In Finkelstein Foundation Contest:
Judges Near Selection
Of Top Ideas For $1,000
And Gold Medal Prizes

Selection of the top winner for a $1,000 prize in a contest that has attracted more than 3,000 public employees to submit ideas for making New York City a safer, happier place to live, was at the final stages as The Leader went to press last week.

The contest, created to contribute the creative thinking of public employees on all levels of government to Mayor John V. Lindsay, is being sponsored by the Jerry Pinkelstein Foundation, a fund created by the publisher of The Civil Service Leader for various philanthropic purposes.

In addition to the cash prize, the top winner and three runners-up will also receive gold medals that are to be presented by Mayor Lindsay at a special ceremony,tentatively set for Wednesday, June 29.

Out of the mountain of ideas sent in and now being reviewed by the contest judges, the winners were selected on Monday, June 21, at Leader press time. The winners and a full report on their contributions will appear in next week's issue of The Leader.

The contest, Mayor Lindsay said, is a group of such distinguished men that are performing the complex and difficult job of selecting the four winners of the challenge. Their names are: Mayor Lindsay, Dr. Timothy Costello, and former Administrators Dr. John B. Conklin, Maxwell Lehman, Judge Charles E. Tenney, Dr. Lytie Pitch, Charles P. Preusse and Dr. Luther Gulick.

All of the more than 3,000 ideas submitted in the contest will be presented to Mayor Lindsay.

Rensselaer CSEA Seeks Direct Negotiations On Pay And Work Conditions

TROY — The Rensselaer County Chapter of the Civil Service Employees Assn. has called on the County Board of Supervisors to realign its Civil Service Committee or to give the chapter an opportunity to negotiate to the board's budget and finance committees.

The actions of the board's negotiations with the chapter were in letters to Joseph L. Pierson, chairman of the board, and the chairman of the budget and finance committees, John F. Wall, and Edward D. Stanley, respectively. The letters were sent by Joseph Laberony, chairman of the CSEA chapter's salary committee.

Laberony said that although the chapter had raised the highest possible pay for the three-grade reallocation of titles in State service, "...our current title inadequately pays for the three-grade reallocation of titles in State service,"

Legislative Delay

ALBANY — Final action on a large number of Civil Service Employees Assn. bills was again delayed last week. The session, now the longest on record, is expected to winds up this week.

CSEA bills on which final action action is expected include the 10th retirement plan for county workers, a $2,000 death benefit after retirement and a new retirement plan for judges in which the cost would be based on a cost-of-living index.

After the Legislature adjourns, Nelson A. Rockefeller will have 30 days in which to sign or veto measures which he said on Monday would be based on a cost-of-living index.

The State currently is recruiting staff nurses at the second step of salary grade 10, or $5,545. Minimum salary in the staff nurse title, after five years of service is $6,279. Starting salary for the three-grade reallocation would be $6,300.

High Court Decision Due On D on Pensions
On Counselor Titles

The Court of Appeals, the State highest court, is expected to give its decision July 6 on a suit that will decide whether or not a new title proposed for the State Division of Employment—that of employment counselor—should be given to all employment interviewers.

Two lower courts have upheld a contention of the Civil Service Employees Assn. that the duties of the new title are the same as those of interviewers and senior interviewers but gives the counselor title, which is in a higher salary grade.

All arguments in the case were heard before a panel of Judges W. W. Althage, Jr., CSEA counsel. The suit was opposed by the State Department of Labor and the Board of Education, which contributes funds for 32 R of B salaries.

of this office. The general engineer, as this writing, is that the record should get Rockefeller the last majority of the civil service vote across the state.

In the nearly eight years he has been Governor, Rockefeller has placed heavy emphasis on the theme of bringing up State employee salaries as close as possible to their counterparts in private industry and this goal has been a very dear one to the hearts of rank and file civil service.

Because of another aim—the desire to put the State on a pay-as-you-go basis—Rockefeller did not make any big move in this area in 1959, his first year in office. He granted all State workers a salary increment of $200, whichever was greater.

The following year, he was still not prepared to grant any basically large pay hikes but when the Civil Service Employees Assn., which represents the majority of State office employees, came to him with a bold plan that would increase the take-home pay of all workers and bring a vast improvement in Retirement System benefits, he bought the idea immediately. This scheme became known as the 8-point plan. Under it, the State picked up the first five percentage points of an employee’s contributions to the Retirement System. The effect was two-fold. Because these payments were made by employees after taxes were deducted, the actual effect on their pay checks was approximately a five percent increase on their gross pay. Even more important, it paved the way for a wholly non-contributory Retirement System, now in effect since the other contribution points were picked up two years ago.

Rockefeller’s biggest move in the area of salary improvements came in 1961, when he ordered a private survey of wages in private and private industry and followed it with salary increases that ranged between five and 15% percent. He implemented this move across with a further five percent increase in 1962 and an eight percent increase this year. All this did not bring total parity between State and private salaries but it went a long way toward closing the gap.

Other Actions

The Governor also shortened the work week during these past years and did so without causing the majority of employees to suffer any pay cuts. In most areas of State employment he raised salaries incrementally and ordered wholesale salary upgradings in the mental hygiene and Correction Department. He pushed the first move toward solving the problem of unused sick leave on retirement by permitting such credits to be used to pay for health insurance premiums after retirement.

Rockefeller also made some historic actions in the field of insurance benefits. He increased the death benefits from one to two years’ salary and set a precedent by creating a survivors benefit that guaranteed at least 25% of basic wages for beneficiaries of persons who had been in service at least 90 days. This minimum protection was sorely needed. And, one of the most important bills he approved was elimination of the death-survivor in the State Retirement System.

For Local Employees

Rockefeller in legislation that local government employees a stronger merit system by limiting legislation that mandated minimum salaries and In political subdivisions. He helped raise the quality of welfare workers by by approving legislation that mandated minimum salaries and In general, approved other important benefits gained by State workers on a permanent basis for local governments. As a result of this, many political subdivisions were able to offer employees programs similar to those enjoyed by State workers. These include adoption of health insurance programs, the non-contributory retirement system and, for this year, the use of sick leave credits to pay health insurance premiums after retirement.

The Governor also supported bills that would guarantee State and private salaries but it went a long way toward closing the gap.

Buffalo Sewer Authority Rejects Union Bid For Recognition Over Threats

BUFFALO — A municipal agency here has reaffirmed a policy that “gives each and every employee the inherent right to choose his own representation in grievance matters.”

The agency is the Buffalo Sewer Authority which last week also granted a 2.5 percent pay increase, effective July 1, to 248 workers.

Leaders of the Buffalo Sewer Authority unit of Erie chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn., pointed out that the new pay hike, added to a seven percent boost in 1965, adds up to 10 percent increase over a two-year period.

Rejects Union Demands

In a development that could have long-range importance, the Authority officers turned down demands for an election to determine an exclusive bargaining agent for employees.

The Authority, led by Board Chairman Anthony J. Naples, turned down the demand for an election despite a strike threat last April. Local 1047, AFSCME.

Naples said the Board is under no legal obligation to bar union explicitly with a union.

“We prefer to follow the tradition and time-honored policy,” Naples said, “that gives each and every employee the inherent right to choose his own representation alone.”

“This grievance procedure has resulted in amiable and satisfactory relationships with the employees.”

The Board also extended hospitalization and medical benefits and saved to court inequities.

Albany — Alton G. Marshall, executive officer to Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller, will address more than 500 correctional workers on Tuesday, July 12, at St. Lawrence University, Canton, at a banquet of the 17th annual Frederick A. Moran Memorial Institute.

The facility and participants, and the establishment of the week-long Institute, July 10-15, will come not only from New York, but states and Canada, and will include representatives of law enforcement, preventive service, probation, social work, mental health, professional education, religion, police training, the judiciary, juvenile and adult Institutional care and treatment, and parole.

At the banquet, Dr. Foster S. Brown, president of St. Lawrence University, will introduce the group, Correction Commissioner Paul D. Mc Ginnis will introduce the speaker, and Dr. Jospeh J. Romoda, vice president of the university and dean of the college, will preside.

The Institute offers a variety of courses during two morning periods, a third morning period devoted to general sessions, and afternoon workshops and seminars.

The Institute is sponsored jointly by the University and State agencies dealing with delinquents and criminals—the Departments of Correction, Social Welfare and Mental Hygiene; the Division for Youth and the Department of Correction and Board of Parole—as well as the Department of Civil Service.

Marshall has been deputy secretary to Governor Rockefeller and executive officer since October 20, 1965. Prior to that he had been deputy director of the budget department since 1964.

The House recommendations on such matters are traditionally more liberal than what the Senate bill will find acceptable, but this year further pruning of the Senate bill has been conceded.

As Senate hearings were to go on, like a Warner Brothers retake of a grade B gangster picture of an earlier and simpler day, news reports became so replete with the timetable at least.

The House recommendations on such matters are traditionally more liberal than what the Senate bill will find acceptable, but this year further pruning of the Senate bill has been conceded.

And the Senate committee reported out its recommendations for Federal employee compensation revisions on May 26. With minor changes—a few blanks in the schedules—the Senate bill was exactly what the Senate ordered weeks earlier. The Administration was rumored to be unhappy with the across-the-board flat raises and one or two other aspects of the legislation but a Presidential veto seemed out of the question. Considering the comedowns from the hopes held by employee representatives based on Administration promises of last year, the pay settlement was actually a ringing victory for the White House.

The House then, still mindful of the last minute passage of the fiscal 1963 bill last year, passed the Senate version within five days after the May 26 reporting.

It went back to the Senate for final passage there and there it has been ever since. At present enthusiasm for passing the bill seems to be at a spectacular low ebb. The Senate schedule for the week of June 18 showed no allowance made for any official action on the bill.

The only reasonable assumption is to the cause of the delay.

State Nurses

New York State can practice some sensible preventive medicine right now in order to keep its corps of dedicated professional nurses on the job. To attract young nurses to State service at a position that is must be filled in the future by acting once at on salary reallocation for this vital profession. The Civil Service Employees Assn. has called on the State Administration for a minimum salary reallocation of at least three grades for all professional nurses in State service. Its arguments, mainly, are that the state is not underpaid, that the new demands on hospitals that Medicare is expected to cause will increase the need for more nurses, and that action is needed at the present to prevent the future. While nurses in the State service have not yet expressed an intention to prove their salary needs by a threatened walk-out, as nearly occurred in New York City, it is foolish to assume that this state of mind will prevail for any lengthy period of time.

Nursing is one of the noblest of professions and deserves to be nobly rewarded. Promotions

IT HAS long been the contention of Civil Service Commissions that promotional opportunities should be open to employees on a broad basis. The Civil Service Law, Section 52, provides, however, that vacancies must be filled through examination from among all employees in the class in which the vacancies occur. Moreover, the candidates must occupy positions in a direct line of promotion. If it is impracticable to limit eligibility for promotion to persons holding lower grade positions in the direct line of promotion, the statute empowers the Commission to extend eligibility to lower grades in related or collateral lines of promotion.

In the recent case of Vail v. Krane, Justice Pressly fully sustained the clear language of the Civil Service Law as against the contentions of the State Civil Service Commission that the promotion field should be freely broadened to assure the determination of the best qualified employees for advancement.

THE VALDES petitioners, holders of managerial titles in the Division of Employment of the Department of Labor, instituted an Article 78 proceeding to annul a determination of the State Civil Service Commission, that the fact re-employees in non-managerial positions to compete in an examination for certain higher positions. Such positions comprised Assistant Employment Security Superintendent (Grade 22) and Associate Employment Security Superintendent.

At the time the notices of examination were posted, the petitioners requested the Commission to eliminate certain titles from the promotion field. The Commission asserted that the eligibility of employees was limited to that of the title of Junior Employment Security Analyst (Grade 20) and Associate Employment Security Manager (Grade 1") and Associate Employment Security Supervisor (Grade 16) and Associate Employment Security Assistant (Grade 15) and Associate Employment Security Assistant (Grade 16) and

THE COURT observed that the Commission's contentions did not establish that it was improper to limit eligibility because of an insufficient number of candidates. Moreover, there is no justification under the statute for admitting employees to the promotion examination merely because their duties may be similar to the position sought. A clerk may have duties similar to a manager, but a stint of a minor nature will not qualify the clerk to jump several grades for purposes of participation in a promotional examination. Although there may be a semblance of similarity in the duties of the rank of positions held by the petitioners, the fact remains that the Commission did classify the positions into different titles and grades. The Court reasoned that if the duties and responsibilities of these positions are so dissimilar as to require different titles and grades, it is unreasonable of the Commission in the same breath to claim that the lower grades and titles are so like the higher ones that the distinction should be made as to eligibility for promotion.

WHILE SECTION 52 does not specify that the restriction be to employees in the "next" lower grade, the legislation is clear that going below the next lower grade is not permissible unless it is impracticable to restrict eligibility. As the Commission failed to establish such impracticability, the restriction held was arbitrary to extend the field of competition below titles in the next lower grade and beyond those in the direct line of promotion.

The PR Pattern

IT ISN'T often that civil service people get a chance to find out what is on the minds of the newsmen and whom they must deal. It isn't that newsmen are enemases; it is simply that too often they're in such a hurry, there's no time to find out.

• A good government information officer must be able to serve his boss, his government, county, the public and the press with equal dilgence.
• No public information office can rise above the quality of the sample hud.
• The public information officer who tries, "If to no great end result," is given 'A' to reflect, as with any group, there will always be a sour note. One reporter insisted he saw no evidence anywhere of any real concern for the public's "right to know" and the preservation of honest people.

ALL TOO frequently the one who plays this tune is the newsman who wants everything spoon-fed to him, Civil service people have met this type again and again. No matter what is done to help him, he still feels that all this service is his just due.

CIVIL SERVANTS assigned to help the press will achieve better public relations if they help this journalistic type just the correct distance. Then let him fend for himself. That's what he's being paid for.

If you only have room for an old-style 12 cubic foot refrigerator, buy a new Slim-Wall 18 cubic foot Westinghouse.

We've slimmed down the walls of our refrigerators with a new kind of foam insulation. And put the bigness where you need it—inside! You actually get 50 percent more food storage space than old-fashioned refrigerators without foam insulation. The big 18 cubic foot models pictured here can fit into the same 33" wide space as a 12 cubic foot old refrigerator.

All the features you want. Seven-Day Meat Keeper. Its special temperature zone lets you store a week's supply of meat without freezing. Automatic Ice Maker. Automatically keeps making ice cubes as you use them. Adjustable Shelves. They snap-in for every kind of convenient food arrangement. Frost-Free. In both the fresh food section and the big capacity freezers.

Take your choice of three new 18 cubic foot models. Freezer on top or freezer on the bottom! Even a smartly styled French Door Continental. You will be surprised how low the prices start. See them today and find out all the things your old refrigerator won't do.

Police Cadets Exam For D.C.

Walk-in tests for positions as police cadets are being given by the United States Civil Service Commission. Following a training period and when the cadet reaches the age of 21, they are promised to the regular Washington, D.C. Police Force.

Applicants must pass the same test as candidates for the regular police force.

Tests are given in Washington and for further information, interested persons can contact the U.S. Civil Service Commission, 100 E Street NW, Washington, D.C.

REMEMBER. A 36-year old firefighter was killed recently while fighting a false alarm.

U.S. News

(Continued from Page 4) is that the President is still exerting pressure to win a later effective date by the pay raise. Official excuses for the lag refer largely to the pressure of business interests in Congress but in the past few weeks there have been more-in-less unofficial hints of "early returns."

There is no doubt that the White House is very serious about keeping a tight rein on budgeting procedures this year and the Administration spokesmen have been very forceful about a Jan. 1, 1967 effective date right from the beginning. Neither the House or the Senate gave much consideration to the later effective date, however.

In any case the Senate begins a two-week recess this week and if the bill is not passed before then, a compromise effective date of October 1 may become the final decision in this Congressional session.

Only people really think the Senate has the minute hand that makes the hour hand move.

Capital Conference Returns Costa And Entire Slate To Office; Feily Cited For Dedication To Association

LAKE LUZERNE — A. Victor Costa of the Workmen’s Compensation Board has been re-elected president of the Capital District Conference, Civil Service Employees Assn. Costa and the incumbent slate of officers were returned to office during the annual meeting of the conference at the Hidden Valley Dude Ranch, here.

Some 200 delegates and guests attended the annual affair which included three days of workshops and meetings. Principal speaker at the workshop on “Employee-Management Relationship” — theme of the meeting — was Henry Shearin of New York City.

Tracing the problems faced by employees in political subdivisions was A. Samuel Borell, assistant city engineer for the City of Utica and chairman of the Central Counties Workshop.

Following a presentation on the progress being made at the Saratoga Performing Arts Center, Costa presented Mrs. Anne Bedel, coordinator of the center with a check for $1,000 as the conference’s gift to the project. Also speaking about the project were Dwayne Lafferty, editor of the Albany Knickerbocker News and Lew Ulriche, builder of the center.

Peter Minch of the American Express Company described the Montreal World’s Fair — Expo, 67 — which will open next summer, and covered all phases of the exposition, including boats, available attractions and exhibits.

Guest speaker for the session on membership was Irving Flumenbaum, president of the Long Island Conference, CSEA. Warning against the passive attitude, he called for the adoption of a more militant attitude by members and urged members to strive for the designation of the CSEA as the sole bargaining agent for all State employees.

Elected with Costa were Max Benko, first vice president; Margaret Fleming, second vice president; Marion Farrelly, secretary and Edgar Trochle, treasurer.

The officers were installed by CSEA president Joseph F. Foley, who was cited by the conference during the installation dinner which closed the session. Foley was presented with a plaque noting his dedication to the cause. (Continued on Page 15)

DISCUSSION — The problems facing Conference officers were discussed during the annual meeting of the Capital District Conference, Civil Service Employees Assn. Left to right: are: Irving Flumenbaum, president of the Long Island Conference; A. Victor Costa, president of the Capital District Conference; Emnet; J. Durr, past president and executive officer of the Central Conference and Vernon Tapper, second vice president, of the State Association.

More than 110 members and guests attended the chapter’s dinner June 18 in Hotel Yates. The chapter’s membership includes more than 1,200 members among employees of the State College of Forestry at Syracuse University, the Upstate Medical Center and Syracuse Psychiatric Hospital.

Honored at the dinner was Albert Bregard, a former president of the chapter, who is retiring after 34 years of service with the State. He is a principal clerk at the Psychiatric Hospital.

Guests included Theodore Wendt, first CSEA State vice president, and Mrs. Clara Boone, president of the Central Conference.

WELCOME — A. Victor Costa, right, president of the Capital District Conference, Civil Service Employees Assn., greets State CSEA president Joseph F. Foley and Mrs. Foley at the annual installation dinner-dance of the conference at the Hidden Valley Dude Ranch, Lake Luzerne. Foley was honored during the dinner with a plaque describing his dedication to the cause of public employees in New York State and political subdivisions.

SYRACUSE State University Chapter Installs Officers

SYRACUSE — Mrs. Kemsie Witthoeft has been elected to her second two-year term as president of the Syracuse State University chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn.

Elected with her were two new vice presidents of the chapter, James Boilenice and Donald Owen. Mrs. Hazel Flanzer was elected secretary and Albert Sabounti, treasurer.

Results of the election were announced at the chapter’s annual dinner where Randolph Jacobs, chairman of the CSEA grievance committee, warned chapter members against infiltration of state institutions by unions who would seek to take over bargaining from CSEA units.

Jacobs, who is also president of CSEA’s Metro Conference, told the Syracuse dinner, “They are coming — be prepared for them.”

He said that, not only would unions seek to take over bargaining, but they would seek to take credit for many benefits gained for civil service employees through efforts of CSEA units.

Irving Flaumenbaum Installed
As President Of L.I. Conference

HUNTINGTON — Irving Flaumenbaum, of Freeport, president of the Nassau County chapter, Civil Service Employees Association, was installed as president of the Long Island Conference, CSEA, at the Hunting- ton Town House recently.

Flaumenbaum promised to make the Nassau-Suffolk chapter, which numbers 3,500 of the State's 146,000 members, into a militant and aggressive body in fighting to solidify the police force applicants, to extend and increase our membership, to get more support from the State government on behalf of civil service employees.

NEW PRESIDENT — Roger Chitt, chairman of the Long Island Conference, Civil Service Employees Assn., dinner-dance, shares the spotlight with the new and old officers during the annual installation banquet recently. Left to right, are: Arthur Miller, past president; Chitt, and Irving Flaumenbaum, newly installed president.

"It has sharpened our thinking on the exercise of pressure on public officials. We intend to march on, to reward our friends by staunch support and to hold that same support from those to whom we must consider as being against us."

Flaumenbaum said: "But now, new forces are being arrayed in the field of municipal employees in the Nassau-Suffolk Counties. These are not forces being guided by volunteer workers but are hard labor organizations in a power drive. They are invading our counties, more concurred in getting money from dues, than in advancing public employees claims or protecting the public rights."

"The tactics they are employing would fragmentize municipal employees into small groups to make them more easy to influence, to persuade and actually to victimize." He said.

"Despite these men, we fully intend to extend and increase our pressure on State and County officials that a change in the Interests of civil service employees, we must consider as being against us."

"The bold and brazen onslaught which they have started and which they will intensify cannot be met successfully by the hitherto mild Civil Service Employees Assn."

"Tonight it is my responsibility to notify State employees and County officials that a change in conditions may be forced, upon us by predatory, professional labor organizers. This I now do."

of public employees in New York State.

Mary Hart, social chairman of the conference, was presented with the conference's annual award for outstanding service during the year. She was selected after a panel of the public relations board and the executive board met to discuss the matter.

Guests at the conference workshop also included Emmett Dunn, executive officer of the National Civil Service League; Julian C. Melton, of the National Association of Public Employees; Pauline Pitchpatrick, first vice-president; Charles Lamb, third vice-president; William Roussier, fourth vice-president; and John H. Neumann, treasurer; Joseph Looch, CSEA executive secretary; Paul Kier, editor of The Leader; and Deid representatives Jack Corcoran and Arnold Moses.

Beacon Mayor Urges Cased Residence Policy

BERKLEY — Beacon Mayor Walter J. Forbush has requested City Council members to approve an ordinance setting residency requirements for city police force applicants. The mayor explained the ordinance would serve to bring the force up to full complement.

"About 65 applicants took the tests and were hired as police officers by the Beacon police," the mayor said.

"After the physical and written examinations were completed, 40 of these were eliminated, none of the remainder being from Beacon. In order to get the force up to full complement, the radius needs to be extended."

Frank Otwell Receives Public Relations Award

ALBANY — Frank H. Otwell, the man in charge of publicizing the state's tax revolt program, was honored for the first annual award of the New York State Government Public Relations Society.

The award, a plaque, was presented by State Tax Commissioner Joseph Wilson at the Society's annual meeting in the Petit Paris Restaurant.

Robert Longo of the State Department of Health, association president, said the award was established to honor the State employee who has done the most outstanding work in winning public understanding and acceptance of a State program.

Otwell, director of public relations for the State Department of Taxation and Finance, was nominated by Deputy Commissioner Norman Gelman, who said Otwell's state tax public relations program was a "superb" job.

Three Capital District news executives received the "Outstanding Work in Public Relations" award.

They were: J. Leland Christensen, news editor of WGY and WRGB; Robert J. Sweeney, editor of The Knickerbocker News; and E. M. O'Brien, Albany Times Union, chief for Capital News Service.

Gelman, who was public relations director during his term in office, said the award was "given himself for many years before his promotion, and the campaign for the most massive public information programs that the Tax Department and other agencies have carried on", he said.

Besides presenting Otwell with the award, Gelman said, "the Public Relations Association paid for his lunch at the State's expense."

Rochester State Hospital Honors Mrs. Hadden As Psychiatric Aide

ROCHESTER — Mrs. Winfred Hadden was honored as Rochester State Hospital's Public Relations personality of the year during the annual dinner dance of the hospital's Civil Service Employees Assn. chapter recently.

Mrs. Hadden, a staff aide at the 3,500-patient hospital, has worked there for 20 years.

The annual dinner dance to the hospital's CSEA chapter during the past year was given to Jacqueline Moore and Gardner Mindtfield.

Thomas C. W. Kenne, first vice-president of CSEA, installed the following officers:

Attorney General Gild Hudson River Hospital

POUGHKEEPSIE—State Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz has complimented Hudson River State Hospital staff members and employees on "the clean appearance and pleasant atmosphere which prevails at this hospital during its five-year construction program." He added that the hospital's staff is "a superb" one.

Lefkowitz said he was impressed by the courtesy of attendants and the general cleanliness of the hospital.

In his talk to the employees, Lefkowitz reviewed some aspects of the Civil Service Law and efforts being made by the State government on behalf of civil service employees.
