After CSEA Protest
Rockland Vetoes Union Request For Election

NEW CITY, May 25 - A resolution of the Board of Supervisors of Rockland County—which the Civil Service Employees Assn. had branded as "highly discriminator"—was reemed last week as the result of direct intervention by the Employees Assn. and its 4,000 State and local members in the county.

The resolution had called for an election among a small group of county employees to determine if they wished to be represented by a labor union.

Rice Argues
The resolution and election were cancelled at a board meeting last week, following an hour-long debate on the issue, during which John C. Rice, CSEA assistant chairman, showed the board that the Employees Association already represented the employees in question.

Pay Raises Due
Thruway Aides

ALBANY, May 25—The State Thruway Authority is expected to grant pay increases to its employees based on the State salary raise which takes effect Oct. 1.

This was seen after the authority moved recently to provide their workers with a take-home pay raise, effective April 18th by assuming an additional three percent of employee contributions to the Retirement System.

The authority action was in keeping with its established policy of giving its workers substantially the same benefits as granted those working for the state.

Plans for the photo contest were announced today by Joseph F. Feily, president of CSEA. He said the purpose of the exhibit at the State Exhibition is to give the general public an indication of the many cultural, social and civil endeavors participated in by New York State's public employees.

This year the Association is conducting the photo contest in an effort to expand its membership by members and their spouses. In the past two years the Association successfully conducted art shows in conjunction with the Exhibition.

STATE primaries are the big news in the Presidential sweepstakes these days but for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller the key to his ambitions for the GOP nomination may lie in the Annual Governors' Conference, being held this year in Cleveland on June 6, four days after the California primary.

If Rockefeller can do for himself, at that Conference, what Thomas E. Dewey did for Eisenhower at the 1952 Governors' Conference, it is still possible the New York Governor could nail down the nomination in Cleveland. It was at the (Continued on Page 2)

U.S. Pay Hike

How do all these arguments apply to himself and against his greatest current rival, Sen. Barry Goldwater? In other words, Rockefeller will argue that Goldwater will draw only conservative Republican votes, will go to the GOP some regular party votes. The New York Governor does not believe that he has a liberal record, combined with his fiscal policies, barring a financial crisis, will attract votes of all political faiths.

Governors Importance
In many states, convention delegates are controlled by the governor of the state. One device used by many governors to control the delegation is the "favorite son" technique, whereby they go into a convention uncommitted to any particular candidate. It is believed that the degree to which the governor, with his fellow state executives depends a good deal on his show- manism at a convention. At the next one, there is no doubt that his big win recently in Oregon made his choice for state delegate more stock the convention but the road to a still a long one—and Rockefeller himself.

Rockefeller grabbed the headlines at the Governor's Conference in Florida last year by passing a law to take a firm stand on civil rights. The Conference never did take a stand but the name made Rockefeller the current figure through the meeting. It can be expected that he will bring some equal employment law to the political debate, that is, making an issue of equal treatment to the Cleveland session—plus all his arguments is why Rockefeller can't win if nominated.

Library Dem Need
What does all this mean as far as Attorney General Robert Kenney is concerned? Is the Governor about to abandon his liberal stand so far as the Civil Rights movement is concerned? In essence, it means that the Democrats would need a wholly conservative candidate to draw only conservative Republi- can votes. If Rockefeller would strengthen continues to grow, particularly if he either wins the nomination or runs as a liberal candidate, it would be expected that he will bring some equal employment civil rights issue to the convention.

Most Democratic were feel that a ticket in the liberal Sen. Robert Kennedy, would be of great importance to the Democratic party. But with Rockefeller as an outspoken candidate, the Governor will get plenty of backing. But with Rockefeller as an outspoken candidate, the Governor will get plenty of backing. But with Rockefeller as an outspoken candidate, the Governor will get plenty of backing.

Rockefeller's Position
What is most important right now to these same polls is the fact that this is the first time that a candidate should declare his intent about the New York race and stop hedging. All his recent polls are not conducted in terms of full competition.

If Kennedy wants to run he must make it known. But if he wants to run he must make it known. But if he wants to run he must make it known. But if he wants to run he must make it known. CSEA Protests Removal Of Written Exam For PA Internship Recruits

ALBANY, May 25—The removal of the written examination requirement from the State Civil Service Department's recruitment program for public administration internships this year has been protested by the Civil Service Employees Assn.

The Association's action came after it was learned that the internship recruitment program for 1964-65 will place no premium on a written examination, as in the past. Instead, the examination will be based entirely on oral testing.

Asking Explanations

CSEA, which has long been a foe of oral testing for promotional purposes, took issue with the announcement and requested an explanation from the Department so that the Association's Oral Examinations Committee could study the matter. In his request for information, Joseph F. Murray, CSEA president, said the Association's long standing support for the Civil Service Merit System. He said, "For many years it was felt that the present war to assure appointment on the basis of mere qualifications with or without any interference from various influences was to test by written examination."

Perry also charged that:

—The positions would be filled on a "first come, first serve" basis rather than through open competition.
—The testing procedure is improper because it does not allow for an appeal of scores.
—The educational requirements (a masters degree) are held so high that they defeat the competition hoped for, said
—The Office of General Services Chapter of CSEA on June 2.

Service Employees Assn., will Install officers for the newly- formed Office of General Services Chapter of CSEA on June 2.

Watertown Unit Names First Award Winner

MANNESVILLE, May 25 — Miss Donna L. Needell, Watertown, has been named to the Scholarship Committee. Miss Needell was presented with an award sponsored by the Watertown Chapter, CSEA.

Miss Needell was presented with a scholarship to the Watertown Chapter, CSEA. She is a graduate of the Watertown Community College, in the fall. She plans to attend Jefferson Community College, in New York State, at anytime between January 1 and probably May, will have a fair chance of appointment — assuming he can pass the oral test."

With respect to appeals, Murray said there seems to be no interest because anyone who fails has other job offer and does not desire to appeal his ruling.

As to recruiting outside New York State, it was explained that the department has not been able to get the mandated amount of qualified people from New York State or even in surrounding states.

Accounting and Poetry

Occupy Daily Life Of Miss Kay Magenheimer (From Leader Correspondent)

BABYLON, May 25—Accounting and poetry may appear to be two widely-separated endeavors but Kay Magenheimer of Long Island is successful in both fields.

In the business world, Miss Magenheimer is the principal accountant at the Long Island Park Commission headquarters in Babylon, where she helps administer the farm, forest and wildlife operations of the multi-million dollar agency.

In the world of literature, she is a poet and writer. The broad-minded volume of poetry, "Love's Stigma," met the Publisher's Award for 1963 and is now in its second printing.

The $100 prize which Miss Magenheimer won will go to the new Kenneth Grainger, the prize winner who was born in Cambridge Mass. She is also going to give the library something even more valuable than money, a gold-framed engraving of the poem she wrote on Nov. 1, 1963, in the day book which the late President John F. Kennedy was buried.

With heart cast of oak and during Made his great resolve And nailed his colors to the mast.

Breaking against his bleak
New England coast.
His voice rose to shake the mighty halls of his ship. To rouse men from their sleep.

"Ask Not . . ." was printed in the Congressional Record Jan. 1 of U.S. Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) and is the highlight of the combination lecture and poetry reading which Miss Magenheimer was called upon, incisively, to give for a variety of organizations on Long Island. She has won recognition for her writing in other ways, too. Rep. Leo O'Brien (D-Albany) cited a poem which Miss Magenheimer wrote about the late Eleanor Roosevelt in the Congressional Record of Nov. 21, 1963. He noted, "I am pleased, indeed, that a friend should contribute to the all too slender stream of American poetry. Beyond that, I am impressed by the delicacy of expression and the depth and understanding in each of these little gems."

Former Newswoman

Miss Magenheimer and both Mrs. Roosevelt and Mr. O'Brien during the early 1920's when she worked as a feature writer on Albany Times-Union. A former director of advertising and publicity for a phonograph record company, Miss Magenheimer has devoted much of her free time to journalism and charitable organization work.

She has been active in inter-racial work and for 10 years served as a member of the board of directors of Our Lady of Consolation Home for the Aged at Amityville, Long Island. Another book of poetry is due to be published next year and a novel is also in the works. "What I'm trying to do," says Miss Magenheimer, "is to help people understand the meaning of life."

President Johnson:

How About Naming A Career Employee?

ONE group of people that President Johnson hasn't completely sold yet is the public employee. This can be attributed to the various statements made by him and for him in connection with the Federal job freeze as well as the lessening of the number of government employees.

Whether he is right or wrong is still being debated and discussed. However, one thing he can do is to promote career people to top spots from within.

Career people have indulged a dedication to staying on the job and giving their entire working life to the service.

Now, Mr. President—how about considering a career employee for the position recently vacated by Morton Caplin as Commissioner of Internal Revenue?

Police Review Boards

JOHN Cassese, leader of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, this week notified all members of the New York City Council, in an 11-page memorandum, that his 25,000 members are against any outside interference by civilian police review boards.

Pointing out that such review board would weaken department discipline, drastically reduce morale and water down the authority of the Police Commissioner, Cassese noted that there was, in fact, no necessity of appointing such a board.

The proposed board, the topic of legislation now before the City Council, would review charges of brutality against policemen and have the power to take action against the defendant policeman.

Cassese argues that the discipline of the department, under Police Commissioner Michael Murphy, is at "a high level. Murphy is stern—but just, he says. As a fellow former officer, he sits as an impartial judge and has been known to hand out stiff sentences where necessary, the FBA feels.

We urge the City Council to study closely the memorandum from Cassese and the FBA.

The Coffee Break

ARGUMENTS for and against that now firm American institution—the coffee break—drew an argument in the affirmative recently from the New York State Grievance Appeals Board.

It seems that employees in the State Insurance Fund offices here in New York felt discriminated against because the coffee break is prohibited to them.

In agreeing that this comprised a grievance that should be remedied, the Board declared "Required hours of work contemplate periods of non-work from 10 to 30 minutes. Many employees would consider a coffee break a rest period related, if not equal, to personal leave. The practice is of long standing and has been recognized as proper by those who determine work hours."

"In conclusion, the Grievance Appeals Board suggests that the State Insurance Fund seriously consider the fact that so many other State agencies have adopted this practice and the possible effects on employee morale of prohibiting the practice in the State Insurance Fund."

We suggest that those in authority at the SIF get together over a cup of coffee and examine the whole problem. We are sure that they will agree that granting the coffee break is inevitable—and not at all a bad idea.

PR Nuggets From Gaynor

WE PROMISED in last week's column to transmit some more prize public relations nuggets offered by James Wm. Gaynor, New York State Commissioner of Housing and Community Renewal, to government executives in his field at a recent International convention.

HERE ARE some of these nuggets, which won for Commissioner Gaynor our public relations blue ribbon award:

"THE SKILLFUL public officer is ruled by two considerations: first, his obligation to submit himself to appropriate public exposure in connection with his job; second, his obligation to keep his eye on the job, not on the headlines."

"IT HAS BEEN seriously proposed, by toilers in this particular vineyard (urban renewal), that newspapers have a responsibility to develop public acceptance for renewal activities. The official who recognizes that newspapers have no such responsibility is, in public relations at least, one step ahead of his colleagues who write their hands at news stories of their injustices and errors and, in effect, call for a cover up."

"BE WARY of instituting a weekly press conference. Heads of nations may need press conferences, 'but local government executives in his field at a recent International convention.

wall motto for this purpose.

* 2. UTILIZE THE techniques of the professional publi-lect list only if you thoroughly understand their function.
Otherwise, depend on your own common sense in planning ceremonies, undertaking TV interviews and issuing reports and news. You cannot gull the public or the press for long, so play it straight.

* 4. SOLICIT HOW-TO-DO-IT advice from the reporter on your beat, if you can develop an atmosphere of mutual trust.

* 5. ACCEPT THE public exposure required by your responsibility in whatever form it is commonly presented—TV interviews, forum discussions, public speaking. Exercise good judgment by turning down any exposure that will not advance public relations of your program.

* 6. DO YOUR HOMEWORK before you appear in public.
You won't be very informative if you're not up to date.

* 7. DISMISS THE IDEA that a reporter considers food and drink either a necessary accompaniment to, or a substitute for, news. Don't, in other words, confuse a press party with a press conference.

COMMISSIONER GAYNOR has set a fine example of sharing his PR know-how. We cordially invite all our readers to contribute the PR nuggets they have accumulated over the years. We will publish all such contributions, which, in our professional opinion, would help all in public life do a better job of their public relations.

CSEA Urges Erie Board To Act On Pay Formula

ALBANY, May 25—Joseph F. Feily, president of the 120,000-member Civil Service Employees Association has released the text of a letter to each member of the Erie County Board of Supervisors in regard to the distribution formula for proceeds from the anticipated increase in the proposed Erie County sales tax.

The following is the text of the letter:

The Civil Service Employees Association has been watching with great interest the action taken by the Erie County Board of Supervisors with respect to the adoption of a distribution formula to be used in disbursing anticipated proceeds from an increase of from 1 per cent to 3 per cent in the Erie County sales tax.

"Put Away Politics"

"We feel it is time members of the Erie County Board of Supervisors place political considerations in the background and engage in an open expression of amicability and diplomacy in resolving the problem of distribution of the aforementioned funds. We are speaking on behalf of more than 9,000 CSEA members in Erie County and particularly on behalf of those who are employees of the City of Buffalo.

"No one can deny that Erie County residents in the employ of the City of Buffalo are currently being paid salaries which are sub-standard and desperately in need of upward adjustment. Our own analysis of Buffalo City salaries shows that an increase of 10 per cent is needed in order to reach parity with salaries paid by other comparable public and private employees for comparable jobs. The desperate need for city salary increases has also been demonstrated in a survey by a private consulting firm engaged by CSEA.

CSEA Made Case

"We have met with the Mayor of the City of Buffalo and leaders of the City Council for the purpose of presenting our salary comparisons and pointing out the irrevocable necessity of a significant upward adjustment in city salaries this year. Subsequently, we appeared at the recent City Budget hearing and again presented our case in support of the upward adjustment of city salaries to all members of the City Council.

"We have received assurances from both the Mayor and leaders of the Buffalo City Council that significant salary increases will be granted to city employees this year if appropriate monies were forthcoming as a result of action taken by the Erie County Board of Supervisors with respect to the distribution of funds from anticipated increase in the County sales tax. We realize that you are well aware of the position taken by City Officials with respect to overdues--salary increases for City employees.

Aides' Needs Are First

"The justifiable needs of public employees should never be relegated to a position of secondary importance because of political considerations.

"The Civil Service Employees Association urgently requests that you support the salary tax distribution formula as promulgated by the Liaison Committee which would distribute proceeds on the basis of 1.95 per cent for education, 1.25 per cent for cities, towns and villages, and 0.7 per cent for the county. We believe that any further delay in the adoption of this proposal can only result in the magnification of an atmosphere which is already provoking an apparent instrumental to all parties concerned."

Kasson Describes Value of Payroll Deduction of Dues

SYRACUSE, May 25 — Payroll deductions not only make it easier to pay Civil Service Employees Assn. dues, but also help build up the membership.

Arthur Kasson Jr., Syracuse, told members of the Tioga County Chapter at their annual dinner dance last week, Kasson, president of Onondaga County Chapter. CSEA was the principal speaker at the affair, held in FPV Hall, Ossipee. He is also a member of the CSEA public relations committee.

Roberis Speaks

Ben Roberts, CSEA field representative, also spoke briefly at the dinner, attended by local civic leaders.

Kasson explained that payroll deduction plans permit members to pay dues monthly rather than annually or semi-annually. This saves most, the amount due, he said, makes payment of dues easier, and also is a strong point in prospective chapter members.

The major part of the talk was devoted to an explanation of the payroll deduction method.

Burrows Predicts Growth Of Broome County Chapter

(Binghamton JOURNAL, May 25—James A. Burrows, president of the Broome County CSEA chapter, has predicted that more than 100 City of Binghamton employees will join the chapter within a month.

Burrows said about 40 city employees, including 20 from the General Hospital staff, attended a recent meeting in the courthouse last week.

Benjamin Roberts, local CSEA field representative, addressed the group and discussed the importance of membership sign-up at General Hospital.

Burrows said most of the 40 people were anxious to join, but the sign-up was postponed after one told it was his understanding that hospital officials object to the membership drive.

Roberts immediately met with Gerhard A. Krems, hospital administrator, Krems again assured CSEA he will cooperate, Burrows said.

The attendance at the first city membership drive meeting was “very gratifying,” the chapter president said, and it will need the support from the group again in a few days and I’m confident more than 100 will join within the month.

There are about 1300 city workers, including 720 General Hospital employees. The Broome County CSEA Chapter presently includes about 600 county employees.
