Wenzl Says Top Mental Hygiene Officials Have Share Of Blame In Death Of Hospital Attendant

Theodore C. Wenzl, president of the 210,000-member Civil Service Employees Assn., has issued a highly critical statement aimed directly at top officials in the department of Mental Hygiene, after learning of the death of a Central Islip State Hospital attendant following an attack by one of the institution's mental patients.

According to witnesses, the attendant, Peter Cavallaro, while exercising routine supervision in a dining room, attempted to intervene in a dispute between two patients and was injured when one of the two hurled a chair at him.

Wenzl said, "This tragic death is a sorrowful example of what inadequate and unsatisfactory treatment of labor resources can do. Mental Hygiene has long been operating at dangerously understaffed levels because of a lack of necessary funds to properly maintain the administration and does what has become a strictly custodial care situation."

"Recent reorganization of the State's Mental Hygiene law puts an even greater burden on our employees and the administration refuses to set minimums as to how ward personnel are to control, treat and manage dangerous patients. We have an obvious conflict between what the law says and what the department expects. Somehow, along the chain of departmental command someone has to make a decision and inform our employees or we'll have mayhem," Wenzl declared.

According to reports Wenzl says he received, there were only three attendants rather than the usual four or five in the dining room at the time that Cavallaro was killed. The incident is being investigated by the civil authorities.

Monroe CSEA Victorious On Parking Fee Battle

(From Leader Correspondent)

ROCHESTER — The Civil Service Employees Assn.'s Monroe County chapter has won the first arbitration case it ever required.

For 2,200 Monroe County employees at the hospital and health-social services complexes on Westfield Road, it means they will continue to enjoy free parking because of the CSEA's victory.

Martin B. Koening, chapter president, said the decision by arbitrator Irving Flaimenbaum on June 8 prevents Monroe County from charging employees for parking at the complex.

"This is the landmark decision because if the county had won the case, it probably would have put a $1 monthly fee and a $10 monthly fee for employees who work at the complex. It was to have gone into effect June 15," Koening said.

On April 29, 1973, the retirement of Captain Raymond W. Gimmler, Jr., took place. He became a lieutenant in May, 1958, and captain in January, 1963.

Ray Gimmler served in the Central Labor Council and the N.Y.S. AFL-CIO, he was a member of the board of the UPOA as captain's representative. He was elected President of the UPOA in 1967.

It had been said that Ray, as head of the UPOA, had never been shown upon him, number 24 and would require this entire column to print. However, it would be a sin of omission by the editor if he failed to say that he makes his home in a modest cottage they call "The Nook". Ray, for years been the voice of reason, the vote of confidence, has decided to step down from his position as the head of the UPOA.

Statute of Limitations

The case of Foran v. Murphy recently decided by the New York County Supreme Court provides insight and an excellent example of the meaning and application of the "Statute of Limitations" contained in Section 17 of the Civil Service Law. Section 75(4) of the Civil Service Law provides: "Notwithstanding any other provision of law, no removal or suspension or other disciplinary proceeding brought more than three years after the occurrence of the alleged incompetency or misconduct complained of and described in the charges provided, however, that such limitation shall not apply unless the claim for relief is based upon incompetency or misconduct complained of and described in the charges would, if proved in a court of appropriate jurisdiction, constitute a crime."

In this case, a police captain brought an Article 78 proceeding to annul a finding of guilt and to vacate a forfeiture of 30 days' pay directed by the Commissioner of Police in New York City. He had been found guilty after a departmental hearing of lying during an official Police Department investigation.

THE EVIDENCE at the departmental hearing concerned insulation which allegedly took place in 1966. Subsequently, in 1971, after Foran had testified before the Knapp Commission to the same effect as he had testified at the departmental hearings and before the Grand Jury, the Police Department initiated an administrative investigation which resulted in a charge dated May 29, 1972, in which it was specified that Foran had committed perjury.

In the Article 78 proceeding, Foran did not challenge the sufficiency of the evidence produced at the departmental trial. He argued, however, that the statute of limitations, which was charged are barred by Section 75(4) of the Civil Service Law. He also argued that the penalty imposed was excessive. In addition, the court pointed out that it was the false testimony given in 1971, and not the 1966 incident which formed the basis for the charges and specifications against the petitioner. The respondents, however, did not raise the issue of statute of limitations. They argued instead, and according to the court correctly, that the act complained of would if proved constitute the crime of perjury, and therefore, the three-year statute of limitations contained in Section 75(4) is inapplicable to this case.

THE PETITIONER'S argument that the charge against him could not be criminal in nature because the Grand Jury had failed to return an indictment is without merit. The issue is not whether a crime has in fact been proved, but whether the acts alleged, if proved, constitute the crime of perjury. The argument by Foran that the Grand Jury's failure to return an indictment is a conclusive and decisive fact is not persuasive. For an indictment to be sustained by the court, it was recently decided by the appellate division.

The failure to indict... means at most that the Grand Jury did not discharge its duties, and it is not sufficient to warrant a finding of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, in that they affirmatively found that the petitioner had not committed the acts he was accused of. In a disciplinary proceeding it is not necessary for respondent to find the accused's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt; it is sufficient if respondent finds the specifications established by a fair preponderance of the evidence. The evidence here, however, does not preclude a subsequent determination of guilt in a disciplinary proceeding..." Foran v. Murphy, 342 N.Y.2d p.4

Merit System Victory

THE State Civil Service Commission wisely has rejected a request from New York City to round off scores in civil service examinations and drop the fractional rating system that has always been in use. This is an extremely important victory, both in the maintenance of the Merit System in both the City and the State.

It comes as no surprise, of course, that Deputy Mayor Edward K. Hamilton should react bitterly to the decision, but he fails to realize that the issue is far too beyond belief.

He claims that "no objectionist would maintain that the officers of General Motors or of Xerox or of The New York Times are overpaid, but his statement on the issue is faulty beyond belief."

This is a typical simplistic approach to changing the promotion methods in public employment, because what the Deputy Mayor did not include in his statement is the fact that top officials in the private employment sector are not subject to personnel from politics.

No promotional system is perfect but, to date, no one has come up with a better method of insuring that top-graded civil servants will be free from the spoils system other than by earning their jobs through fitness and merit.

Questions and Answers

Q. I mistakenly sent a Request for Medicare Payment Form to the wrong insurance carrier. Should I send a duplicate request to the right carrier for this area?

A. No, the office that receives your request for payment form will forward it to the correct carrier. You'll save time in the future by calling your carrier for payment to the appropriate address. You'll find the address listed in your "Medicare Handbook," or you can call any social security office.

Q. I'm 35 and divorced. I had to stop work recently because of illness. I have multiple sclerosis. Even though my ex-husband pays some support for one of our children, can I still apply for monthly disability benefits?

A. Yes. If you are found eligible for disability benefits, your children's costs are covered even though their father contributes to their support.

Q. I'm 55 and I've been supporting my younger brother and sister, 13, since my parents died 4 years ago. Since I recently became disabled, I plan to apply for monthly disability benefits. If I am eligible for checks, will I be able to get monthly checks on my earnings records?

A. Social security doesn't provide payments to a worker's brothers and sisters. But your brother and sister might be able to get monthly payments on your parent's social security records. You should get in touch with any social security office as soon as possible to find out if they are eligible.

Q. I know that social security contributions went up this past year. But I have not c...
Letters To The Editor

To The Editor:

I took the police administrative exam in April, 1971, but at that time I was unprepared to resign from my job. I decided then to call in a year later: November, 1972.

Is there any way in which I could get back on the list without taking the exam over since I am not prepared to leave my present position?

Constantine N. Hatzis

Editor's note: No. Your particular list was exhausted at the end of May, 1973, and police administrative aides are currently being selected from the 2,456-name eligible list resulting from exam 2225, established March 21, 1973. You will have to take the next police administrative aide exam to be eligible for appointment since you cannot be restored to a list resulting from an exam you didn't take. (At present, there is no new exam scheduled.) If, however, your list were still operative, you would be able to contact the certification division of the Dept. of Personnel in room 225, 33 Thomas St., Manhattan, and they would restore you to the end of the list from which you originally declined appointment. In that case, you would have to state the exam number and your position on the list.
