Levitt Announces Cost-Of-Living Retirement Pay

State Comptroller Arthur Levitt announced last week that the schedule of supplemental allowance to paid nonemployees under the newly-adopted "cost-of-living" provisions.

Reaction by officials of the Civil Service Employees Assn. to the announcement indicate that the CSEA was generally pleased with the new structure in view of the Association's efforts to bring about such an adjustment in the State Retirement system. Joseph F. Feily, CSEA president, said, "it is gratifying to see the implementation of this particular piece of legislation which was in the forefront of CSEA efforts during the last legislative session."

Final payments of the new benefit schedule will be made in late October. The law enacted by the 1967 Legislature, will expire Sept. 30, 1968, unless extended.

"The new schedule is significant," Comptroller Levitt commented, "because they emphasize the State's acceptance of the principle that retired persons should be automatically guarded to the fullest extent possible against the harmful impact of price inflation. I intend to continue my efforts to make such protection a permanent part of the State's retirement benefits." Under the law, the supplements apply to the first $7,000 a year of pension income. The law, which was enacted prior to 1932, or where long-service pensioners receive very small allowances, prior provisions of the law will continue in effect to prevent any loss of benefit to the Comptroller's fund.

The cost of living addition to the pension reflects the increase in the average monthly Consumer Price Index from the year of retirement to 1966. A rise of 2 per cent must occur before the benefit is paid.

Suffolk CSEA-Exclusive Bargaining In Patchogue

PATCHOGUE—Scoring a new breakthrough, the Suffolk chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn. last week won its first exclusive-recognition agreement in a village.

The Patchogue Village voted unanimously to recognize the new village unit of CSEA, which has close to 100 percent membership among the village's more than 40 employees.

Robert Weller, chapter president, said negotiations and agreements are being pressed with other units of government, including town, looking toward immediate recognition of the civil servants' traditional representatives—CSEA. "This is the first time we have come to grips with this union in any thing more real than their pufff-up statements to the press, and the reality that CSEA is the civil servants' traditional representative—CSEA. This is the first time we have come to grips with this union in any thing more real than their pufff-up statements to the press, and the reality that CSEA is the civil

CSEA Request On Health Plan Open Period Granted—Is Clarified

ALBANY—Clarification and benefits in the current CSEA's State employees has Civil Service.

The Employees Assn. expressed general satisfaction with the memorandum's definition of eligibility standards, particularly in regard to retired employees, but noted that certain questions still remained unanswered.

"For example," a CSEA spokes- man pointed out, "it is still not clear as to whether an employee can switch from one option to another during the open period—or whether a married couple, both employed by the State, and employed through a subscriber and dependent contract, could each transfer to individual contracts during the open period."

According to the spokesman, CSEA will seek additional information to clarify these and other points.

The State Civil Service Department's petition, filed under the aegis of the Civil Service Employees Assn. chapter president for over 14 years and Arnold Moses, Long Island second vice president, explained the open enrollment period is reprinted below.

"As you know, recent legislation approved by Governor Rockefeller provides that the State shall pay the full cost of individual coverage under the Statewide Plan for its employees and retirees. To enable those who are eligible to receive benefits under this legislation, Mrs. Ersa Poston, president of the Civil Service Commission, has designated the period June 1, 1967 through October 31, 1967 as an open enrollment period. During this open enrollment period, employees and post-retirees of the State and participating agencies who failed to enroll themselves and/or their eligible dependents on first enrollment will be permitted to do so without proof of insurability."

Nassau CSEA Chapter's Probation Unit Wins Employee Reinstatement

MINDLA—The Probation Department unit of the Nassau chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn., has won reinstatement of an investigator who had been fired improperly and opened negotiations on a demand for higher salaries.

According to Frank J. Divney, unit president, a Supreme Court ruling restored to his post Emanuel Trottner, an investigator in the accounts division who had been dismissed in January. The unit protested, and regional attorney Richard Oska carried the case before Supreme Court Justice Frank A. Gulotta. Gulotta ruled that the procedures required under civil service law had not been observed and restored Trottner with back pay effective July 1.

Meanwhile, a protest to the county board of supervisors brought a pledge of study of salary levels in the Probation Department and a guarantee that any adjustments will be retroactive to July 1. Chapter president Irving Flaumenbaum spoke for the unit at the board meeting, urging immediate adoption of salary levels equal to those prevailing in New York City. Negotiations on the issue have been scheduled.

Broome Co. Will Put Off CSEA Bargaining Recognition Until Sept.

BINGHAMTON—Broome County officials intend to wait until Sept. 1 before setting on a request to name the Civil Service Employees Assn. sole bargaining agent for the county's 1,200 workers.

Although several other bargaining areas, County Attorney Justin J. Flannigan has advised the Board of Supervisors here to withhold action until the so-called Taylor law becomes effective Sept. 1. Edwin L. Crawford, board chairman, said he was concerned that if the County stated "permanently" its action might be challenged by some other employee group.

The board chairman added that he felt confident CSEA would be named bargaining agent for most County workers, since the County chapter contains a majority of the Broome employees.

Crawford said he would ask the employees committee of the board, headed by Earle D. Rife, to make a study and by Sept. 6 recommend procedures to be followed in collective bargaining with County workers.

John E. Herrick, CSEA chapter president, said he was disappointed by Flannigan's opinion. He pointed out that St. Lawrence County officials already have designated their CSEA chapters as bargaining agents.

Flannigan said in a letter to the board, said it was his opinion that it would not be proper for the Board of Supervisors to take any action recognizing any group as the employees' organization authorized for this purpose (bargaining agent) prior to Sept. 1.

More Policemen

ROCHESTER—The Police Bureau is boosting the Police Bureau's authorized strength to a record 562 men by appointing 10 more officers.

Transfer of $62,000 in continuing funds to the Department of Public Safety to expand the force was unanimously approved by the city council. The action was recommended by city manager Seymour Silver.

The Police Bureau's present complement of 562 was filled this week with the appointment of 41 recruits from a newly established Civil Service list of 64 men. The recruits were sworn in Monday. Silver noted that the continuing fund in his new budget for the year starting September provides for additional policemen.

He said the appointment of 10 more officers "will be accompanied, as in the past few years, by additional moves of uniformed men from inside jobs to field duty, with civilian replacements added.

School Boilers Could Be Dangerous

Nassau Chap. Backs 24-Hour Supervision

MINDLA—Strong support for proposed safety legislation requiring 24-hour-a-day supervision of high pressure boilers was voiced recently by Irving Flaumenbaum, president of the Nassau chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn.

Flaumenbaum testified at hearings before the State Labor Department's Board of Standards and Appeals June 29 and later wrote in a letter to the board:

"We represent employees in schools throughout the Nassau County and, in addition, we feel we represent the children in these schools. For these reasons, we feel this proposed amendment saves one life or keeps one child from being injured, then any monetary cost will be inconsequential."

Flaumenbaum told the board that some opposition was coming from persons "with vested rights who seem to be more interested in the profitability factor rather than the safety factor."

Among protests lodged at the hearings were statements of opposition from Long Island school board representatives, who said the average school district up to $600,000 a year in additional education costs and $1,200 for additional police manning, which would make such requirements cost prohibitive.

"Obviously, the school board is not in the business of being social engineers," the Nassau chapter's president is quoted as saying.

"The Nassau chapter, Civil Service Employees Assn., will continue its fight for the passage of the proposed new boilers bill."

WHEN ASPIRING DOESN'T SEEM TO HELP...

Luckily, many ailments are self-curing.

But when it's something more serious, you want to be able to call the doctor—without worrying about whether you can afford to pay his bill.

That's one worry they can forget when you're enrolled in GHI. As a Civil Service Worker, the basic coverage you get offers a wide range of benefits, including home and office calls, and paid-in-full benefits from GHI participating doctors. (Continued from Page 1) men and women who feel that the public trough, contributing little or nothing to the public good, it requires only a minute's thought as to what would happen to our community if public employees took a day off to resist how unfair such attitudes. More than any other employed group, the government employee is government working to make things better for everyone. It is around tax time that the public notion becomes most pertinent.

"Cut Payrolls legislators are often pressed upon their constituents to keep budgets down, thereby keeping taxes to an absolute minimum. The united forces, they are quick to acknowledge, must be maintained to protect them from the ravages of crime and fire. But, the others, they conclude, serve little useful function.

A Typical Day

But, let us take a typical day in the life of John Q. Taxpayers. He arises every morning to the ringing of an alarm clock, operated by the city's electricity, which is regulated by the Federal Power Commission as well as other City agencies and private utilities. Perhaps he has a clock radio which wakes him to music. If so, this music is piped over the airwaves from a radio station licensed by the Federal Communications Commission.

That there is water available for him to wash and shave is the responsibility of the water district in which he lives or, in the case of New York City, there are two agencies watching this, the Board of Water Supply which cares for the reservoirs and the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity which supplies the pipes and distribution facilities. The Federal Government is now working towards making additional water supplies available through chemical treatment in order to provide the precious fluid to arid areas in the western part of the nation.

Safety

The breakfast he eats has been inspected by Health Department inspectors to prevent foul poisioning or spoilage. He then catches the bus to his office. The route the bus takes has been approved by either the City Franchise Bureau or the State Public Service Commission. The bus itself has been put through a rigid test designed with the safety of the passengers in mind.

The traffic signal regulating traffic flow and assuring safe passage for the bus has been installed and maintained by either the City Department of Transportation or the State Department of Public Works. The road itself was installed and kept up as a result of contracts of the various highway departments.

When he arrives at the office, he finds the elevator to the desired floor. This could be a dangerous ride unless the elevator has been inspected by the Building Department and certified as safe in its safety and safety devices. The telephone he uses has been installed and maintained by the Federal Communications Commission and the rules were set by the FCC after public hearings.

Public Authorities

On his way home, Mr. Taxpayer may take the railroad or subway system. The subway system is operated by a public authority and staffed by public employees, in the same manner as a railroad, too, may be operated by a public corporation such as the Port Authority Trans-Hudson Corp., or the Metropolitan Com- mutual Transportation Authority.

The MCTA was set up recently to operate commuter trains on the unprofitable Long Island Railroad; it will, in the near future, drop the word commuter from its title and operate facilities of the Transit Authority; Triborough Bridge and Tunnel Authority; Manhattan and Bronx Surface Operating Authority and the South Brooklyn Railroad. Negotiations are also under way to take over the commuter services of the New Haven Rail-
Bully, Bully

The work-stoppage by the Social Service Employees Union has proven to be anything but a success, but it should not in its failure be molded by the City to fit the proportions of a major disaster for the Union and its members.

It has become evident that the work stoppage is a very unpopular one in the eyes of the citizens of the City as well as in the ranks of the city administration. Much of the blame for this could be laid to the newspaper and television coverage of the action which made little attempt at balance and made no effort to explain the reasons why workers on the picket lines and allowed little expression of the potentially positive nature of the substitute work procedures inaugurated by the SSEU at the work centers during the disruption.

In an age of three-minute capsule television reports and limited newspaper coverage in favor of journalistic, if a colorful enough smoke-screen of rhetoric is laid down by the actred-against principles it is very likely that the public will never know what is going on or more important, why.

It is then opposition by seemingly rational men against an action which is most easily responded to as another tiresome something-in. An unbearable combination these days for a rout.

However, be they right or wrong in their opposition to the demands of the SSEU, the hard line of the City in the last week to the refugees from their picket line in the City is clearly in excess of the demands to power now necessary. Its public hand slapping of the SSEU tarnishes for any-one who would dare to give it some thought the credibility of the Administration which purports to consider grievances of its members. Power and leverage, this disconnect is not reflected and their actions seemingly vulgarize it, are not for any Administration which purports to consider grievances of its members.

However, observed that it is unreasonable to require a candidate to file appeals from examination ratings. The Court, however, was not impressed with this argument for continuity of that handicap.

THE COURT, however, was not impressed with this argument for continuity of that handicap. Nor does it necessarily follow that furnishing to a candidate a candidate a handi-cap that should not have been imposed is no argument for continuity of that handicap.

THE REASONABLE choice inflicted upon a candidate is not unfair because the procedure is honorary with age. As the Court said: "The procedure is reasonable, it does not become less arbitrary with age. The fact that some appellees have managed successes, we perceive a handicap that should not have been imposed is no argument for continuity of that handicap."

THE RESPONSIBILITY rested to their favorite standby argument: "The Court of Appeals earlier held that the right to inspect the rating schedule upon which their training and experience were evaluated."

THE RESPONSIBLE for the perfection of the standard answers unquestionably impaired her right of appeal, as the Court of Appeals earlier held in the leading Andersen case, the results of an examination should be "so stated that the applicant may be able to check the conclusions by some objective evidence." Only in the case of an examination to be according to standards making the competition fair to all candidates. In accord with the Andersen case, the Appellate Division, in the prior case of Gassner v. Board of Examiners of the City of New York, held that the right to inspect the rating schedule upon which their training and experience were evaluated.

Before the afternoon’s election meeting, New Rochelle’s mayor, Alvin R. 90 Percent CSEA Enrollment in Union

BINGHAMTON — More than 90 percent of the employees of the Town of Union have signed up as members of the Civil Service Employees Assn. The CSEA group has been growing steadily for the past 14 months under the leadership of Benjamin Roberts, CSEA field representative, and a number of town employees who are working to strengthen the organization.

One of the major benefits obtained by CSEA efforts has been the securing of town approval of the non-contributory 1/60th retirement plan. Workers have fully paid retirement benefits with a guarantee of 1/60th of final average salary multiplied by the number of years of service.

Roberts, on his latest regular visit to the town, met with Supervisor Robert M. Kroop to ask the town’s recognition of CSEA as the bargaining agent. The request is expected to be approved.

The Town of Union CSEA-enumerated 90 percent of the members in a chapter. Roberts said it is likely that Broome County’s CSEA chapter soon will be asked to sponsor the Union group as a unit of the chapter.

CSEA Says State Thruway Auth. Violates Rules In Work Changes

ALBANY—The Civil Service Employees Assn. has accused the State Thruway Authority of proposing changes in work conditions directly to its employees, in violation of Thruway policy which accords employees representatives the right to prior review of such proposals.

The protest was triggered, according to CSEA President Joseph F. Feltis recent letter to R. Burdell Bidny, Thruway Authority chairman, by the authority's failure to provide CSEA with an advance opportunity to study proposals, including compensation for work on holidays and "check out" duties for toll collectors and other employees.

Feltis contends that copies of a Thruway memorandum setting forth alternative proposals were sent to employees for their approval at the same time they were sent to the Employees Association.

According to Feltis, the memorandum revealed, "to our dismay, that all toll collectors, radio dispatchers and supervisors were sent the bulletin summarizing, in great detail, Proposal 1 and Proposal 2. Further, a self-addressed envelope and a ballot were sent to each affected employee asking them to select a preference and to return it on or before July 7." Feltis said that he approved the material on June 28, and it is assumed that all employees received the material on the same date. Before he ever had an opportunity to review the proposals and communicate with our members, many of the employees had already submitted their preferences to the
