CSEA Holds Top Level Strategy Session On 1965 State Pay Drive

ALBANY, Dec. 29—A full-scale strategy session among the top tacticians involved in the Civil Service Employees Assn.'s drive to implement its requests for improved salaries and retirement and fringe benefits in 1965 was held here last week.

The meeting, called by CSEA President Joseph F. Feily and Solomon Benedict, chairman of the Salary Committee, resulted in a recommendation by him to the membership of the Civil Service Employees Assn. on the 1965 legislative program. R. Melvin Warner received the award.

Feily Cites CSEA Growth, Leader Editor Speaks At Oneida Christmas Party

(From Leader Correspondent)

UTICA, Dec. 28—Reports of the rapid and large increase in the membership of the Civil Service Employees Assn. on the State and Utica area level highlighted the Christmas party of Oneida County chapter, CSEA.

From Joseph P. Feily, State CSEA president, about 400 at the annual event heard that the growth of the organization on the Oneida County level necessitated a recommendation by him for additional staff for the county chapter. Feily said, "If we are going to give the service needed, we are going to have to increase the staff and additional expense.

From Paul Kver, editor of The Civil Service Leader, the Chapter members and their guests heard a report that the State organization had increased to 135,000 from 130,000 membership of 60,000. And from Joseph A. Mathews, president of the Oneida County chapter, there was a report that the unit hoped to reach a membership of 1,500 by Feb. 1. The membership had doubled in the last 18 months, Mathews said.

Responsibility Representation

Kver also discussed public relations and employee representation.

"In the whole record of labor representation in the state," Kver said, "the CSEA enjoys one of the best records of responsible employee representation. One result of that record is the respect the CSEA has among State legislators. The resulting good public relations also works for the well being of public employees," he pointed out.

CSEA Press For Whole Package

Kver said plans were being formulated for meetings with the leaders of the new Legislature, which convenes Jan. 6, and the other Democratic leaders, in addition to the sessions with the OOP-dominated Administration. He said CSEA would continue to be militant on all sidelines in achieving the goals of State and local members of the Employees Association.

The CSEA president noted that a large program designed to aid employees in political subdivisions and requiring action in the Legislature is in the works and will be reported on in the near future.

Kenneth A. Valentine

Kenneth A. Valentine, 86, long active in the affairs of the Civil Service Employees Assn., died Dec. 19. He was an electrical engineer with the Public Service Commission since 1929. He lived on Staten Island.

For many years Mr. Valentine was a delegate for the New York Civil Service Employees Assn. in the CSEA's three State legislatures to discuss legislation.

Robert Wilbur, Rome, chairman of the club, said that chapter leaders would meet January 15 with State Senator-elect William S. Calli, Assemblyman Paul Worlock, and Assemblyman John Cosgrove. The chapter presidents are Mrs. Clara Bosecker, Art United Tennis, Utica State; Mary Terrell, Maves State; Nicholas Clamino, State Public Works; Joseph A. Mathews, Oneida County; James Putnam, Barge Canal, and Raymond Priorichard, F. Bianco.

Wilbur said that the club was established several years ago so that area units could develop mutual and regional interests.

City chapter of CSEA and later, was instrumental in organizing the Public Service chapter of the organization. He served as president of that chapter two years and was a department representative from 1942 to 1952. He later became treasurer of the Metropolitan Conference of the Employees Association, which he helped organize.

Mr. Valentine was elected by The Leader in its "Merit Man" series and won a number of State merit awards. He was active in the Boy Scouts and the Masons.

Services were held last week.

How to buy a portable tape recorder

What should you look for in a portable tape recorder? Naturally you want compactness, battery play, and ease of recording. What else? First, make certain the recorder bears the name of a company you recognize and respect. Next, insist on the features that made portable recorders good for years, but for another reason. Your Public Relations IQ

by Leo J. Margolin

Mr. Margolin is Head of the Division of Business Administration and Professor of Business Administration at the Borough of Manhattan Community College and Adjunct Professor of Public Relations in New York University's Graduate School of Public Administration.

Taxi P.R. Flag Is Down

The good public relations of New York City is being tarnished by public-be-damned taxi industry, which is long on singing the blues, short on service, and quiet next to the "off-duty" sign.

"The taxi industry "snowed" the City into a rate boost it didn't deserve. In fact, it didn't even have to show its haggling power. The taxi men just showed up on the streets and used their power of persuasion against the City Council chamber. NO ONE ASKED the rate-riding public. This long-suffering group has been crying about taxis for years, but for another reason. They can't get a cab when they want one because there are more cars on the streets today than there were 26 years ago when the population was 2 million less. DID YOU SAY the taxi rate increase was only a dime at the drop of the hat? It is much higher than you think. It totals $25 million a year. WELL, FOR that kind of money one would think that the public should be getting a break. Indeed it is a break in its penny bank. More taxi companies now in an improved service. When was the last time a cab driver opened his door for you? If it did happen it was in Beverly or Chicago. There are certainly not in New York. A little service—more courteous cabs—more likely to help the taxi industry's public relations current-ly non-existent.

WHAT HAS ALL this to do with the public relations of civil servants? It so happens that the taxi industry is under the supervision of the Black Bureau of the New York City Police Department, a force of just about 100 civil servants a police $2 million a year. In 1966, the rate increase will make it $225 million a Onondaga County turned down the proposal—no fee by members participating.

Suffolk CSEA ‘Adopts’ A Family

The Suffolk chapter of the Civil Service Employees Association, after a drive to "Adopt A Family For Christmas" in cooperation with the Long Island Daily News' annual appeal for some of Long Island's neediest families, is adopting a family of eleven children and their parents.

This year's selection of the recipient considered the father's work as a painter, the mother's work as a stenographer, and that the family home was located in the Brookhaven area, and the children were in grades one, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten, and eleven.

The Suffolk chapter president, Thomas B. Dobie, together with other members of the chapter's executive committee, stated that many individual contributions to a fund that will enable them to "adopt" at least one family this Christmas.

The Suffolk chapter has decided to make these contributions to the New York State employees at the lowest possible cost.

GPO Reaffirms Faith In Santa For 500

More than 500 children last week had their faith in Santa Claus reaffirmed through the generosity of the New York Post Office Employees' Recreational and Welfare Fund, as well as postal patrons who have donated money and candy so that those less fortunate than themselves may enjoy a holiday in keeping with the Christmas spirit.

Children and families whose letters to Santa were selected from among those received at the New York Post Office were greeted by Postmaster Robert Christenberry who distributed toys to the children and gave each family a shopping cart, overflowing with a large turkey, cans of soup, evaporated milk, cranberry sauce, stuffing, apples, potatoes, onions, sugar, coffee, nuts and candy for a complete Christmas dinner.

Police Commissioner Michael Murphy last week made an unusual budget request in his annual report to the Board of Estimate when, for the first time in history, as a department head in a City agency, asked for "hazardous pay" for some members who perform duties with a higher injury potential than others.

Backed up with figures supplied by Assistant Chief Inspector John King showing the injury rate of motorcycle policemen under his command, and referring to precedents set by a list of other communities—led by Los Angeles, San Francisco and Washington, D.C.—Murphy has asked that $300 a year additional compensation be given to men who ride the machines.

About $110,000 would be required to meet Murphy's request. However, many other communities such as New Rochelle, N.Y., are asking for additional compensation or permission to abolish the motorcycle squads. If the duties of a motorcycle officer are as dangerous as to require additional compensation, then a detailed study should be made of the relative benefits to law enforcement against the hazards of motorcycle use, many feel.

Three hundred dollars is a small sum to pay for the injury and death potential which Murphy and King can prove, those who know the hazards declare.

In Westchester County five years ago, Patrolman Frank Bradley lost his life while in pursuit of a speeding car on the Hightstown Road. His machine overturned when it went out of control on a small mound of sand. Line of Duty Deaths

Bradley was one of nine men killed in the line of duty in the history of the 28-year old Westchester County Police Department. All nine lost their lives in motorcycle incidents last year. Chief Marvin Ekeron—who was injured himself in a cycle accident as a patrolman—ordered the machines used for "traffic police purposes" only. Routine traffic law enforcement by motorcycle was halted and all but six machines were removed from service.

The Division of State Police, also, has sharply curtailed use of motorcycles for patrol purposes. Only two remain in service on the New York State Thruway—one each in the Buffalo and New York Divisions. Their need in those areas is to allow for quick response to incidents in those highly congested and often traffic jammed zones.

Aside from the need for motorcycles in similar situations, the trend in police departments throughout the State has been to reduce their use to escort and parade duties.

Action on this budget request—of little importance—will await the Board of Estimate's action in January.

Police patrolmen are needed in all zones. Many feel congestion and often traffic snarls are response to incidents in these highly congested areas. Their need in these zones is more important than in others.

CSEA Is Ready

LTHOUGH the State Legislature does not open until January 6, the Civil Service Employees Assn. has been hard at work for the past three months on its legislative program affecting the welfare of its nearly 300,000 members. Already, five bills have been introduced and their hearings were well attended.

For the Legislature itself, the Employees Association has been a result of the vocal and articulate requests of those who are assigned to hazardous duties.

In the words of the Director of the Department of Correction, "The election is over. The people have spoken, and when they have spoken, we have great trust in that decision."

Now it is up to the rank and file employee to make himself ready to support the programs when such support has been called for. Much of the success of the Employees Association have been a result of the vocal and articulate support of the membership.

CSEA is ready. Are you?

Hazard Pay

POLICE COMMISSIONER Michael Murphy has asked for budgetary allowances to pay an additional $300 per annum to those assigned to "hazardous" military duty.

We have always advocated the payment of benefits to those who are assigned to hazardous duties.

However, we urge the Police Commissioner to continue to study the matter and evaluate other highly specialized or hazardous positions and increase salaries of men in these jobs accordingly.

One of Special Services patrolmen and those assigned to the Emergency Service Division are just two of the details that could be considered for "specialized service" increases.

Commissioner Murphy's request—a breakthrough in salary requirements—merit and deserve full support of the Board of Estimate.

A Proposal

A proposal by the New York and New Jersey Dry Dock Assn. that the government allocate more money for the upkeep and repair work for this area merits attention.

However, we urge the Police Commissioner to continue to study further and evaluate other highly specialized or hazardous positions and increase salaries of men in these jobs accordingly.

On behalf of the Civil Service Employees Assn. and personally, I want to congratulate you and The Leader on an outstanding job in making the career civil servant work in the State of New York.

I thought the idea of the Gold Medal Awards for Distinguished Public Service merits the appreciation of every employee. This is just one facet of your endeavor to present the best image of the public employee to the taxpayers of the State.

Thank you again for this fine service.

LARGES LEGISLATIVE COMMITTEE ACTION

Editor, The Leader:

The election is over. The people have spoken, and when they have spoken, we have great trust in that decision.

It is up to every one of us, as citizens, to be a little more active, to come out and attend meetings, write to your legislators. Do Your duty, not yours, but the country's duty. Do your duty, in order to keep the United States of America moving in the right direction.

'm's those good ideas working with equal benefits, for all public service employees.

Furthermore, I would like to thank all the Delegates of the CSEA who attended the Syracuse meeting, for the effort, in which they stuck together as a team.

It was very gratifying to see the Department of Correction at the Southern New York Conference, a social welfare employee, get up in the convention hall and make a strong plea for the passage of the Department of Correction Reform Bill. As a result of this plea, the resolution passed.

Such a strong effort of these dedicated employees merited the attention of the greatest.

Now it is high time all of us, young or old, new or retired, take your ideas and then follow through.

Get those good ideas working with equal benefits, for all public service employees.

The DEPARTMENT's Justification for the Belated Amendment to the Eligibility List is not Acceptable

The election is over. The people have spoken, and when they have spoken, we have great trust in that decision.

For the war veteran's great personal sacrifice for our country's welfare is the justification in such preference.

VETERANS' CREDITS

THE CIVIL service or merit system of selection of governmental employees has done much to improve the qualifications of administrative services. Those who are given preference in the establishment of eligible lists, there is disregard of merit as an element in the Civil Service. On the other hand, the act itself, and the claim for selection for the war veteran's great personal sacrifice for our country's welfare is the justification in such preference.

A POWER maintainer, Grade 1, with the New York City Transit Authority for 25 years participated in an examination in promotion to forms and baseball, technical power, and achieved number 25 on the resulting eligibility list which now consists of 35 names.

As the list moved slowly, it was not until two and one-half hours later that he had been able to achieve number 25 in a group of ten candidates certified by the Department of Personnel for appointment to the higher position. As only two appointments were then made with the third number last appointed, the candidate, Number 25, had to continue to be patient.

In December, 1964, number 62 was reached, and that time candidate number VII, who had achieved this number with the aid of 5½ years additional service, had his earned final average for his non-disabled veteran's claim, filed a claim for equal benefits, for all civil service employees.

The Department of Personnel allowed the claim with the result that 5 points were added to the veteran's earned average, and the list was revised to change his list number 10 to 47.

This intent is thwarted by the policy of the Department of Personnel, however well intentioned, which permits readjustment of the eligible list on behalf of veterans who determine to revise their veteran's claim of preference after the list has been established.

Yard Aides Not Taking Job Offers; Hoping For Employment In NYC Area

By MIKE KLIEN

Hundreds of job opportunities for workers at the Brooklyn Navy Yard have come in from private industry and other government controlled agencies.

As reported last week in The Leader, these opportunities are being passed up at this time by the employees. According to Frank Puglisi, editor of the shipyard bulletin, "the workers are hoping that something will break in the New York metropolitan area."

"We are rather afraid to make a move now," he said. "There are hopes that jobs will open up for them here."

Close Order

It is expected that the general closing order for the Navy Yard will be forthcoming after the first of the year. Puglisi said that he knew of no definite date for the directive but that sometime after Jan. 1 it would be in.

This order will give the date of the final closing of the yard and is usually a 365-day notice of closing.

After it comes in, a specific order of phasing out will be issued to workers as their jobs are no longer required. This one is usually a 60-day notice of termination and during this time, the workers is still on the payroll.

Sensitivity

Puglisi said that the specific notices of termination would be distributed according to seniority. The person with the least seniority would get the notice first and so on.

Rear Admiral J. H. McQuilkin, commander of the Navy yard, extended the deadline for the employee questionnaire to Jan. 4. Puglisi stated that although the questionnaire was extended, the questionnaires are coming in quite rapidly now.

He said there will be processed as quickly as possible so that the information would be available to the placement personnel who will be in charge of placing workers in other jobs.

According to Puglisi, job offers from private industry have been coming in regularly since the original phase-out order. Some of these job offers are from the General Boat Company in Groton, Conn. "They have been doing an extensive recruiting job," he said.

N.Y. Jobs

According to the New York and New Jersey Dry Dock Assn, the 9,500 workers at the yard can remain in New York if the government will allocate more repair contracts to private shipyards in the metropolitan area. President of the Association, Franklin C. Barney, in a letter to President Kennedy, said that the order eliminating the yard, "would be merely a shifting of lunch pails from one yard to another if the Navy would allocate this port a fair share of warship repair work.

Barney stated that if the phasing out was done properly it would permit uninterrupted employment for many of the Navy yard's employees.

He said that an allocation of $300 million in work in 1966 would permit the assimilation of yard workers into private yards.

Barney stated that the private yards in the Port of New York are not getting their fair share of repair work. The five private yards in 1964 received $90 million in repair work and it is expected that this will be reduced to $70 million in the next fiscal year.

"They have been doing an extensive recruiting job," he said.

In the next fiscal year, Barney noted that the $9 million allocation to New York yards was compared to $77 million allotted to the private yards in the Norfolk, Va. area.

No Sales Yet

Barney stated that the Navy Yard is going to be sold to private industry and are unfounded, according to Puglisi. He stated that as far as he knew there was no basis for the rumor. "The government is not going to give this facility away," he said, "and I don't know anyone who will put up the money for it right now."

The General Services Administration told The Leader that the yard has not been put up to the government that they have no jurisdiction over it until the Navy Department declares it as excess property.

The GSA spokesman said, "the yard will not be put up for public purchase until all government agencies—Federal, State, and local—have had a chance to request the facilities for their use."

Award Luncheon

The Rutledge Society of the Department of Purchase held its fourth community service award luncheon of the Federation of Negro Civil Service Organizations. "The award luncheon was dedicated to all those living here who have shared in the struggle for freedom," the society points out.

The Navy Department, at this time, has not turned the yard over to the Federal agency and there is no indication when they will do this.

"We have no jurisdiction now and under law we won't have until the Navy gives it to us," the apostrophe for GSA said.

BUT THAT'S all the Hack-Bureau—police text operation. It does not regulate fares. If the total number of the dimensions of taxis is 70 or the rates, that's the job of the City Council. Perhaps it should now be the job of an agency such as a public utility commission.

UNFORTUNATELY the blame for the one of the public—business—taxi industry is falling on the police civil servants, who have to listen to those lobbies of the taxi—riding public. There are only 11,172 cabs licensed to work the city streets, but during 1963 the Police Hack Bureau received 10,782 complaints. For 1964, it is estimated those complaints will top the 11,000 mark.

HOTELMEN, restaurateurs and theatrical producers in New York recently told "The New York Times" that since the World's Fair went into hibernation business has been "just awful." We suspect that no small part of this situation is the responsibility of the taxi industry, which has made a New York City transit authority, who does not regulate the fares, and which has made a New York City transit authority, who does not regulate the fares, and which has made a New York City transit authority, who does not regulate the fares, and which has made a New York City transit authority, who does not regulate the fares, and which has made a New York City transit authority, who does not regulate the fares.

WE THINK the call of the real—taxi industry has no bounds. Just the other day an official of an owner—driver's group called for a rate increase—a boost in waiting time from 2 to 3 an hour. If the owner—drivers are hurting so badly, how come they average only 47 trips a day, while the fleet cars average 66 trips a day? Sure, we know. The fleet operators two shifts a day, while the owner—drivers operate at their own convenience. Based on these figures, the taxi—riding public is being deprived of 10,000 trips a day in a tax—short city.

WE CANNOT weep for an industry whose decline is growing in practically for the asking. We know a motorman for the New York City transit authority, who moonlights as a fleet cab driver any time his numbers add up to zero. "WHAT ELSE can I do that will bring me $20 working six hours a night?" he asked us.

"WHAT CAN YOU book so much in so short a time?" we asked.

"EASY," said our cabby. "I just disconnect the off—duty' sign and the money rolls in!"
