ALBANY, Sept. 29 — Alan Schwartzman of New York City is the new secretary to the State Board of Examiners of Landscape Architects and the State Board of Examiners of Architects. He succeeds Harold T. Brinkhoff, who is retiring.

Jerry Finkelstein Acquires Control of N.Y. Law Journal

There was a change of ownership last week for the first time in three-quarters of a century of the historic New York Law Journal, the official daily newspaper of the legal profession in New York.

The transfer of control of the nation’s oldest daily law journal also marked the entry into the daily newspaper field by Attorney Jerry Finkelstein, founder and publisher of the weekly Civil Service Laborer. Mr. Finkelstein is Chairman of the Board of ABC Industries, Inc., a diversified holding company which acquired a majority of the stock of the New York Law Publishing Company for a price in excess of $1,000,000. Mr. Finkelstein was elected last week as Chairman of the Board of the Law Publishing Company and named publisher of the Law Journal at a special meeting of the Board in The Bank of New York, 125 Maiden Lane.

Executives, Staff Remain

Many of the executives and staff members of the journal will remain in the New York Law Journal organization.

CSEA Wins Point On Civil Service Information Unit

ALBANY, Sept. 23 — The State Civil Service Department’s Assistance Center located in the lobby of the State Office Building in downtown Albany, will not be moved to the State Campus as had been proposed, the Civil Service Employees Association has informed.

CSEA President Joseph F. Feily, in a letter to H. Blake Kaplan, executive director of the Civil Service Commission, has strongly opposed the proposed move on the grounds that “a democracy needs a face.”
He said he would work to maintain "the Law Journal would remain. Within the legal profession as the Qualified... will continue as President of the Company. Doyle will remain as Secretary of the Board, as will Mrs. Catherine McCook Knox, ... Judge Finch, Rankin, Doyle and Mrs. Catherine McCook Knox, a daughter of General Anson G. Finch. It is a 16 to 1 ratio... texts of addresses, notes, book reviews, articles, essays,... In the "Salutatory" in the first issue, it stated that the new publication would be devoted to "the production of items of interest to the Bench and Bar," a goal which has been pursued with diligence and thoroughness ever since.

Founded The Leader

Mr. Finklestein, a publisher-in-printer, founded the Civil Service Leader in 1919. In its 24-year history, the Leader has become the largest weekly newspaper published in the United States and has developed into the editorial pace-setter for government employment. Mr. Finklestein, who is a native New Yorker, was graduated from New York Law School although he did not take his law exam. While still attending Law School,... the Law Journal established its own printing plant, which is now located at 8-15 Murray Street. In the "Decalogue," the first issue, it was stated that the new publication would be devoted to "the production of items of interest to the Bench and Bar," a goal which has been pursued with diligence and thoroughness ever since.

New Rule Permits Federal Agencies To Withhold State Tax

A new amendment to the U.S. Civil Service Commission regula- tions will permit Federal agencies to withhold State income tax from the salary of Federal employees who are residents of State but who work in another State.

In the past, deductions for State income taxes for the States of residence have been made only where a Federal employee is employed in the same State if that State has entered into an agreement with the Secretary of the Treasury.

Because of the manner in which this amendment is written, the regulations will apply only in 27 States and the District of Columbia. Before any State income tax deductions can be made by the Federal agencies, an agree- ment must be made with the Secretary of the Treasury. Some States do not have this agreement.

New Procedures Needed
In Making State Budget

W e feel a change of procedure in making up State department and agency budget requests is long overdue.

In the main, State department budget requests—part of the procedure for all state budgets—are made based on needed services and suggested programs. Rarely does the agency head figure in any salary needs of the employee who works under him. This is a wrong procedure for a number of reasons.

The State Legislature has passed a law this year by the State Legislature to decide whether to set up a grievance procedure for city employees to voice complaints. The grievance procedure, or the state will set up one of its own for the city.

Under the proposed legislation, the Binghamton procedure would call for an aggrieved employee to take up his complaint with his department head. If he chose, take his complaint one step further—to a three-man grievance committee to be named by Mayor John J. Burns.

This procedure would be acceptable to the state, as would a second procedure which would entail an aggrieved employee taking up his complaint with his immediate superior before going to his department head and the three-man grievance committee.

FIRST RETIREE — Cake, dinner, a gold engraved scroll and cash were among gifts given by the Temporary State Housing Commission in New York City at Page’s Restaurant. The recipient of all of these presentations was Mrs. Janet Dunker, secretary to Robert E. Herman, the retiring secretary to Robert E. Herman, Temporary State Housing Rent Commissioner, who has approached her work since her volunteer days during the Second World War. Mrs. Dunker, the retiring secretary to the Rent Control Commission, has in effect grown up with rent control, as Mrs. Dunker calls the people (as Mrs. Dunker calls the people, Commission and specifically for rent control service). She also represents each phase of the State Housing Commission, the people, Commission and specifically for rent control service. She has been a legal secretary. She moved to Albany in 1943 as a volunteer with the Office of Price Administration in Minnada as a secretary. Her children had grown up and she felt the need to do something “to serve her country.” She was transferred on a full-time basis as a secretary in the Federal Rent Control Commission, a newly formed temporary commission, when it was discovered that part of the marriage she had given up, and a clock-radio by her fellow workers. Dr. Herman in congratulating Mrs. Dunker said, “She has held a place unique to herself—no one will replace her.” Also present at the dinner were Charles E. Griffith, deputy commissioner; Harold Zuckerk, counsel to the commission. In addition, the immediate family were present, including the husband, Dr. Herman Dunker. Also present were her daughter Janet and Dale and Mrs. Wood, her husband and son-in-law. Chairman for the evening was Daniel Healy, co-chairman, Vincent Deiters, who designed and created the scroll; and Rose Fazzino, publicist, who designed and created the scroll.

Wartime spirit has remained for one State employee for over 19 years. The spirit of “we each wanted to do what little we could” in the attitude in which Mrs. Janet Dunker has approached her work since her volunteer days during the Second World War. Mrs. Dunker, the retiring secretary to Robert E. Herman, Temporary State Housing Rent Commissioner, has in effect grown up with rent control, as Mrs. Dunker calls the people (as Mrs. Dunker calls the people, Commission and specifically for rent control service).

In recognition of this spirit and of her volunteer work, the “family” (as Mrs. Dunker calls the people, Commission and specifically for rent control service) recently held a cocktail party and was given a set of corning ware and a clock-radio. She was also given a set of crockery ware and a clock-radio by her fellow workers. Dr. Herman in congratulating Mrs. Dunker said, “She has held a place unique to herself—no one will replace her.” Also present at the dinner were Charles E. Griffith, deputy commissioner; Harold Zuckerk, counsel to the commission. In addition, the immediate family were present, including the husband, Dr. Herman Dunker. ing public employees? The reason lies in their discovery of the size of the civil service vote, which was publicized to a large degree in this column some months prior to the 1962 elections. It was even the most conservative estimates that show total vote of the 20 percent of the electorate. Professional pollsters usually round 25% votes per working family. This is true whether they be ethnic, labor or religious, exceed that percentage.

In addition, there has recently been a good deal of front page reporting on a Federal study that showed, on a national average, one out of every five workers in America was working for either national, state or local government. In New York State, the reported figure was one out of five.

The Proof

One proof that office workers are now eager to make an impression on public employees is the number of campaigns they are willing to make with civil service organizations. This writer recalls when last 1962 years ago the number of occasions on which any employee organization meeting featured an important political figure rarely exceeded four or five a year throughout the State. A survey last week showed that since January 1 of this year The Leader alone has reported some 30 stories on the attendance at organization meetings by figures such as Governor Rockefeller, Comptroller Arthur Levitt, Senator Kenting, Assembly Speaker Joseph Cullina and Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Maione, to name a few. Equally significant is the number of county leaders of both parties seeking out invitations to civil service events.

The Statistics

The following statistics will show why a civil service event has become a drawing card for office workers. The total number of civil servants in the State—Federal, New York City and other local units—is roughly 800,000. Of these, 100,000 are Federal; 288,000 are State; 300,000 work for New York City; 280,000 are in other local jurisdictions and the remainder are in such classifications as transport and public authorities.

Voting registration in the 1962 elections throughout the State was 7,881,032. That means the 200,000 civil servants total more than 10 percent of the electorate. Professional pollsters usually round 25% votes per working family. Using just a conservative two votes per family, the civil service vote can be estimated at slightly more than 20 percent.

Public employees are better organized than they were five years ago. The State Civil Service Employees Assn., which represents State, county and municipal workers, has grown from some 80,000 in 1958 to over 115,000 to date—and is still growing. No single labor organization unit in the state comes near that figure.

Publicists Alerted

When we first wrote on the size of the civil service vote we referred to it as a "sleeping giant." Since that time there has been an awakening, not only among the politicians but the public employees themselves. The result is that the civil service vote is moving closer and closer to being an authoritative bloc when it comes to being concerned about ballot.

We predict that it will one day be the most influential voting section of the populace. Signs are that the politicians are already alerted to that fact.

Consolidation Savings

Termed “Fictitious”

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23—The International Association of Fire Fighters has come to grips with a subject causing consternation among upstate New York police and fire departments—the idea of consolidation to save tax dollars.

The plan caused a political rift in Ogdensburg, two years ago, where it was beaten down with the aid of the I.A.F.P.A. It has been discussed in Watertown, political circles, and elsewhere in upstate New York for years.

The idea, originating in the midwest, has spread into a serious discussion stage to other states of the United States and provinces in Canada.

Misguided Effort

Meeting at I.A.F.P.A. headquarters in Rochester, two years ago, the five-member rank and file committee of the association asssailed the fire-police consolidation plan. They said the plan, advanced by some city managers and municipalities, is “a misguided mistaken effort to save their communities.”

Whatever such consolidation has been tried, spokesmen said, it has failed to provide adequate fire protection. They said there is sometimes improvement in police services but fire protection “invariably suffers.”

Typical of his English forte, Irving is a very staunch personality and has a subtle sense of humor.

He entered State service in 1948 and immediately became interested in Association affairs. He served for two years as vice president of our chapter. Following this tenure he was elected as M.H.E.A. delegate.

During his six years a delegate he has served on many important committees. Presently, he is first vice president of your Mental Hygiene Employees Association.

He is a graduate in Business Administration and employed in the insurance industry of his home town. He is affiliated with many civic organizations and very active in his local church. He is very busy man but one who has always had time to listen to the well founded problems of his fellow employees.

IRMMA GERMAN
Candidate for Representative Mental Hygiene Department

Irma German has been employed in Food Services for 28 years at State School. A graduate of Molloy Technical Institute, she has majored in Institutional Management and Nutrition.

For many years she has taken a personal and active interest in the Fort Orange Chapter of State School. She has served as Vice-President and 6 years as Chapter President. Through the years, she has also worked on chapter committees and is presently a Delegate and Chairman of the Membership Committee of her Chapter.

For a number of years, she has been treasurer of the Central New York Conference. In addition, she has been a member of the State Legislative Committees for 8 years and has never missed a meeting.

Irma has worked untringly to improve the working conditions of Mental Hygiene employees. She has been on many appeal committees and has given special attention to the lower paid employees in State institutions, such as kitchen helpers, farm hands and attendants.

On the basis that we will all be retired some day, she has worked hard for better retirement benefits.

Irma believes that the Mental Hygiene employee has the possibility to sell the importance of their work to the general public. She is a member of the Board of Directors at Morrisville and active in Orange, Home Extension and Local Defense, she has used every opportunity to promote the Mental Hygiene story to the public. Mental Hygiene employees can be certain that Irma will continue her devoted service in their behalf as Mental Hygiene representative.

Marie Herbold attended State service in 1941 at Rockland State Hospital as an attendant. Her sister was a mental hygienist for four years during World War II at which time she contributed to the war effort as an Inspector of a defense plant. She returned to Rockland State Hospital in 1946 and served as a delegate until 1948.

She transferred to Hudson River State Hospital in 1948 where she has been a delegate for Rockland State Hospital since 1963.

She has always been a very active and interested employee in CSEA affairs and has served diligently on all chapter committees, Membership, Chairman, etc. Her ambitions were rewarded by having been elected to the chapter Executive Committee several times in the past. She has many times represented her chapter as a delegate to the annual meetings. Further honors were accorded her when she was elected 2nd Vice-President of the Rockland State School chapter after serving a 2 year term beginning in July of 1964.

Marie has been a CSEA member for 23 years but due to family responsibilities as a mother, was unable to actively participate in chapter activities until 1948. Since then she has shown a keen interest in the problems of the Mental Hygiene employee and is known as a fighter amongst her friends.

We know that Marie can fulfill her responsibilities as a Mental Hygiene representative and will do utmost to advance the improvement of the employee cause.

Over the years Marie has been active in Girl Scouts both as Assistant and Leader of a Troop. She is an ardent sports fan and nothing pleases her more than watching wrestling and light matches on TV.

Marie is half of another husband and wife combination employed by the State. Her husband, John, has also served the State for 28 years, the first 21 of which were spent in the Mental Hygiene Department. At present he is with the New York State Thruway.
