Preferred Citation

Preferred citation for this material is as follows:

Identification of specific item, series, box, folder, School of Business Records, 1937-2003. M.E. Grenander Department of Special Collections and Archives, University Libraries, University at Albany, State University of New York (hereafter referred to as the School of Business Records).

Historical Note

The School of Business was created in 1964 as a successor to the former Department of Business Education to provide analytical training for students interested in careers in business and in business education. In 1973, it became the first school to be accredited by the AACSB (Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business) at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Scope and Contents

Includes policy documentation; admissions statistics; student work; course exams; MBA proposals; reports and budgets; materials from various research centers overseen by the School of Business; correspondence and reports from the Somalia Management Training and Development Project (SOMTAD); and minutes of faculty meetings. Also includes annual reports from the Commerce Department of the New York State College for Teachers. Selected photographs of faculty and students from the School of Business from the University Archives Photograph Collection are available for viewing online from the University at Albany Libraries' Digital Collections database. This collection also includes VHS recordings of the television program Business Matters, 2001-2003, which was hosted by Richard Highfield, Dean of the School of Business.

Arrangement of the Collection

The collection is unprocessed and is likely disorganized. Individual items may be difficult to find.
