future Agreements

By PAUL KYER

ALBANY. Sept. 28 — Continued claims or a State union local that it had signed an employee "Bill of Rights" with a Burke McNamar, superintendent of Public Works Department, was again denied emphatically by a Department spokesman last week.

In two publications, one local and another nationwide, Council 50 of the APACME, claims this month that a press release signed by the head of Council 50 and Mr. McNamar called for "the immediate adoption of a 'Bill of Rights' with J. Burch Ley, the State's personnel representative. In the national publication, the word "all" was dropped in the statement read "recognized as an employee representative." In detailing that the union was the sole Department employee representative in New York State.

"We recognize no employee organization as sole representative," the Department spokesman told The Leader last week.

"The August statement by this Department was a press release—that's all," the spokesman told The Leader. "And we have no intention in this Department of signing anything leading to any agreements in the future."

The Department's plan said that Public Works had agreed to spell out its personnel practices but that in listing those practices there was "essentially nothing new to be stated."

Urges State Pay Findings Be Given to Legislators

Legislation which will require that conclusions drawn by the State Director of Compensation and Classification, relating to the annual salary study be given to the State's employees associations is urged in a resolution that will be approved by more than 700 delegates who will attend the annual meetings of the Civil Service Employees Association.

Mr. Felly also registered objections to some of the suggested amendments to the "Bill of Rights." He asserted that there were no professional true employees in the State Division of Fire Safety, who are required to work overtime and who should be paid for such overtime work.

Wants 'Reasonable' Proposals

5. We also feel that the adoption of Attendance Rules should not be forced on agencies that they do not need them.

In general, we feel that the adoption of Attendance Rules are still pleasurable and that more reasonable rules should be proposed by your Division and adopted by the various agencies. In the approach on such matters as uniform tardiness rules, there should not be forced on agencies that they do not need them.

Albanay Newsmen Democrat Researcher

ALBANY, Sept. 28 — William Lewis, Jr., Albany newspaperman and legislative correspondent for the Albany Times-Union, has been named director of research for the Democratic legislative leaders. His salary will be $12,000 a year.

Mr. Lewisburg, 43, has been a member of the Times-Union editorial staff for 15 years. He is widely known in State Government circles, having written many weekly articles.
The fireworks at the United States Military Academy would not have set back progress of the New York City Police Department's new police cadet program by about three weeks, a spokesman for the Police Academy told The Leader last week.

Out of the group that applied last year, the Academy had scheduled 200 applicants for police positions in early October. But by the end of the month, only 16 police appointments had been made. A spokesman for the Police Department had expected to appoint about 200 police officers by this time.

The postponement results from the State Division of Housing in which the new P.B.A. has settled an action with the Division of Housing to which the Division of Housing had agreed to pay about $16,666.66 for sixteen months back pay. The settlement was negotiated by the United States Civil Service Commission just before the case was about to be tried before a jury.

The P.B.A. has been the Public Relations Officer of the Division of Housing until January 30, 1954, when it was notified that its services were terminated. A new Commissioner had just been appointed. The settlement was made as a brake on achievement of departmental objectives.

ALABANY, July 26—Governor Rockefeller has appointed the members of State Departments and agencies to a unanimous policy of keeping clear of precarious, and early departure from work due to conditions caused by the hurricane on Sept. 12.

As a general policy, the Attendance Rules for Employees in New York State Departments and Institutions, as promulgated by the Civil Service Commission, provide that if time off on account of extraordinary weather conditions may be granted only if the employee charges such time off to accumulated credits.

In writing this provision, the Governor took into account the unique character of the storm and the possible hazards and serious inconvenience faced by many State employees because of the extraordinary disruptions of communications and transportation.

One of the areas hardest hit by rains from the hurricane was the Oneida County Civil Service Commission. Since the issuance of the order, the Governor has stated the 1961 Legislature will consider special statutes to permit state aid to the communities.

Pay Study Findings
Should Be Made Public

Each year, the State conducts what is known as a salary survey to gain some perspective on the relation between the salaries of public employees and their counterparts in private industry. It has been the custom of the State to allow this survey to be seen—but the most important part of the study is kept private. The secret portion deals with the recommendations and conclusions and in order that these legislators can justly pass on pay increases.

Governors have never been a strong point in New York State, something not beneficial to either the citizens or the state employees. If the state survey conclusions and recommendations should be made public, then in all justice they should be submitted for public review.

CITIES PLIGHT OF CITY WELFARE PATROLMEN

As the wife of a New York City welfare patrolman, I would take this opportunity to point out my personal opinion about the heart-breaking working conditions that the Welfare police are enduring. My husband is on the job about a year and a half. During that time he has been assaulted numerous times and cut on disability twice. As a patrolman he and I both realize that this type of job means more hazards that a street policeman. It feels so insulting to acknowledge or correct these conditions.

The remedy is not told because they are assigned to a social agency that they cannot perform their duties as such. Being a social agency does and should not alter the facts. My husband has been sworn in to preserve the peace as other police. Due to the lack of who are eligible and on the wane of assaults on the patrolmen is happening and should be ended. We, therefore, feel that the families are suffering and should be paid.

THE CLAIM WAS MADE under Section 134 of the Civil Service Law: “For all state officers and employees . . . the work week for any such state officer and employee . . . of such overtime compensation.”

SOME 1,50 PAROLE OFFICERS have accumulated an average of approximately $75 extra per week. They have filed their claims, which the State refused; and since have brought a proceeding to compel the State to pay the parole officers the overtime that is due them. In that case they are represented by Mr. John T. De Graff, prominent Albany attorney. Since the proceeding is pending I do not propose to comment directly on the legal aspects.

State Building Program

Stirs Albany Controversy

ALBANY, Sept. 25 — The planned speedup of the state campus development and the proposed acceleration in leasing of old Green Haven Prison buildings has stirred local controversy.

State plans for both college and office building developments have drawn criticism of country club for the city.

But Governor Rockefeller, in an unusual press conference, declared: "I believe we will go ahead with both projects."

To Erroneously More

If the city objects to the University, expansion, be said, the state would move its college out of Albany and locate in a community that wanted it.

In a 33-page report backed the administration of the Governor, the Committee of Committees declined. In 1959, it was apparent that the office space needs of state government far exceeded existing facilities.

The state was leasing considerably more space than was needed and was facing an economic penalty to its taxpayers.

Chief Work Conditions

"Most departments had insufficient space for present operations. Working conditions were such that the staff was forced to perform operations in a set manner. In many instances, space was not available for separate operations."

There were statements that department space was scattered widely throughout the city of Albany and neighboring counties. The state government has significant office space in Albany that it owns and that development of the same facilities for present use will be more efficient and costlier to the taxpayer by about $3 million a year.

The Rockefeller program calls for the construction of buildings on the campus within the next three years at an estimated cost of $30 million.

Plan Described

In the report, the committee said:

"The architectural plans call for a design that will have an aerial effect. The project will preserve the essential open character of the area and will materially enhance property valuations of existing privately-owned real estate.

"This type of building plan was promulgated by the state to provide healthful, modern, well-lighted, sanitary facilities in pleasant but modern surroundings. It is well recognized that such a design promises maximum efficiency and productivity and contributes materially to the working efficiency of employees."

The committee also reported that the state at the present time is operating 4 major office space in Albany that it owns and that development of the same facilities for present use will be more efficient and costlier to the taxpayer by about $3 million a year.

The report concluded with the general statement:

"The State has a deep interest in the future of its capital city. In the past the coordinated development of City and State has been desirable and the state government has left much to be desired. The Rockefeller program represents a reasonable solution and should result in the immediate future.

"The State government stands agreed upon in the immediate future to provide space with the City government and the community in facilitating such joint planning."
