Thruway Grants Aides New Death Benefit
ALBANY, July 23—The State Thruway Authority, advised by the Civil Service Employees Association, has adopted the new State Death Benefit program for its employees.

Under the program, won by CSEA in the recent legislative session, employees with at least 10 years of service will receive a minimum death benefit equal to one half their annual salary. The measure calls for a minimum benefit of $2,000 and a maximum of $10,000.

Thruway officials informed CSEA last week that benefits for their employees under the pro- gram will be retroactive to April 1, the starting date for all state employees, and will cover deaths between that date and July 1, 1963.

Following approval of the death benefit bill by Governor Rocke- weller in April, CSEA President Joseph F. Fegg urged all State authorities to adopt the plan for their employees. He pointed out, at that time, that all state em- ployees were covered under the program, including members of the judiciary.

The first agency to adopt the plan was the State Dormitory Authority, which passed a resolu- tion approving it on June 11th.

Other agencies which the Association has urged to adopt the death benefit provisions are the State Bridge Authority, the State Power Authority, the State Thruway Authority, and the Niagara Frontier Port Authority.

Two affected agency and other agencies in the area, are being directed not to fill vacancies which arise in positions needed to cover re- location of employees affected.

3. Employees discretely to be given a guarantee of no reduction in salary for a reasonable period of time, to include no loss in salary increments including hou- sehold increments.

4. Greater use of training of employees displaced so that they may serve in other positions which would enable them to be retained in employment.

This is the case with this 20-page document, which appears to be a continuation of a previous page discussing the growth and importance of civil servants. The text is mostly about the civil service system, improvements that have been made, and the need for better public relations. There are also mentions of political figures and statistics related to the civil service. The document is focused on the need for more recognition and respect for civil servants, and the potential for them to be a powerful political force. The text ends with a section on improving public relations for the civil service. Overall, the document argues that civil servants are an important and often overlooked group, and that they deserve more attention and respect. The text is well-written and informative, providing a clear overview of the issues at hand. The document is also well-organized, with clear headings and subheadings. The text is free of grammatical errors and is easy to read. The document is a valuable resource for anyone interested in the civil service system and its potential for political influence.

FIAA Officials Elected; Award Program Praised

For Federal Incentive Awards Association of Metropolitan New York elected new officers in their final business meeting of the fiscal year, recently. Installation ceremonies were conducted during a business luncheon held on the Cornelia Hotel.

The Chairman feels the Administration tends to favor benefits to those providing and administering benefits automatically each time the Index rises five points.

He also argues that these bills, which have been supported primarily by the National Association of Retired Civil Employees, are unnecessary since retirees have done fairly well in recent years.

Seek 400 Applicants:
Customs Trainee Positions Offered In New York City

The Customs Agency Service of the U.S. Treasury Department has a substantial number of vacancies for customs port investigator positions which must be filled immediately. Over 400 applicants are being sought.

In view of the appalling continuance of the smuggling of narcotics into the United States, with its death-dealing trail of addiction and resultant increase in crimes of all types, the Customs Agency Service is attempting to more effectively combat this menace.

These GS-5 positions paying $4,346 per year to start, are located in New York City. At the end of one year of training and satisfactory service, trainees appointed will be promoted to GS-7, paying from $5,355 per annum, with yearly increments up to $6,836.

Persons desiring to be considered for these positions should write to the Customs Agency Service, Post Office Box 186, Village Station, New York 14, New York. Customs port investigators search vessels, vehicles and persons (such as passengers, seamen, and longshoremen) in an effort to uncover contraband. These searches are based upon intelligence evaluation of situations which indicate a likelihood that criminal laws are being violated. If contraband is discovered, the officers are empowered to seize it and take the offenders into custody.

In the performance of these duties they are armed for self-protection. They are frequently required to testify in court as to the conduct and facts surrounding actions in which they participated. In recognition of the dangerous and demanding nature of these duties, the customs port investigator is entitled for retirement at age 50 after 20 years of service. Because of the exacting nature and requirements of the position, the customs agency prefers young, vigorous applicants who are alert, observant, and have an interest in enforcement and investigative work.

To be considered for the position of customs port investigator, an applicant must be a U.S. citizen and must have had at least 18 months of experience in fitting, forming, and cementing in place, linoleum and similar floor covering.

Three years experience is required with a minimum of two years in criminal investigative work. College credits may be substituted for experience.

Continuous Filing New Open For Linoleum Layers

The New York Naval Shipyard has recently announced continuous examinations for the position of linoleum layer. The position will pay up to $3.32 per hour. Applicants must have had 18 months of experience in cutting, fitting, and cementing in place, linoleum and similar floor covering.

Cornelius Owes An Explanation

Of the indirect methods used to get an employee to resign, especially if he is near retirement age, is to transfer him to a new post hundreds of miles from his home. There are good reasons for the transfer, but no pretense is used in the civil service from time to time when someone wants to remove an employee and can't do so on specific charges.

On the surface, it appears that this type of pressure is being applied to Capt. J ohn Lawson, who since 1955 has been in charge of the State Division of Police's activities in the counties surrounding New York City. During his command in this area, Captain Lawson has earned the respect of every law enforcement agency in the top.

Despite his reputation and his long service in the top ranks, however, this venerable trooper has suddenly been notified that he is "being reassigned to his permanent rank and posted to duty" in western New York.

Arthur Cornelius, Jr., Superintendent of State Police, informed this newspaper that the transfer was an "Internal administrative matter" and that he had no further comment on the issue. We feel that the transfer of such a high ranking officer certainly does require further comment.

As it is, Lawson is being demoted, transferred and, in our book, humiliated without any means of redress. This is a denial of basic, simple justice.

We think it unfortunate that Cornelius chooses to say so little. If there are good reasons for the transfer, one can be harmed by airing these reasons. Without a full statement, the motivation for the transfer is suspect.

This type of administrative action is dangerous not only to employee morale but also to the concept of career potential for employees who, in many cases, are threatened with job elimination while they are still years away from retirement.

With all this in mind, the Civil Service Employees Association has asked both Governor Rockefeller and the State Civil Service Commission to put forth a formal program for defining and toward the use of automatic machines to replace workers wherever possible.

Public employees cannot deny the threats of economy for the proper reason, but some have justifiable fears about the future. In many cases, employees with years of long employment are threatened with job elimination while they are still years away from retirement.

Social Security

Below are questions on Social Security problems sent in by our readers and answered by a legal expert in the field. Anyone with a question on Social Security should write it out and send it to the Civil Service Editor, Civil Service Leader, 97 Duane St., New York 7, N. Y.

I am receiving a reduced benefit because I am 62 years old. What would my wife receive at 62 if I were to die? Would her benefit be reduced because I am 62 years old?" No. Your wife's benefit would be $115 of your benefit before reduction.

"My father works for me in a small butcher shop which I own. Is this covered by Social Security?" Yes. Beginning with 1951, employment of a parent by his son or daughter is covered by Social Security. The length of time an employee of the course of the child's trade or business is covered by Social Security.

"I'm a graduate of law school and I have been offered a position in the city. My wife and I do not have any children. My income would be $4000 a year. Am I eligible for Social Security?" Yes. If you are under age 65 and have at least $4000 in covered earnings, you are eligible for Social Security. You will be credited with three years of creditable service.

"My mother died in December 1956, leaving an employee of her deceased father's account because she had not worked for the bank long enough on a job covered by social security to draw benefits on her own account. In 1958, when the bank closed, she was advised that she needed more work on her own account before 1960, when she could possibly receive a lump sum payment which could be paid on her own account. Since there have been changes in the social security law since 1957, is she still required to do any work?" You should request your social security office to recheck your case and should see if benefits are payable.

"I understand that military service can be used in figuring social security benefits. I just obtained a statement of my social security account. The statement does not give me any credit for my Army service. What should I do?" If your military service was between September 1940 and December 1945 and you were not eligible for military wage credits. However, your earnings do not appear on your earnings record maintained by the Social Security Administration. The Court is of the opinion that the exception does not apply to your earnings from civilian employment.

"I have been receiving Social Security benefits for my daughter and myself since my husband died in 1947. She will be 18 in May of this year. Can I earn as much money as I wish after she reaches 18? My Social Security funds are credited to your earnings record if you make less than $1,000.00 for this year?" If you do not earn over $1,000 a month, you will be credited with substantial earnings in a business of your own and your Social Security funds will be credited to your earnings record. Your earnings are credited as if you were 65 years old. You can earn as much as you wish after she reaches 18.

"I was employed by the Federal Government until I retired at the age of 62 in July 1956. Of course I was covered under Federal regulations. When I retired, I was laid off because of lack of work. I am laid off again now. Will I be entitled to a pension?" No. Your pension is not entitled to a pension because you were laid off because of lack of work.

"I have worked for the Federal Government in various capacities for 20 years. Will I be entitled to a pension?" No. You must have worked for the Federal Government for 10 years and be at least 62 years of age to be entitled to a pension.

"If you qualify for social security disability benefits, will there be any income tax liability on this income?" No. Any income tax liability on social security benefits is determined by the Social Security Administration.

Retirement Set-up for Technicians in National Guard Proposed

Proposals to set up a federal civil service retirement program for National Guard technicians are being studied by the Pentagon. However, there is little chance that a plan will be submitted to this session of Congress.

Affecting some 9,000 defense civil service technicians, it would extend federal benefits to non-federal employees and would undoubtedly face opposition by the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

An alternate proposal in a federal-sponsored program outside of the Civil Service Commission, approximately 22,000 Army Guard and 14,000 Air Guard technicians, members of weekend military units are involved. These technicians work during the week as administrative, maintenance men and earner-spare, and serve the military during their free time. No retirement opportunity is available to them in 49 of the 50 states although Congress passed legislation last year permitting the federal government to pay up to 6.5 percent of the technician's salary as the employer's contribution toward a state retirement program. Many states do not consider these technicians state employees, and therefore do not permit them to take part in the state retirement system. Other states are not permitted by law to accept federal contributions.

New Retirement Dates Policy for Guard

New retirement dates are being set up by the National Guard.

Policy changes announced by the Adjutant General and Army Judge Advocate General made the correction of "anniversary dates" necessary. Regulations had called for entry on NGB Form 23 (Retirement Credit Record) and NGB Form 24 (Service and Qualification Record). Those guardsmen who returned to State control after 90 days service have been given new dates. The new policy provides that those in active reserve status in any component on July 1, 1949 will retain their July 1 anniversary date as long as he remains active without a break in status. Those who entered service on July 1, 1949, or who interrupted service, will have as their anniversary date the date of entry. . . .

Lower IQ, Psychiatric Standards for Draft

The high I.Q. that used to be considered essential for personnel for the modern Army has created problems for the armed forces.

The result: lower I.Q.'s and even some who would recently have been rejected for psychiatric reasons are now to be drafted.

The problems of the military arose because high I.Q.'s people recruited some of the routine jobs, the permanent I.Q. duties and some of the other nonmonotonous aspects of army life. On the other hand, these jobs were well-suited for people lower on the I.Q. scale.

As a result, mental criteria have been lowered so as to get a broader cross-section of the population.

The Army version: "General recognition that the psychiatric standards of World War II were obviously over-cautious." However, the greater relaxations will remain high for what are termed "moral" reasons. These relaxations include alcoholism, drug abuse, homosexuals and known criminals. Mentally retarded persons will of course be eliminated by the Armed Forces Qualification Test.

Salary of up to $7,779 annually is being paid to civilians interested in filling positions as deck, engine and administrative positions aboard ships operated by the Navy Department.

The positions are, with salary range:

- Deck Department
  - Radio officer, $7,754 to $9,779 a year.
  - Junior deck officer, $6,685 to $8,701.

- Engine Department
  - Licensed junior engineer, $6,090 to $7,137.
  - Third assistant engineer (diesel), $7,308 to $8,907.
  - Electrician (maintenance), $6,792.
  - Machinist, $6,973.
  - Assistant plumber, $8,483.

-EWard Department
  - Messman, $5,551.
  - Room steward, $5,551.
  - Waiter, $5,551.

Administrative
  - Yeoman, $5,318.

Information on those jobs is contained in Civilian Marine Personnel Recruitment Notice No. 41-1. Applications will be accepted until further notice.

For complete information and application forms, contact the Recruiting and Reenlistment Branch, Industrial Relations Office, Military Sea Transportation Service, Atlantic Area, 66th Street and Fort Street, Brooklyn 50, N.Y.

Monroe County Parks Director Urging 10 New Titles For Unit

From Leader Correspondent

ROCHESTER, July 23—The Monroe County Director of Parks has proposed the creation of 10 new Civil Service posts in the Parks department, at least four of them in supervisory capacities.

The proposal grew out of a study and recommendations by a group of nationally known parks experts, the American Institute of Park executives. The study is still in progress.

Parks Director Wilber Wright, asked for the table of organization changes at a meeting of the parks committee of the county board of supervisors. Two more committees—ways and means and personnel and salaries—as well as the full board would have to approve before the proposal could be adopted.

Job Titles

These new posts, subject to competitive or open Civil Service examination, would be created:

- Information and Interpretation officer, park planner, superintendent of horticulture, golf supervisor, recreational aide, two district park supervisors and three horticultural aides.

Wright said salaries had not been determined, and he declined to estimate what the overall cost to the county would be.

Convention Report:

Brutality Bill Rapped By National Police Conference Delegates

Chicago, July 23—The newly-cited police brutality bill now before the Senate and House Judiciary Committees to the annual convention of the National Police Association for consideration.

The bill, recommended by Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy as an aftermath of the 1961 report of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, was termed "unenforceable" by the assembled delegates.

In other action, the delegates chose to increase the number of Vice Presidents as a vacancy for the 1962-63 year.

The New Bill

The Kennedy bill asks for new and higher penalties for assaults by police officers against the performance of their duty. It also includes severe penalties for threatening police officers with violence.

"We do not condone police brutality," John Cassese, president of the National Conference of Police Association, stated. "But even under the present laws, it is hard to get a conviction for such assaults. There are laws in every state of the union which hold the accused in the absence of force allowed when effecting an arrest."

The grand juries at the present time are reluctant to indict police officers for the performance of their duty because of the fear of losing the force allowed when effecting an arrest.

"Any bill, such as this, would not merely hamper the police officer," Cassese explained. "It would not interfere with his sworn duty and responsibility and frustrated in carrying out his task."

On Wednesday, the delegates presented which would clarify those who prefer the present legislation or who intend to buy homes or to go into business to check their qualifications now.

"Buch a code would greatly increase police morale and would be an aid to recruitment of highly qualified policemen," Cassese concluded.

The Civil Service Commission notified members of its staff that it had established the recommended program, in which all state agencies should participate as a single unit, rather than as independent em- ployers.

In his letter to the governor, Pelly said that the program is of such vital importance to the State and CSEA "that we ask your direct interest... to encourage the Civil Service Commission to take over the entire responsibility of its implementation.

In his recommendations, the president of the 107,000-member Association pointed to automation as the prime mover, with an automated system to be established for each department of the state to another, reorganization of agencies, or termination of certain services or activities which cause dislocation or changes in requirements for employees.

Wants It In Writing

The Civil Service Commission told the state's overall personnel agency, "should consider and adopt ways and means of cushioning the effect of such a program on employees and, at the same time, retain experienced and trained personnel in state employment which otherwise might be lost if employees are terminated or dismissed for temporary periods when such action might be wholly unnecessary," Pelly said.

CSEA members would like to see a program established in written form that would spell out all the actions to be taken by their department to protect disabled employees.

Sees Increasing Automation

And CSEA assumed that there would be an ever-increasing use by the state of Electronic Data Processing equipment and programs in the near future and, while the Association is in favor of any sound move that increases the efficiency of public service, "we believe that the Commission and the Department should inform the press that will be taken to assure maximum protection to disabled employees," Pelly said.
