Biographical History

Michael A. Mello (1957-2008) was an internationally recognized authority on the death penalty and capital punishment issues. He graduated from the University of Virginia, School of Law in 1982. From 1982-1983, he worked as a law clerk for Judge Robert S. Vance of the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh District where his principal responsibility included working on many of the capital cases for which the judge was assigned. From 1983-1985, he worked as an assistant public defender for the Capital Appeals Division of the Office of the Florida Public Defender where he was lead counsel in three capital cases and active co-counsel in ten others as well as providing tactical and strategic assistance to pro bono attorneys, developing systemic strategies, lobbying, and testifying before the Florida Legislature. From 1985-1986, Mello worked for the Office of the Capital Collateral Representative for the State of Florida, a first-of-its-kind state agency charged with representing all indigent inmates on Florida's death row whose sentences had been affirmed by the Florida Supreme Court and who had been denied executive clemency by the governor. Though he left his position at the Capital Collateral Representative in 1986, he remained on friendly terms with the organization where he provided advice and took the occasional case until 1995 when he cut off ties with the organization. From 1988 until his death in November 2008, Michael Mello was a professor of law at Vermont Law School where he taught courses on criminal law, constitutional criminal procedure, the legal profession, and a capital punishment seminar.

Michael Mello served as counsel or informal advisor to many significant cases, including Joseph Robert Crazy Joe Spaziano, Theodore Kaczynski, Theodore Bundy, Rolando Cruz, Alvin Ford, Stephen Todd Booker, and Robert Straight. He also served as counsel for the American Bar Association, National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, National Legal Aid and Defender Association, American Jewish Congress, American Jewish Committee, and others.

Arrangement

This series is organized alphabetically by publication.

Scope and Contents

This series contains drafts of Mellos various publications, correspondence concerning those publications, copies of newspaper and magazine articles by or about Michael Mello, and advertising and publicity related to his publications. Michael Mello published 6 books, as well as numerous book chapters, journal and newspaper articles, many of which covered similar topics and themes.

Researchers should note that the original arrangement of this series was minimal. Many of Michael Mellos publications cover similar topics or were revised and used for different publication types. For instance, a book chapter may be a revised version of a previously published journal articles. When possible the archivist has titled the folder to reflect which publication for which the document refers, however, this was not always possible.
