NEW CSEA CHAPTER — At a recent meeting held in St. Nicholas of Myra Hall in Yonkers, the officers of the Civil Service Employees Associa-

CSEA Explains Reasons For Nov. 1 Deductions Of Group Life Members

ALBANY, Nov. 6—The Civil Service Employees Association has received a number of inquiries concerning group life insurance deductions made on the current payroll (November 1).

Joseph P. Felly, CSEA president, announced several reasons which make necessary last week’s deductions.

Mr. Felly said that female members between the ages of 2,000 and 3,000 in the plan were notified directly that the insurance under the revised plan was not in accordance with the previous class of insurance. Of the 10,000 insured members placed in these higher classifications, 600 refused appropriate forms to have their insurance remain in effect.

CSEA has directly notified these 600 members that their requests have been received and that deductions from their salary will be adjusted downward accordingly, Mr. Felly said.

Changes Were Necessary

Proper refund will be made to these members as soon as possible, he said. The reason for the adjustments taken for the increased amount of insurance these members do not desire. Because the notice for changes in payroll deductions must reach the Comptroller’s office well in advance of the pay period on which they are made, the changes in deductions on these 600 members could be delayed. November 1 had not been made, he declared.

These increases would have resulted from the substantial salary adjustments accorded state em-

j) ployees in accordance with the new state pay scales authorized by the Legislature, especially concerning those in the higher brackets. Immediately after these changes in amounts of insurance were reflected in the first payroll after November 1.

Where To Get Answers

Each year there are, ordinarily, a large number of insured members who do not assimilate themselves fully with the provisions of the insurance certificate issued the group plan to each insured member, Mr. Felly said, the CSEA president.

Mr. Felly said further that any employee who has criticisms or questions concerning their coverage under the CSEA Group Life Insurance Plan are invited to write to the CSEA headquarters, 8 Elk St., Albany, N.Y.

Upgradings of Correction Titles Before J. E. Kelly

ALBANY, Nov. 5—The applications of correction officers, correction hospital attendants and women’s correction officer, all grade 11, have been forwarded to J. Earl Kelly, director of classification for consideration for reclassification to grade 13, the CSEA announced today.

CSEA Wins Fight To Keep Watertown Aides Paid Weekly

CSEA announced today that the city council of the city of Watertown, this in spite of the fact that most of the workers benefitted do not even be-

The city council disclosed it had ordered CSE Manager Ronald O. Parker to work on the strike and drop his implementation of a six-week plan, which drew sharp protest from Cle-ence C. Evans, president of the city CSEA. The council indicated it had acted favorably on the CSEA request.

Meanwhile, it is pressing the city council for a second principal objective — establishment of a definite grievance system for city employees.

Mayor William O. Lachene-mer has pointed out to other city council members that the framework for handling employee grievance matters needs to be established in the civil service organization.

Public Relations Is A 2-Way Street

The time is the afternoon in any state mental institution as time goes on, when we gradually observe some of the accomplishments that this new and existing interest has brought forth. As we in CIVIL SERVICE discuss, study and try to learn some of the facets of the serious business of public relations, we will feel the desire to improve our relationship with the public.

It is most important that mental hygiene employees practice good public relations at this time. The impressions that we make on patients and their families should be stimulating, therapeutic, and helpful.

The first illness or the first visit.

It is in the desire to improve our relationship with the public, as time goes on, when we gradually observe some of the accomplishments that this new and existing interest has brought forth.

CIVIL SERVANTS ARE PAID by the citizens we serve. Imagine that we create, whether good or bad, very lasting. Where it deals with the mentally ill and the mental health, it can be an immensely gratifying endeavor.

There are many descriptions of good public relations just as there are ways of practicing it. Good, common sense is a strong asset for anyone in positions. In it we have the ingredients of thoughtfulness, tact, kindness, unselfishness and the desire to help and serve. All state employees should assist themselves, their job and their morale should understand what makes the next year tick and be able to be effective in this ever-imperative function - the practicing of good public relations. Few people have natural aptitudes for it - most have to study and learn it.

The Dillon Guild has experienced similar interest demonstrated in other fields by our representatives and CIVIL Servants as that shown in the desire to improve our relationship with the public.

Steps Up Activity in this area by CSEA has already begun. The service has only been scratched concerning the acceptance of mental illness by the public, the cooperation of the community concerning the patient and the roles the various community agencies must play in the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Much needs to be done by many organization in this important undertaking. Mental hygiene workers can be helpful by practicing good common sense in their attempt to make improvements in human and public relations.

This could be a two-way street. We may be able to bring our message to them. Why not think about it?

Merit System Still A Dream To Many

The majority of public employees, the merit system—that is, appointment to public jobs through competitive examinations—is a familiar fact to all. But the thousands of other civil servants are still the victims of political patronage systems, with all the insecurity and ineffectiveness that such systems breed, may come as a surprise to most government workers.

Job protection, competitive promotions, decent salaries and working benefits are facts, in almost taken as a matter of course these days. But the service is an essential one in such conditions are but a Utopian dream to others will not only point out that the merit system is not fully established in the civil service but will also serve notice that in some areas the public service is suffering because of the lack of a competitive class of public workers.

One does not have to look far afield to see 19th Century conditions in public employment. The American Civil Service Association, which is an authority on civil service law, who conducts a column on that subject on this page, this week begins a series designed to be eliminated. This essential department will also suffer the shifting, 42nd Street and Lexington Avenue's problem is in getting more police applicants. There will be no shortage of applicants for this department. The main reason is that the fire department is also going to be given a 40-hour work week. This essential department will also suffer from the bad situation.

I have been asked to get all of the information possible until a conclusion is reached, and whether there is any solution to the problem, so will all interested persons, who are for or against the present status of the law, be notified to me.

Social Security

Below are questions on Social Security problems sent in by our readers and answered by a legal authority in the Department of Public Welfare.

Q. Do I have to work until age 65 to start collecting social security benefits?

A. Under the new law, he will need credit for work from age 19-64 to qualify for the benefits. He has been in the workforce since 1961, and he has accumulated enough credits.

Q. How much of my earnings will be covered by Social Security?

A. Under the old law, a person who worked for 40 years would get a benefit of $100 a month based on your earnings up until this time; your wife would also get a benefit of $50 if she worked enough. The amount that you will get monthly is a function of your Social Security number, age, and earnings before you reach age 65. We will be able to get benefit under the new law.

Q. Under the old law a person reaching 65 this year needed, as

The Statement of the organization of the last year election, had to be an additional benefit of $15 a month. Four checks have been withheld under the old law. The new law affects your own and your wife's benefits in the same manner, whenever. When men choose to take social security benefits, the amount they will get monthly is permanently reduced—by 20 percent if you get married. Women have been able to get reduced benefits since 1964. At the end of the month she received $50. Wives have been told that a woman gets the benefit of $1800. Will we get an additional benefit of $500?

Q. Yes. Under the old law, a person could get a benefit of $1800. Under the new law, he will need credit for work from age 19-64 to qualify for the benefits. We will be able to get benefit under the new law.

Q. Of the additional benefit due you and your wife can be made when you file your annual report of earnings with social security. If you do not have to receive the money, you can use it to pay for medical expenses or for social security.

Q. The people there will be glad to assist you in arranging your social security arrangements.

Q. I read the newspaper that people are now getting the very lowest social security benefits will be granted a raise in their payments. Should I get an additional benefit under the old law?

Walkie-Talkies

We have heard that since a Leader Editorial on September 4th called for the City to investigate the use of 34-40 radios for foot patrols, inquiries have been made of the District Police Department, Washington, D.C., on the usefulness of such equipment.

A high-ranking officer there has stated, "They're worth a fortune." He said that it is more useful to have a police car with a bullhorn than to have a group of police officers using a walkie-talkie. Instantaneous contact can be made with any patrolman on foot duty using such equipment at a cost that efficiency and patrolmen protection—would increase a hundredfold.

Campaign Promises

Now that the political campaign is over and the promises are made, we would like to see the victorious candidates begin immediate action on their vows to enlarge the police department.

All candidates spoke about the necessity of bringing the department to the 30,000 mark. However, the present members of the department will next go on a 40-hour week, therefore, cutting manpower on the street by five percent. The fire department is also going to be given a 40-hour work week. This essential department will also suffer from the bad situation.

I have been asked to get all of the information possible until a conclusion is reached, and whether there is any solution to the problem, so will all interested persons, who are for or against the present status of the law, be notified to me.

CSEA Staff Members, Fieldmen Complete Cornell Studies

ITHACA, Nov. 6—Thirteen members of the field and headquarters staff of the Civil Service Employees Association have completed a week-long staff training institute conducted by the New York State School of Industrial and Labor Relations at the Cornell University campus here.

The program, which started October 30, was divided into two four-hour class sessions daily, supplemented by nightly group assignments.

The session topics through Thursday morning of last week included "Understanding the Community," "Effective Use of Community Resources," "Developing the Organization: Orientation of New Members," "Simulating and Maintaining Membership Interest," "Principles of Learning and Methods of Teaching," and "Problem-Solving Techniques."

At Thursday noon, the staff was divided into three conference groups, with each assigned a problem that might be encountered within the association.

The final day of the institute was devoted to workshops reporting from each group and a summary of the week's work.

The New York State Retirement System and the State Teachers' Retirement System conducted by the New York State Retirement System during the week-long training Institute.

CCSEA pins to the membership of the field and headquarters group of the field and headquarters members requesting coverage of the Social Security office for members of the New York State Retiremen System and the Social Security office for members of the New York State Retirement System and the State Teachers' Retirement System.

The agency said the forms have been sent out to current office of the Social Security office in Albany by December 1. Subsequent coverage periods under this reopening are expected in late January and February. The deadline for filing for retroactive coverage is December 31, 1962.

Continuous membership in the State Employees' Retirement System of the State Teachers' Retirement System since the opening of Social Security to these persons in 1956 is required for coverage under this reopening. In addition, the person must be employed at the Social Security office in Albany by December 1. Subsequent coverage periods will commence after the reopening.
