Retiring Myksania Names Only 12 Juniors; Customary Order Of Tapping Is Reversed

Upsetting all expectations, the retiring officers of Phi Kappa Pi, the renowned honor society, have named only 12 of the 24 members of the incoming senior class for membership in the society. This is a reversal of the usual practice, in which 24 members are named and then tapped in alphabetical order. This action by the retiring officers has caused a great deal of comment among members of the society, who have been divided over the matter and have expressed strong opinions both in favor of and against the move.

The retiring officers have justified their action, saying that it is in the best interests of the society to have a smaller number of members and that the Tap Day ceremony should be more meaningful. They have also pointed out that the large number of members makes it difficult to maintain the high standards of scholarship and good conduct that are expected of members of Phi Kappa Pi.

However, many members of the society have expressed disappointment at the change, saying that it takes away some of the excitement of Tap Day. They have also noted that the smaller number of members may make it more difficult to maintain the high standards of the society.

Despite the controversy, the decision of the retiring officers stands, and the Tap Day ceremony will be held as usual, with the 12 named members being tapped in alphabetical order.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

BY AL. BUDWICK

One of the most important subjects under discussion in the affairs of state is the possibility of increasing the power and influence of the state government. The governor has called a special session of the legislature to consider this matter, and it is expected that a bill will be introduced to this effect.

The governor has stated that he believes that the state government should have more power to protect the interests of the citizens and to improve the lot of the people. He has also said that he hopes that the legislature will act wisely and that the bill will be passed.

The bill is expected to receive a good deal of attention and will probably be discussed at length in both the House and Senate. It is hoped that the bill will be passed and that it will be signed into law by the governor.

The bill would give the state government the power to impose new taxes and to increase existing taxes, and it would also give the state government the power to make laws in certain areas that are now governed by federal law.

The bill is expected to be controversial, and there are sure to be many arguments on both sides of the question. However, it is hoped that the legislature will act in the best interests of the citizens and that the bill will be passed.

The governor has expressed confidence that the bill will be passed, and he has said that he believes that it is in the best interests of the state to have more power in the hands of the state government. He has also said that he hopes that the legislature will act wisely and that the bill will be passed.

It was a pitcher’s battle from the very start. Both managers were keeping what hits they were well scattered. Hamilton scored first with a fine single on a fast throw, but it was on a base hit, but two runners on a single, and went to second on a single to center field for his second win for the season. Both moundsmen were keeping what hits there were well scattered.

The boys came back to the winning column in the Hamilton game with a bang. The team gave Allan good support and it was a well earned victory.

The biggest out of the year was this game, which happened to be the third game between the two teams. The disastrous defeat of Clay Norman, helped Al Shinn to secure the victory. A few days later, the Hamilton team was defeated by the St. Lawrence men in Syracuse.
