CSEA Blasts Costs To Aides Attending Grievance Hearings

In speaking of the measure, Lewis Kay, counsel to City Council President Paul R. S race said: "We believe that this legislation is a great step forward in eliminating inequities which exist between members of the Police and Fire Departments who were killed in the line of duty."

Speaking in favor of the bill was Mrs. Florence Churchill, president of the Police and Fire Line Of Duty Widows Assn. of New York City; Lt. Vincent M. Genovese, her scruples, and her head esteem. Doubling of Military Pay Proposals Put Pressure On Higher U.S. Raises

Last week the House Armed Service Committee approved a motion to increase the pay of military personnel on an average of ten percent. The Johnson Administration had campaigned for acceptance of an proposal which altered less than half the increases approved in the House.

Meantime, the House Civil Service Compensation Subcommittee is holding hearings on the President's proposed civilian employee pay increases. The activity there closely resembles the format, pro and con, of the military pay hearings before the House.

Meanwhile, the House Civil Service Compensation Subcommittee is holding hearings on the President's proposed civilian employee pay increases. The activity there closely resembles the format, pro and con, of the military pay hearings before the House.

In the Compensation Subcommittee hearings last week, Administration officials including Civil Service Commission Chairman John W. Mcye and Deputy Budget Director James B. Stabin, pressed for the acceptance of the Administration proposal which held the same percentage of increase as the President's.

Secretary of Defense McNamara had spoken out in support of the Johnson Administration's policy recommendations.

At the Armed Service hearings McClellan was met head on with opposition from Rep. Mandle Rivers (Dem., B.C.), chairman of the committee, just as Mcye and Stabin met sharp questioning, loaded with alternatives, from Reps. Arnold Olsen, (Dem., Ala.) and Phil Krenz, (Dem., N.J.). Both these proposals are proponents of bills that would better the President's increase by more than thirty percent. The Administration proposal in question asks for a 51 percent pay increase for Federal civilian employees effective January 1, 1966. Olsen's bill, which seems to mirror any proposal of many in the House, calls for a seven percent increase effective retroactively last year.

In the Armed Service committee hearings held General Omar Bradley eloquently presented the case of the forces for a more liberal salary policy for servicable employees. Bradley said that it was not used very often in talk about military pay but the principal factors. Bradley went on to stress the feeling is that the danger in the argument is, in both cases, is very similar. There is a constant battle to retain and attract competent people in all government activity. General Bradley capped his plea with a statement that even an ten percent hike might not be enough to get the job done properly.

Flexible Word

At the Compensation Committee hearings last week, Rep. Krebs struck out what he felt was the misuse of the concept of comparability in the Johnson Administration's State plan remained, throughout his stay before the Subcommittee, committed to the antimony principle as set forth in the 1962 Pay Reform Bill. He contended that the bill was quite a different Administration plan as introduced by Rep. Morris Udall is designed to provide the next, step, ina federal agencies pay scales into line with those in private industry. This Subcommittee was told that enactment of the three percent increase would leave classified grades 1964 comparability; middle pay grades 1963 comparability; and highest pay grades 1962 comparability. The pending pay proposal, then, would give those 1963 pay grades comparable to salaries paid those doing the same kind of work in private industry in those years with which they have "comparability"

Krebs stated that he could not see how the Budget Bureau could be for the concept of comparability if it heard a proposal that left Federal workers lagging behind private industry in amount of pencils received for services rendered.

"All I can say is that comparability is one of the most flexible words to be used in Washington in a long time," Krebs said.

Directions are, based on the action of the Armed Forces Committee and the similarity of findings in the Compensation Subcommittee, that the value of the services of the government employees has been even more closely scrutinized in the estimation of the country's legislators. As Planning Officer Cummer put it: "The system is beginning to fail."

Where Do Candidates Stand On Civil Service?

One of the most exciting political races in years is in the making now that Mayor Robert F. Wagner has announced he will not seek re-election this Fall. There are many who believe he will go to the ring for the Democratic nomination for the mayoralty and many civil service organizations in New York City are already taking a stand for the man they feel will be the best mayor for public employees.

The Leader does not endorse political candidates for office, but does endeavor to keep its readers informed of the civil service philosophy. In forthcoming issues, various candidates for office, including the Republican candidate, John V. Lindsay—will have the chance to express their views on civil service in this newspaper.

One last note: while The Leader does not endorse candidates, it does not hesitate to point the finger at anyone seeking election who is an ant-civil service candidate.

A Long Sought Victory

A long sought victory was partially won by the Police and Fire Line of Duty Widows Asso., of New York City last week when a City Council committee of the whole approved a measure which will allow some 70 and 80 year old widows to live by their own pensions to a realistic level of approximately $4,000 a year.

Official action by the Council is expected this week and Mayor Wagner has indicated that he will sign the measure when it reaches his desk.

Council President Paul R. Screvan, who introduced the bill, is to be congratulated for his recognition of this problem which allowed some 70 and 80-year-old widows to live on pensions of less than $2,000 a year.

Also to be cited for their dedication to the cause were Lieutenant Vincent McCarty of the Uniformed Fire Officers Association, and Thomas Fitzgerald of the Police Department's Pension Bureau and Mrs. Florence Churchill, president of the Police and Fire Line of Duty Widows Asso., who made the successful presentation before the City Council.

Partners With Death

Two measures which would grant New York City firefighters death gamble protection are now awaiting action by Governor Rockefeller. These bills passed both houses of the State Legislature last week.

The measures provide firefights with protection against pension loss for periods the past, however, the Leaders does not endorse these candidates for any political office, does not hesitate to point the finger at anyone seeking election who is an ant-civil service candidate.

Salary Under Protest

The validity of the protest provision has been sustained under the State Constitution as well as under the federal Constitution. However, the Supreme Court of the United States has in recent times broadened the provisions giving effect to the protest.

The protest clause were presented to that Court, Judge Hofstadter states that it may be held unconstitutional.

Unfortunately, there were a number of court attaches who had not protested even once, and Judge Hofstadter was bound by the doctrine of precedent. Such employees, although they did the same work, lost the right to equal compensation. This is an inequity which the Court of Appeals may some day have the opportunity to correct, unless the City voluntarily waives the failure to protest.

Judge Hofstadter plainly chafed under the restrictions imposed by the precedents giving effect to the protest provision. Yet, as he is not an Appellate Court Jurist, he was not bound by them. Still, his sense of justice and keen powers of judicial analysis enabled him to arrive at a generally equitable determination.

BE YOUR OWN SHERLOCK!
In Comparing Health Plans
Ask A Few Probing Questions
—Like These:

Q. Which health plan gives the broadest coverage — with no ifs, ands and buts?

A. Let the Columbia School of Public Health answer that one. It studied New York health plans and found that "the most complete contract offered for sale in New York State is provided by the Health Insurance Plan of Greater New York."

Q. Does the plan really cover specialist care?

A. Only H.I.P. does a real job of covering specialist care. When it comes to today's vitally needed specialist services, other plans have expensive loopholes. Compare specialist coverage carefully. Note, for instance, that out-of-hospital specialist care — so important and so costly today — is never a "paid-in-full" benefit in cash allowance or major medical plans.

Q. Is the plan concerned with the quality of care?

A. H.I.P. is. But it is the only plan in the New York area that checks on the quality of care provided by its affiliated physicians. Every doctor in every H.I.P. Medical Group must be approved by a medical board of distinguished physicians before he can serve members of the Plan. H.I.P. doctors give only the kind of service for which they are professionally qualified.

Q. Can you continue with comprehensive benefits (home and office calls) if you leave your job before retirement?

A. Only H.I.P. permits this — with no strings attached. You need only be in H.I.P. for three months to be able to convert to a direct payment policy without loss of home and office coverage, regardless of your age.

The Democratic bill also provides for compulsory arbitration of all controversies concerning the labor contract, and it establishes a 90-day cooling off period in the event of an impasse over a new contract.

The Democratic sponsors of the measure, Senator Edward S. Len-ner of the Bronx and Assemblymen Frank W. Rosatti of Staten Island, called it a landmark in labor relations between government and employees.

Senator Lento declared: "With the passage of this bill, we will come to the end of strikes by public employees—because there will be no need for strikes."

Much of the impetus for the liberalization of the law came from the bitter month-long strike in January by Welfare Depart- ment workers in New York City; more than 3,000 workers were dismissed for striking, although they were rehired when the strike ended. The city agreed to hold off on penalties against striking workers until "it saw what action the Legislature and the Governor might take."
