Wallace Named To Head Civil Rights Committee Of The CSEA: Group Plans Meeting July 29

ALBANY, July 29—Frank E. Wallace of New York City, a career State employee, has been named chairman of a newly-formed Civil Rights Committee of the State Civil Service Employees Assn., its president, Joseph F. Kelly, announced.

Wallace, employed at the State Armory at 2356 Fifth Avenue, New York City, will head an eight-man committee which will hold its organization meeting here July 29.

Kelly said "the general purpose of this committee is to assure that the civil rights of our members and all public employees within our jurisdictions are properly protected. The definition of civil rights, for the committee's purposes, will cover a broad area and will include violations of rights because of race, color, creed, sex, age or other personal or social characteristics."

In addition to Wallace, other members of the committee are Sol Klaiman, Mrs. M. Vincent, Monroe County Probation Department, Rochester; Bess Y. Scott, State Department of Motor Vehicles, Albany; M. Brown, State Insurance Fund, New York City; James Burrow, Binghamton General Hospital; and H. MacPherson, Mental Hygiene Department, Albany.

CSEA States Case On Behalf Of 10 Mental Hygiene Titles

ALBANY, July 20.—The Civil Service Employees Association has stated its case on behalf of the reallocation of ten titles in the Department of Mental Hygiene before a hearing conducted by the Division of Classification and Compensation, as a CSEA appeal, which was initiated in March of this year, in connection with a two-tier salary structure.

The CSEA appeal includes the following series and job titles:

Shop Workers Series

In the Industrial Shop Worker Series — iron worker, grade 7 to grade 12; head industrial shop worker, grade 7 to grade 12; chief industrial shop worker, grade 12 to grade 14.

In the Clothing Production and Case Series — Seamstress, grade 7 to grade 11; supervising seamstress, grade 6 to grade 8; head seamstress, grade 9 to grade 11; doormaker, grade 7 to grade 9; tailor, grade 8 to grade 10; superintendent, grade 11 to grade 14.

Also sought is the reallocation of upholsterers in the Fabric Workers Series from grade 9 to grade 11.

The Department of Mental Hygiene, which transmitted the appeal to the Division of Classification and Compensation, also made recommendations in support of the reallocation.

Driver Who Was Fired For Refusing To Drive Unsafe Vehicle Gets His Job Back

T HE battle has been won. The Nassau County Chapter of the Service Employees International Union prevailed over a decision by the Village of Garden City to fire a laborer who refused to drive a vehicle he deemed unsafe.

The man was offered his job back by the Village after they had learned that the CSEA might turn to legal means to ensure that the employee was restored.

Today that man has a job and he has back pay, too,
Christmas In July For Four Suffolk County Youngsters

BAY SHORE, July 20—Christmas in July for four of Suffolk County’s less fortunate youngsters as they head for two weeks of healthful and stimulating camp life this month as part of a program realized from Christmas contributions of employees at the Airborne Instruments Laboratory in Deer Park, according to Suffolk Welfare Commissioner Richard DiNapoli.

The idea was developed last year when Howard Gressons, vice president of Airborne Instruments contacted Commissioner DiNapoli in an attempt to develop a sensible and effective Christmas program from funds collected annually by the firm’s employees. Both Gressons and DiNapoli agreed that summer camp placements would be an ideal approach and would do much more for the youngsters.

The camps were selected from a list of case histories submitted by the Welfare Department and were made solely on the basis of individual need.

Money for the project was raised by selling slices of homemade cake as morning coffee-breaks, soliciting departmental Christmas Greetings and using the money that would normally have been spent on individual greetings, donating the proceeds earmarked for a large Christmas Office Party and Individual contributions.

Develops Confidence

“This thoughtful and imaginative approach in translating the Christmas season enthusiasm realistically will be instrumental in developing self-confidence, self-reliance and maturity in children who need this type of group experience,” Commissioner DiNapoli said, “and Airborne Instrument is to be commended for the part they have played.”

WOOD HAVEN, July 21—President Keating of the Republican

Stumbling Block

The one stumbling block on his behalf could be Alex Rose, the Liberal Party boss, because he favors Adlai Stevenson, but the thinking is that if Stevenson bowed out of contention, Rose could still consider Stratton.

Stratton is a young, aggressive man, and this is what both the upstarts and the dogslayers are looking for, be it a reformer or a regular.

While Stevenson and D.A. Hogan are the frontrunners, only Counselman--A. L. Paul O’Dwyer, attorney Louis Nizer and former Ambassador Anthony Akers are the announced candidates.

But, don’t overlook Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy as he still looms as a possibility notwithstanding his flat “no” announcement.

After the convention, a strong push by President Johnson could convince Kennedy that he is the man needed for the job, Johnson could also convince the New York State Democratic functionaries to draft him.

Kennedy on the ticket definitely could help Johnson in the East. Hugh Carey, Brooklyn Congressman and Suffolk Congressman Chris Pike are two other young contenders who are articulate and popular as are District Attorney Frank O’Connor, Under-secretary of Commerce Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., among others.

Reader’s Digest television producer Theodore Granik has also been suggested for the post by Washington friends.

Stratton Could Assist

As far as Mayor Wagner is concerned he would now settle for Stratton, simply because he does not want to see a rift between the upstate segment and the downstate group. He also feels that Stratton forces could assist him immeasurably in his desires to attain the Vice Presidency.

Whatever the case, whoever the candidate, the Democrats feel that Keating has suffered a political “problem” that is hardly his own fault, but that because of this the U.S. Senate will have a Democrat filling a chair come November.

NOTE: Some powers in the Democratic party were saying at Leader press time that if Kenneth Keating continues to distance GOP Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater directly or indirectly he could turn what is looked upon as almost certain defeat into victory.

Not as far fetched as people might think, Keating could even run as a Democrat. This type of “no” Goldwater could do more for President Johnson nationally than almost any other of Johnson’s campaign projects.
SYRACUSE, July 20 — A new suggestion plan — that would reward city employees with cash for ideas that improve their work or city services — appeared headed for adoption this week by the Syracuse Common Council.

The plan was recommended by the Council's rules and procedures committee at its meeting recently, one day after the proposal was made by Councilman Arthur Kasson Jr., president of the Orenstein Club, Civil Service Employee Assn., commented on the need for a change in the process of giving city employees with inventive minds a chance to express themselves and get financial rewards.

Syracuse Suggestion Plan Will Offer Civil Servants Incentive

Logical Extension

"This proposal is a logical extension of Mayor Walsh's long-standing program of encouraging all city personnel to make constructive suggestions to improve city services. The added incentive which this plan provides will broaden employee participation in meeting our twin objectives of increased efficiency and economy," he said.

Councilman Andrews said he is "agreeable" to the changes in his suggestion, provided the award board is bipartisan in its members from the Common Council. The plan included a proposal to pay employees amounts varying from $25 to $100 for suggestions adopted.

Legal Basis

City Attorney Wilbur C. Hall, a member of the Watertown Civil Service Employees Assn. chapter, said the legislature has already approved a bill for a Merit Award Board, which this plan provides.

The Plan

The plan provides for an across-the-board salary increase of ten percent for all city employees. Nicholas Pintavalle, chapter president, reports that the pay hike proposal is one of four items included in his chapter's program for 1965 and to be submitted to the City Council and Board of Supervisors.

The Council

The plan was the result of the June 1, 1964, meeting of the council's rules and procedures committee, which was amended by Councilman Andrews. The plan was approved with a 6-1 vote, with Councilman Daniel Valk voting against the plan.

Other Items

The plan also includes a provision for five days per year of emergency leave benefits for county employees who have extended their health insurance coverage to their retirees. The proposal is based on the fact that employees have not received an accrued-hire-board raise for the past three years.

Other items included among the chapter proposals are:

- a request for amending pension contributions to increase the take home pay of city and county employees.
- improvements of the emergency leave benefits.
- a program to provide five days per year for sick leave to be accumulated and granted to city employees upon retirement.

Schenectady County Chapter

Schenectady, Julv 20 — The Schenectady County Chapter of the Civil Service Employees Assn., is seeking an across-the-board salary increase of ten percent for 1965 for all city and county employees. Nicholas Pintavalle, chapter president, reports that the pay hike proposal is one of four items included in his chapter's program for 1965 and to be submitted to the City Council and Board of Supervisors.

CSEA Plates Offered

Members who are duly proud of their affiliation with the Civil Service Employees' Assn. may now make it known by means of auto license plates. Joseph P. Pety, president of the State CSEA, has announced that plates bearing the association insignia and distinctive blue-and-gold lettering, are available to CSEA members through their local chapter supervisors.

The plates, Peily stated they were "well received" by many members. He has urged members wishing to purchase the license plates ($1.00) to contact their chapter supervisors through CSEA headquarters in Albany.
The Department of Health, Education and Welfare is presently the clearest example of the Federal government's inability to hold good management against the lure of private industry. This time, however, President Kennedy approved the resignation of Bertha  K. Horner, special assistant for health and medical affairs, and faced with the imminent loss of Wilbur J. Cohen, HEW's skilled legislative strategist, and Anthony J. Celebrezze, health secretary, HEW faces major risks in an already undermined management structure.

The primary reason for the rapid turnover in HEW— as in most Federal agencies—is inadequate salaries. President Kennedy and Johnson have remarked privately that "this country requires its top government officials to make personal sacrifices to serve their fellow citizens." But, in an amazing number of cases, compensation not only cannot provide adequately for their families, but are even forcing the Government to meet the demands of their posts. Thus, like HEW, Federal departments suffer a high personnel turnover, with high efficiency, confusion and loss of talent.

Career employees in HEW aides in the Food and Drug Administration, the Veterans Administration, and the Civil Service Commission, and National Institutes of Health— are continually trying to adjust to new management. Jones, remaining with HEW only through the persuasion of the late President Kennedy, labored for more time, certain that the philosophy and policies of HEW. His innovation is only now gaining favor with many serious distinctions still to come. His resignation puts all this into the laps of career officials, and sources are skeptical about how well Jones' new policies will flourish there.

Underpaid, Overworked
HEW suffers more than many Federal agencies perhaps, since Congress has so drastically limited its management. In recent years, HEW has been fully managed by James E. Jones, Cohen and assistant secretary, James M. Quinley. It is dangerously lacking in the executive staff existing in any private firm.

Jones has reshaped the scientific policy of the FDA, creating new mental health laws and refining medical school aid legislation. Cohen has concentrated on health care for the aged, drafting new bills and bringing the issues before the public. The new HEW policy on water and air-pollution is due to Quinley and his push for its Tha Whiff

The Morrisbll granting pay raises for Federal employees, which recently passed the Senate with only minor changes, carries many lesser provisions affecting aides favorably. A few of the benefits are listed below:
- agency heads would have the authority to award in-grade set-ups in Grades 11 and 17 on the basis of special contributions and outstanding work instead of seniority. This provision is limited to professional scien-
- engineers, and medical personnel.
- Hearing examiners would be exempt from jobs limitations on jobs in Grades 15, 16 and 17. This may mean additional exam-
- iners assigned to top-grade jobs, with classified employee-
- s moving up to the vacant positions.
- 35,000 post masters throughout the country would be paid according to "revenue units," grants them credit for all revenues received by their offices.

- employees promoted to Grades 16-18 during recent months would have their salaries fig-
- ures on the assumption that new pay was already in effect for them as of last January. Some of these employees had their pay cut when they were pro-
- moted from Grade 16 to 18.

The next stop for the pay raise is in its long journey to becom-
- ing a law. The Senate-House conference committee, expected to meet sometime after the conven-
- tion's. Tentatively, it is scheduled for June July or early August.

- Everyone admits that HEW is presently an administrative milieu; major programs are at a stand-

CSC Allows Aides
Run-Off Elections
The Civil Service Commission has granted employee union de-
- mand to allow all run-off elections to among government unions compet-
- ing for exclusive recognition, when an union receives a definite majority in the rvi election.

In the present procedure, if the majority of votes cast in a lo- cation installation do not fall to a union, exclusive recognition is delayed for two years, if employees in the groups voted for union representation of some kind. The CSC new ruling will per-
- mit a run-off election whereby the union receiving the majority of the votes in the first election will obtain exclusive recognition.

In many cases, there are two unions competing for such recogni-
- tion in a single unit, with em-
- ployees retaining the option of voting out union representation altogether. It often happens that, although a majority voted for one or the other union, enough votes were cast against representa-
- tion to deny both unions a clear majority. Under the new rule, the choice with the lowest number of votes will be eliminated, allowing an election run-off between the two highest choices. This will un-
- doubtedly result in a larger num-
- ber of exclusive recognitions given to employee unions.

By ART YATES

This is the third in a series of six articles on "How the City Handles Emergencies and Disasters." This week's article concerns the role of the Fire Department in handling emergencies.

If the Borough of Queens, a second alarm has been transmitted for box 529—reported to be an aircraft crash at Kennedy International Airport.

These words over the City-Wide Fire Department radio frequency immediately send the following personnel into action:

Sixty firemen

Ten company officers—either lieutenants or captains

One battalion chief, one deputy chief, one deputy assistant chief, one assistant chief of department

This is the New York City Fire Department in operation. It constantly seeks and gets the cooperation of the Water Department. It works with the police, the health, the gas and electricity departments, constantly aware of the dangers of fire, and always alert to see that New York City remains the safest in the country.

What's Behind All This?

Let's sit down and talk with the Chief of the Division of Training.

This man has schooled in the art of fire prevention and fire fighting. He is so schooled in the art of fire prevention and fire fighting that it is hard to follow his excitement. A veteran of decades of service, this professional fire fighter perceives aspiring firemen with the precision of a Swiss watch.

The constant changing of the construction in the city, the use of new and modern materials, makes it hard for many people, who must know how and why each building is put up so that they can be prepared to handle the sad building in the event of a fire.

They must protect all areas, neighborhood, business, etc.

What Makes Up The Fire Department?

The fire fighting forces of the department consists of: 13 divisions, 47 battalions, 315 engine companies, 130 ladder companies, nine marine companies, nine squad companies, four rescue companies, four searchlight companies, one mask service unit, one field communication unit and four ambulances.

LATEST week, the New York City Department of Personnel announced the 1964-65 tentative examination schedule—although no one would come right out and admit it, the reason for the curtailment was not that the need for an expanded recruitment was missing. On the contrary, most observers in the Department of Personnel pointed out that there was an increase in the number of people who were applying for the examinations.

Officials frankly state that the budget requests for the department was cut to the bone—and then some. There are not enough funds for additional examiners, examination sites, or any new examinations.

The examinations that have been ordered are essential and are priority. But what of the other titles where an expanded recruitment program could have resulted in a more perfect civil service program.

We urge Dr. Theodore H. Lang, the City Personnel Director; Budget Director William Shea and the Mayor to get together and add a little more money to the department's budget so that New York City can recruit for and hire sufficient people of high caliber to continue the present level of service to the taxpayers.

Kudos, Nassau

THROUGH the efforts of the Nassau Chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, a laborer for the Village of Garden City was reinstated after being fired for refusing to drive a vehicle who died while in the employ of the public service.

When the CSEA chapter in Nassau announced through its president, Irving Flaumenbaum, that legal action would be instituted to protect the job status of the man, the village received national attention.

The man, Harry Rhodes, was reinstated last week with back pay.

Well done, Nassau Chapter!

Letters to the Editor

City Employee Forgotten

Editor, The Leader:

I am very pleased that someone in City Hall has had the guts to point out the fact that at every turn in the road it seems that labor members are forgotten by the City employee. In last week's article on "Confusion of a Lifetime's Pay of Dead Firemen Must Stop", Battalion Chief Hal Gould was quoted as saying that widows and others of dead firemen are deprived of actual salaries earned by fire fighters who died while in the employ of the public service but were before they were able to take their vacation.

The article states, "in the practice of the City right along, along with the 'death gamble,' provisions of which the City commits no wrong, but shutting the eyes and actually an inclusion for the 'death gamble'."

The War on Poverty", as far as the City employee is concerned, could get a shot in the arm by the passage of such legislation by City Hall. It is up to the City employee to see to it that the bill is introduced and passed. It is up to the City employee to remember that the benefit of Social Security will not come to these we loves the most. It is up to us to remember.

Editor, The Leader:

I think it is about time that our Civil Service employees in the State of New York realize what inroads are being made in their civil service status and the normal procedures of the Civil Service Commission.

We find that in Buffalo County in its provisions the mandated payment upon death to beneficiaries of all City employees, va cation, overtime, terminal leave, and of course an inclusion for the "death gamble".

Business In Government;

Government In Business

THERE ARE MANY people around who are absolutely convinced that government and business cannot be mixed, any more than water can be combined.

In fact, a few in this group insist that while government has no business in business, business has every right to get into government.

ALL THIS TALK about government and business—or, as some businessmen insist: government versus business—becomes very important because the good or bad public relations of both government and business is involved.

W. ALLEN WALLIS, president of the University of Rochester, recently said while discussing "Business and Government":

"NOTHING IN THE 1960s is more like the 1920s than the views people have about government and business. The only difference is an overwhelmingly important one—practical. Now most people use the things, and politicians pursue the policies, that were confined in the '20s to social scientists, novelists, historians, journalists, ministers and teachers—to opinion leaders, in short.

"THE PREVAILING climate of opinion among these opinion leaders was, to put it rather baldly, that business is evil, inhuman, degrading, corrupt, and that businesses are malefactors, robbers, war-makers and book. No one, as far as I know, ever stated it that brutally; but that is the common denominator that ran through novels, the sermons, the essays of journalists, the plays, the caricatures, and the teaching of disinterested historians and historians."

LATER IN HIS discussion at a University of Minnesota symposium, Dr. Wallis seriously questions the value of government intervention in the economy, declaring:

"THEY'RE NOT SAYING that in its 30 years of existence government intervention in business has been justified. Let's cite just one government agency—the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, which celebrates its 30th anniversary this month.

IF IT WERE nothing more than a deterrent, the S.E.C. is successful. In fact, a few in this group Insist that while govern-

nancially for "outstanding service".

Through his wide business contacts, he has found jobs for more than 450 disabled persons.

He learned a great deal about the disabled from his paraplegic son, Thomas Jefferson, Jr., a Navy veteran who was paralyzed from the walk down after an injury during World War II.

He thinks nothing of sending a memorandum to a thousand personnel directors giving back-ground of handicapped people who have been referred to him. He stresses their abilities and never hesitates to point out that "properly trained and placed, the disabled have a better production rate, lower absenteeism, lower accident rate and less turnover than able-bodied workers alongside them."

Called Executive

Once he called an executive and said, "There's a young lady who is an excellent typist and I'd like to send her around." "Yes, I'd like to try her," the executive replied.

A few hours later the executive called Mr. Miley back. "Why, this girl is blind", he declared. "We can't have anybody like that!"

Mr. Miley called Mr. Miley back. "Why, this girl is blind," he said sheepishly.

They can't have anybody like that!

The next day the executive called Mr. Miley back. "We'd like to send her around." "Yes, I'd like to try her," the executive replied. "We can't have anybody like that!"

JOSEPH F. FEILY

Fely said the board of directors of the New York Association is representative of the Association's nearly 125,000 members, and its composition has "kept pace with membership growth." This is provided for, he said, by the constitution of the Association.

He said that the New York CSEA is composed of both State employees and employees of the political sub-divisions. He stressed that both of these divisions gain representation on the Statewide Board of Directors — the State division through elected representatives from the various departments and the county division through representatives from the various counties.

Fely's speech in the members was one of the highlights of the three-day convention held at the Ateron-Gibson Hotel in Cincin-
