THE 1964 SESSION, predicted by all the experts to be short and non-controversial, by the political leaders as one during which the administration would avoid taking any gambles which might possibly tarnish the Governor's "image" as a presidential aspirant, by every experienced legislative representative as a session which would not provide any substantial salary or pension improvements for public employees (despite an election year), developed into one of the most uniquely emotional sessions during which all the participants were members of their treatment in the press on the issue of ethics.

ANOTHER manifestation of the revolt was evidenced by the fact that the Governor's formal Budget was not acted on until March 21 limiting the period to which bills requiring appropriation could be passed to a span of less than five legislative days. All of this finally culminated in the Governor calling a special session, April 15-16, 1964, three weeks after the regular session closed, to pass his program for liquor reforms.

The 1964 SESSION commenced on January 8, and closed at about 2:30 a.m., March 26. There were 3,928 bills introduced; 3,923 in the Senate and 3,999 in the Assembly. Almost 99% of these bills related to the rights of public employees with respect to salaries, retirement benefits, tenure rights and the like. Of the bills introduced or co-sponsored by the Association, 13 were signed into law; the others met varying treatments in the press on the issue of ethics.

The decisions of the Town boards came after the County Board of Supervisors voted five percent pay hikes for the county's 7,000 workers.

The pay raises on the towns will range from $500 annually for a town employee to $1,400 for a clerk- typist. A worker earning $15,000 a year will get a raise of $500.

Five Years Service Or More
Disciplinary Action Hearings Granted To EHPA Employees

PLEASANTVILLE, June 15—Non-competaive and labor class employees of the East Hudson Parkway Authority, with five years of service, have been granted the right to formal charges and a hearing in disciplinary actions, the Civil Service Employees Asso. announced last week.

Ernest F. Perkins, executive director of the Authority, told the Employees Association that the Authority Board, at a recent meeting, had agreed to provide these employees "with generally the same protection relative to disciplinary actions as that which is now extended to specific employees under Section 76 of the Civil Service Law."

Promotion Rating Program Gets Association Objectioin

ALBANY, June 15 — The Civil Service Employees Asso., has taken "strong exception" to a Civil Service Department proposal that would alter the state's work performance rating rules by the creating of a promotion rating program.

The Association's stand, which is aimed at protecting the interests of state employees who would be affected by the changes, was made known to Edward Mechaen, Director of Personnel Services for the department.

Joseph F. Feily, president of the Employees' Association, explained that the Civil Service Department envisions a three-phased approach to the general problem of employee evaluation.

perfect for his talents. Running for Mayor and running for national office are two different things, however, and it is felt that it would be hard for Javits not to be proud to be the first Jew in New York to win the mayor's seat.

His Record

Javits has been in politics for a long time. He has taken over the role so long played by the late Governor Her- trald, a national spokesman for Jewish people on questions affecting Israel in Congress, and in leading Jewish groups. He is on strong in New York. He has traveled throughout the country. Already his name has been linked to GOP leaders as a vice presidential candidate. He has been associated with Governor Scoville of Pennsylvania, Ambass- ador Lodge and Thruson Morten of Kentucky. He can be counted on to help every New York's 45 electoral votes. He is widely known and could assist in getting votes in other industrial states. Javits identifies himself with big city "winning Republicanism" and if Goldwater gets the nomination and there are two different tickets, it will have to turn, according to some GOP pros, to the opposite end of the political spectrum.

To the Future

Being the vote-getter he polled better than Roosevelt and Wagen, he is sure to get GOP con- sideration in 1968 if he sat in the Governor's chair.

In a Roosevelt by less than 40,000 votes, while Javits won by nearly a million. He was the only Republican to win to carry the City of New York in a state wide election in modern times. There are still some questions remaining. What does Javits think of all this strength he has accumu- lated? Can he win the Gov- ernorship? He has repeated his desire to stay to be a work- ing member of the U.S. Senate where he feels he is doing the best job.

To the Future

He has passed the political tests. What now remains is his most important decision.

Unit Proxy Persistence, Paydays, Holidays Granted

WATERTOWN, June 16—Civil Service Employees ASSN, chapter president who persisted in the face of apparently insurmountable odds, has won his rights. Mrs. Pannie W. Smith, president of Jefferson Chapter CSEA, started a campaign two months ago to win for city employees time off for two major holidays falling on Saturdays, July 4 and Columbus Day. It was a frustrating drive and for a time it appeared she could not win. But the Watertown City Council has gone along with her requests and has voted unanimously to make it a permanent rule.

The result: City workers were off Friday, May 29, and will observe the July 4 holiday July 3. In addition the rules amendment stipulates that in the future when major legal holidays fall on Saturday, the holiday for employees will be observed on Friday.

Quinn Gets New State Education Department Post

ALBANY, June 15—The pre- viousday appointment of Charles J. Quinn to the newly established position of assistant director for Federally aided education programs, has been an- nounced by the New York State Education Department.

Quinn will be responsible for the State supervision of the National School Lunch Program, National Defense Education Act Title III, Surplus Property, Public Law 808 and 474 as well as for the fiscal supervision of vocational educa- tion, adult education, development training, and wellness programs.

Civil Servant Rewarded For Child Welfare
Family Named "Jewish Family For 1964"

By ART YATES

There's a proud man in Brooklyn these days. He's proud of his position as a labor department official and Civil Service Employees Assn. member for 15 years. He's proud because his family is the recipient of the Jewish Family of the Year award, given by the Commission of Sympathetic Relations of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies of New York and the N.Y. Board of Rabbis.

His name; Louis J. Steinhaus, his job; senior factory inspector, New York State Department of Labor.

Commenting on the Steinhaus award, Rabbi Tep- bit, head of jury that selected the Steinhaus family said:

"The Steinhausos exemplify the best traditions and spirit of Jewish parenthood. They have given outstanding volunteer service to the Jewish Child Care Assn. and have opened their own home to Jewish children. They certainly believe in helping." Steinhaus himself had this to say about children: "If you see a poor home confused, frightened and unhappy, and then watch him develop into a cheerful, affectionate, able youngster, there is a deep satisfaction that money cannot buy."

Associating with foster children, who are not able to care for them, has found welcome and meaningful relationship with the Steinhaus family. There present foster son has been with them for seven years.

A constant and hard worker, Steinhaus speaks frequently to synagogue members about the gratification of foster parenthood. Both husband and wife help raise funds for the religious education of young people in their congregation, and have served on committees of local junior high schools attended by their sons.

There is a proud man in Brooklyn, and he has reason to be.

Southern Conf Annual Election Dance Is Set

PEEKSILL, June 15—The Southern Conference, Civil Service Employees Assn., will hold its annual election of officers and dinner-dance on June 27.

Joseph A. Caporale, former civilian superintendemt of the State Office Building at 80 Centre St., NYC, was recently at his home. He was 61 years old. He was succeeded by his wife, Mabel, who is also a State employee.

City administration officials feel the position that has been taken by the Democrats recognize three organizations as bargaining agents for employees which the administration has been on the side of organized labor.

23 Chosen For Federal College Program

In an experimental program to attract outstanding college students to positions in the Federal service, 23 students in New York State and New Jersey colleges have been appointed for 1964-5. The program, financed by a Ford Foundation grant under the sponsorship of the College-Federal Agency Council, will enable exceptional students majoring in the social sciences to see the Federal service as a potential career. The program has been announced.

Dr. Martin B. Dworkis, chairman of the Board of Directors of the program announces.

The program includes coverage for total disability resulting from occupational and non-occupational accidental injuries, or sickness, plus other important benefits. Coverage is world-wide and the cost is low because of the large number of members (40,000) participating in this plan.

Mayor's Service Medal
Presented To Gallati
And Dr. Kuo At City Hall

Mayor Robert F. Wagner last week presented The Mayor's Medal for Distinguished Service, the City's highest award to a employee, to a woman, senior public health physician with the Department of Health, and to an assistant chief inspector of the Police Department.

Dr. Horcas Kuo and Assistant Chief Inspectors Gallati. Dr. J. Gallati were the recipients of the awards.

Dr. Kuo, of Great Neck, received her award for developing a comprehensive health and medical program for the aged population, for pioneering mass programs for geriatric care and for initiating and directing the cooperative nutrition clinic.

Chief Gallati, Whitestone, received his award for his contribution toward improving the efficiency and quality of the Police Service. Among his contributions were the development of exceptional efforts.

Chief Gallati recently received a leave of absence from the Police Department to accept the position of Director of the New York State Identification and Invaluable operational police programs, including the graduate range planning and research e-fords.

Greater Love...

GREAT love hath no man but to lay down his life for his friends.

These words were dramatically portrayed last week during three ceremonies in New York City. The Police, Fire and Sanitation departments honored their dead and the next of kin during the annual memorial services.

Seven of seven firefighters were presented with medals in the name of their late hero, all of whom gave their lives while fighting fires in New York City. Several of these widows had small children tugging at their skirts. One even held her sleeping year-old boy over one shoulder while Mayor Wagner and Commissioner Thompson presented her with the medal—the award which must serve to remind her and her children that her husband and their daddy was a brave man—brave enough to give his life that other men might live.

The story was much the same during the Police and Sanitation ceremonies. The widows of three patrolmen and the mother of another were presented with the department Medal of Honor. The sanitation man's widow knew how her husband raced through a burning building alerting tenants to danger.

The public must realize that these twelve men were typical of the other civil employees throughout the state. Every firefighter, policeman, sanitation man knows that his job is dangerous. He knows that he could make more money in another job. He knows that he could work half as hard and be home each evening. He knows that in another job he could forget his work outside of the routine 9 to 5 work period. But he would take another job? Hardly.

It takes a special kind of person to be a civil service employee. He must be dedicated. He must love his fellow man. Can he take another job? Hardly.

The award was presented for action by the employees, assigned to the farm products promotion section, in averting a possible disaster in 1963 and 1961 in the Long Island dairy industry. The 13 combined efforts to move millions of pounds of milkings to the consumer table.

The USDA recognition of the employee's action should be noted by every taxpayer. As the State A&M Commission pointed out: "New York State is justly proud of these employees."

The Mayor and Police Commissioner might give some serious thought to ways Welfare Patrolmen wearing their uniforms to and from work, but that wasn't the case.

This would put an additional 26 men on public view. I understand that the Mayor was given a variable annuity plan, but in this emergency, why not? The public can't be expected to maintain civilian patrols.

P.R. Lessons at the Fair

THERE ARE MANY public relations lessons to be learned at the New York World's Fair for everyone in government. But the most significant lesson is this: the best public relations can be had only when one can imagine, a bit of ingenuity, and a solid dash of flexibility.

SOME frequent criticisms we hear about government is that civil servants are "stick-in-the-muds"—alarmed in accordance with the book," never an original thought.

We hope that everyone in government will get to the Fair to see how the ordinary can be made extraordinary, and the pedestrian elevated to the ingenious.

HERE ARE SOME of the items at the World's Fair which should be your inspiration to take that very short step from a rut into a soaring magic carpet:

"It's a Small World," on the New York State Pavilion—where you visit with the Mayor, who shows you what electricity has done for his city's transportation, sanitation, lighting, commerce, and city planning. We were intrigued with the high-speed rapid transit systems, two-way radio communication center, automated traffic control through closed-circuit TV, and how street lighting can prevent safety and suppress crime. Also visit "Steinmetz High School" to see the latest in audio-tape teaching, television classes, and the use of electronic learning aid.

"General Motors"—The Metro Mobility exhibit is often overshadowed—and overlooked—for the big show, the Futurama. For those in government the Metro Mobility items are "safe" investments. How GM's latest in audio-tape teaching, television classes, and the use of electronics learning aid.

"Johnston's Wax"—For public relations with top effectiveness by indirectness, this exhibit and a superb movie, "To Be Alive!" are classics. In 17½ minutes of silent cinema delight, the camera explores the world of people. New York City is speedily converted into a city of comedes automobiles on individual pallets. The system can deliver one car every 14 seconds. City planners and traffic engineers look closely.

"Ferris Wheel—"It's a Small World," for children from 3 to 83. Proceeds from the nominal admission charge go to UNICEF. For government people, this waterborne trip is a sparkling example of what a small agency can do to dramatize an idea—any idea, including good government.

"RCA"—Take your sunglasses off for this display of a color television studio in action. The day we were there the Bronx Zoo was putting on its regular closed circuit broadcast, featuring two young lady zoologists who would give you a good account of themselves in any beauty contest.

"New York State"—Our previously published judgement of New York's exhibit was overwhelmingly confirmed when "Time" magazine selected the Empire State's presentation a two-Dunlop rating, the only one so honored among the State pavilions. You'll swing with pride on this one. And while you're there pause to express yourself at the State Legislature information section on "There Ought To Be A Law." This is becoming one of the most popular features of this exhibit.

"City of New York"—This is the biggest dime's worth at the Fair. See every building in New York City—about 8600 off-them—the biggest 3-D map of the greatest city in the world.

We'll explore more of the Fair for you in later columns. If you get there before we do, drop us a line.
Leader Sends Representatives to Lead House Organ Seminar For Personnel Dept.

Two members of the Civil Service Leader staff will be among the participants in the Institute for House Organ Editors today, the New York City Department of Personnel has announced. N. H. Mager, Leader business manager, will take part in the panel discussion: "What Makes A Story Worthwhile" during the morning session at the New York School of Printing. Mager has been associated with The Leader since the paper was founded 28 years ago, and is the author of several books.

Joe Deasy, city editor of The Leader for the past four years, will lead a discussion during the after- noon session on "Following a Story" with Mager.

The Institution for House Organ Editors is held each year to give the editors of the City department publications an opportunity to discuss editorial problems with each other, and with specialists in related fields.

The Division of Training of the New York City Department of Personnel has made all arrangements for this event.

Jones Estate Office

The estate of Richard Jones, 1,000 acres near Pawling, New York, has been acquired by Samuel Zia, a Westchester developer. The site will be used for the construction of homes in the $500,000 to $1,500,000 price range, plus the cost of the plot.

The 15-room lakeside mansion of Richard Jones is currently being used as the administration office of the developer and sales agents. When the development is completed, the mansion will be offered for $2 million to property owners as a community beach club.

Co-chairmen in the financing of the construction on the property is the Empire State Savings Bank of New York with 80 percent mortgages up to 30 years at 5% percent interest.

Celebrates 25 Years

SYRACUSE: June 13—Brenny E. McCarthy, district supervising nurse with the Department of Health, celebrated her 25th year of service at a luncheon in her honor here recently. Miss McCarthy was presented with a 25-year certificate and service pin by Dr. William G. Hafer, district health officer, commencing the event.

Wexner Is Chairman

Philip F. Wexner, chairman of the unemployment insurance appeal board, New York State Department of Labor is this year's chairman of the United Jewish Appeal fund raising campaign.

Co-chairmen for the campaign are Josephine Colon, principal accounts clerk, Harry Blumber, senior unemployment insurance manager and Irving Segal, associate tax collector.

"Last year the staff of the division of Employment contributed $512,000 and indications are that contributions this year will greatly exceed those received in any prior year," Wexner stated.

Named Surrogate

ALBANY, June 15—Governor Rockefeller has announced the appointment of Ortin O. Judd, of Douglas as Surrogate of Kings County. Judd will fill the vacancy created by the death of former Surrogate Maximilian Moss, and will serve under the appointment until December 31,1964.

Miss Moss had been Surrogate for nearly 19 years. He was 50 years old when he was appointed in 1945 by then Governor Averell Harriman. He served with the same integrity and efficiency that characterized his predecessor's tenure.

Miss Moss was an active member of the community and was a leader in civic affairs. He was a member of the Albany County Bar Association and was active in the legal profession.

The appointment of Judd is a testament to Governor Rockefeller's commitment to excellence in public service. It is a recognition of Judd's dedication to the principles of justice and fairness.

For Saving Long Island Duck Industry

ALBANY, June 15—Thirteen State employees made history here recently when the United States Department of Agriculture etied them for outstanding service to agriculture. It is reported to be the first unit award ever made by the USDA to any State.

All 13 were employees of Agriculture and Markets when they received the award transferred from A and M to Conservation.

The Farm Products Promotion Section, the 13 received the Superior Service Award for saving the Long Island duck industry from near disaster and in 1961 and 1962 helping build it up to a prosperous farm business.

CSEA Wants Clear Picture Of Hotel Room Situation In New York City

ALBANY, June 15—The problem of hotel accommodations in New York City during the period of the World's Fair continues to be of increasing concern to the CIVIL SERVICE Employees Association on behalf of its members who travel on State business.

This became evident last week when CSEA repeated a request made in April to the Comptroller, Arthur Levitt, which was subsequently asked for by CSEA on behalf of its members who travel on State business.

Concerning the voucher request, Levitt said that: "Our experience to date indicates that complaints have been relatively few and that there have generally occurred because of lack of timely reservations."

Levitt made it clear that space on the travel record for income tax purposes is unnecessary.
