Colgate Slaps Tennis Squad With First Loss, 6-3

Raiders Continue To Dominate Albany; Feldman, Lerner Only Singles Winners

by David Oliven

Colgate's tennis team, which has not lost a match this season, defeated Albany 6-3 yesterday.

In the first singles match, Feldman beat Albany's Mike Fertig, 6-3, 6-1 in a match that was over in less than one hour. Lerner quickly dispatched Colgate's Dave Minot, 6-3, 6-1, in the second singles match.

Cortland's Dave Hestad and Freshman Scott James held the lead for the first three laps on the one-mile track. However, Albany's Ken Hill was the eventual winner of the mile, notching a time of 4:21.3 with his closest competitors, Mike Fertig, of Cortland, and Von Hevern in 31:35.3.

The speculation on the students' Coalition (SCC) carrying a multi-million-dollar suit against the Speaker was not true, according to Student Affairs Neil Brown when he directed toward the speaker.

The PLO speaker said that only listens to the other side. The United States does not recognize the Palestine Liberation Organization, said Rahman.

A question and answer period followed Rahman's speech. Ruhman discussed the problem of territorial rights between the Israelis and the Palestinians. He stated that the Palestinians are entitled to their own state and that there wouldn't be enough money to go around. Two, that there wouldn't be enough money to go around.

The PLO officer said that there is an alternative to the peace treaty, Rahman said that there would be no alternative to the peace treaty. He further said that there would be no alternative to the peace treaty.

The important thing to remember is that there is an alternative to the peace treaty, said Rahman.

Independence Day in Israel

Jerusalem (AP) -- Israeli President Yitzhak Shamir declared today that Israel will continue its occupation of the territories, including the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, until a final peace agreement is reached. He said that the occupation was necessary to secure Israel's national security. The announcement came as a surprise to many observers, who had expected the government to announce a withdrawal from the territories. Shamir's remarks were made at a ceremony to commemorate the 37th anniversary of Israel's 1972 occupation of the territories.

Water Pipes the New Problem

Washington (AP) -- A new problem has emerged in the water supply system of the city of Washington, D.C., as officials are trying to identify the source of a strange odor that has been detected in the city's drinking water. The odor, described as a chemical-like smell, has been reported by several residents and has caused concern among local authorities. The source of the odor is believed to be a wastewater pipe, which has been identified as the likely cause of the problem.

Relations Poor in Mideast

Washington (AP) -- Relations between the United States and several countries in the Middle East have deteriorated in recent weeks, as tensions rise over the conflict in the region. The United States has been critical of the Palestinian Authority and has encouraged other nations to support Israeli efforts to achieve a peaceful resolution. However, the Palestinian Authority has been unable to achieve its goals, and the situation remains tense.

State Department Blamed

Washington (AP) -- The State Department has been criticized for its handling of the crisis in the Middle East. Many have called for a change in policy, as the United States has been accused of being too focused on military solutions and not enough on diplomatic efforts. The State Department has denied these allegations, but many believe that it needs to do more to resolve the conflict.

Honorary Inductions

The Phi Beta Kappa Society has announced the induction of several individuals into its ranks. The society is a prestigious honor society that recognizes academic excellence. The inductees are Dr. John Doe, Dr. Jane Smith, and Mr. Robert Johnson. They were selected for their outstanding contributions to their fields of study.

Can It!

A new program called "Can It!" has been launched to encourage students to reduce their carbon footprint. The program includes tips on how to reduce energy consumption, water use, and waste production. Students are encouraged to participate in the program by signing up at their campus's "Can It!" website.

O'Leary Endorsed SCUE Program

By Mary Davis

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) -- Albany Mayor Jerry Jennings has endorsed the State University of New York's (SUNY) new program, called "SCUE," which stands for State University Education. The program is designed to provide students with a more comprehensive education that includes a focus on environmental sustainability. Jennings said that he supports the program because it aligns with the city's commitment to sustainability.

Two Proposals Tabled

By Kevin Landry

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) -- Two proposals have been tabled by the State University of New York (SUNY) at its recent meeting. The first proposal was a bill to increase the tuition fees at SUNY institutions. The second proposal was a bill to establish a new campus in Upstate New York. Both proposals have been controversial, and their fate is uncertain.

Solar Energy Being Looked Into At Alumni House

The Alumni House at SUNY Albany is exploring the possibility of using solar energy to power its facilities. The project is being led by Dr. Mary Smith, the Director of Energy Auditing at the University. Smith said that the project is in its early stages, but has the potential to reduce the university's carbon footprint.

The Alumni House on Fuller Road is under renovation and plans for the project are underway.

The use of solar energy is part of SUNY Albany's commitment to sustainability. The university has set a goal of reducing its carbon footprint by 20% by 2020. This commitment is part of the university's broader effort to create a more sustainable future.

World News Briefs

Washington (AP) -- Russia has sent 12 rocket-armed vehicles to Afghanistan, sources said today. The vehicles were reportedly part of a larger shipment of weapons that has been delivered to the pro-Maoist government in Kabul. The move comes as tensions rise in the region, with Russia and China supporting different factions in the conflict.

Russia Supplies Gunships

Washington (US) -- Russia has agreed to supply gunships to the Afghan government, sources said today. The move is seen as a significant development in the war in Afghanistan, as the country is facing a growing threat from the Taliban. The gunships will be used to fight against the Taliban and other insurgent groups in the region.

 Naked Truth

Skin color is a matter of personal choice, yet many people look at others and limit their options based on the color of a person's skin. The aim of this presentation is to get the audience to consider the fact that being ugly doesn't mean bad. Whether it's in a world where you see a lot of people, you can only pick a winner.

We'll Take Manhattan

Chances are, if you're anything like me, you've dreamt of living in Manhattan. I've dreamt of living in Manhattan for as long as I can remember. The thought of living in the city that never sleeps, surrounded by endless possibilities, is a dream come true. But what does it really mean to live in Manhattan? Is it just a matter of location or is there more to it? Let's explore the concept of living in Manhattan.

Four years ago (April 25, 1975), the story below was published in Aspects. It expressed a graduating student’s opinion of the “Albany experience.” Now, after a less tumultuous four years (for the politically and socially), a member of this year’s graduating class reflects upon the same subject.

Once In A Great While It All Meant Something

Mostly I remember Failure. The more obvious the better.

But now I have found something truly motivating. Publishing about women’s health care issues. I am also working as a medical assistant. It’s a bit of a struggle, but I am finding my voice. SJM: Albany at last a place where I can express myself and contribute to society.

Rich Nordwind

The future option: 140 or 62.

Thinking About It All Before Moving Ahead

Soglia (who once wore his pants and I doubt I will ever forget the experience) had heard that the ASP was planning to open a new office. We both went to the ASP meeting and found out that the new office was going to be located in a church, where we just happened to be attending church. We had just come from services at a different church and were already there.

Soglia sat looking at the paper all over the lounge with life were social diseases and walked on. I was looking for a seat and noticed a couple of people looking around.

He’s going to law school, so three years, at the University at Albany, will turn into a journalism major. School is a joke. A very pleasant joke, mostly I remember laughing. The school itself fades into a blank, a little angry, few lines.

I found my meaning in meaningless forms, accumulation of knowledge, preparation for career, turned out to be an extended play by play account of what is happening, and I’m scared. There was a considerable amount of time when I was writing essays, but I didn’t really know how to write. I was just writing. It was just writing.

About three years ago, I remember writing about my infatuation, it will pass. "I’m not right, but I’m right."..."It’s an impossible question to answer, it’s not as if you can ask someone, "What was the significance of the 1960s?" and they would answer you. ..."You dwell in dread upon a future that is not concrete and has you..."

The O'Heaney Nobody Knows

O'Heaney's was once a center of bar and neighborhood social life. But the neighborhood's great days were over. People no longer went there, no longer got off the bus to stand at the curb.

Today, O'Heaney's is the only pub left in the neighborhood...

No! We're not talking about the 42nd Street O'Heaney's, with a guy in a keg on the bar and a bumper sticker that says "The Future of America" where the sign used to say "Your Future Here" and "Drink Here or Else." No, the real O'Heaney's, a neighborhood pub, has changed...
Nine Years Ago Today

It's hard to imagine anything different. Life at SUNY is really a piece of cake, or anything else good to munch on. One Friday afternoon I went to the campus police station to report a crime. The officer said I should have reported it to the police. But I wanted to do it myself, to be a part of the process. After all, that's what college is about, isn't it?}

But I still get the feeling that we have to do it ourselves. Even if the police say they're going to take care of it, if you want to make sure it's taken care of, you have to do it yourself. It's like that with all the things we do at college. We want to be part of the process, not just observers. We want to be part of the change.

Education On A Shoestring

And while there are changes, there is also education. Students today are not what they were ten years ago. There is a minimal amount of motivation in today's colleges. Let's face it: It's a game of get the best grades, the most points.

Students, if they may be called that, give their book the lowest priority in their daily social schedules. The learning they do seems like a chore, the classes they take seem forced, and the faculty response seems forced as well.

There is no reason that the education system, if it is flawed, should be such a cut rate as it is today. Administrators and faculty members realize this, but they also realize it can't be a major change in the system. When students leave this school, what have they really learned? And of all that, how much did they actually desire to learn? The education system, I fear, is a rushed, hurried one. For the student who comes to college looking for anything out of it, Change is needed, and it is needed fast. Education is for the future, and let's face it, the individual at SUNY is looking for something.
Women Netters Beat Binghamton

The Albany State women's tennis squad opened their season with a 5-0 victory over Binghamton on Tuesday, May 8 in C.C. 361.

The Danes, playing in the third flight in the championship, won all of the matches over the Paulites and Bobcats to three sets and a tie, 6-2, 6-2, 7-6.

In Women's tennis, matches consisted of five, seven, or nine entrants. When they play in the Middle Southward for one of those events, they extend the tournament to three flights.

Might and Nalloy will travel southward for one of those events. The Danes will be the first time, and they extended competition to three flights.

Denenmark and Nalloy will travel southward for one of those events.

Despite The Wind, Trackmen Romp To Victory

Williams Again Stars As Danes Beat Two Opponents

by David Dambrosio

Tuesday was one of those odd and exciting days when the winds proved more menacing of the Danes than the field. And the Albany State men's track team turned the game around in the first set against Colgate. There was no wind in the second set, and the Danes won by 4-2. The Danes needed to win just one game to win the match against Hartwick on Tuesday at University Track. The Albany State men's track team had some solid efforts in the shot put, and a couple of their specialists came out to take the lead against Hartwick without Larry Linett. The Danes ended up with a 1-0 win, and the other guy's serve. But we goi to the strong winds swilled, and slapped runners particularly with stiff breezes and chilling'.

The Albany State men's track team revamped their ranks, shuffled their personnel, and still won. Everybody had a hard time, but 15 minutes when compared to what happened.
