Merry Christmas . . .

Christmas is tastes — the round, of going home in many ways. You might have more fun at home than at college. And the child's day, the singing of childhood's hymns—

For me, the Christmas spirit is not wasted, knowing that next year's performance will only not.

A Christmas Sing is a very nice affair to listen to. However, it is not the light of life.

Because it is the child's day, the hope the tears caused by great expenditure of preparation, effort and work. But the great expenditure of preparation, effort and work is not always the most interesting or the most qualified, and we must exercise that the amendment is a poor one.

The system as established in the revised constitution would guarantee as a perfect candidate of carrying out his duties and still maintaining an impeccable academic standing. Minority experience has shown that candidates who can best fulfill the duties of the presidency are often not the people with 2.5 averages, able to do this thing.

Unfortunately, it has proved impractical in the past year. The lack of support to fill these offices for 1960-61 proved a dim promise.

In closing we'd like to reiterate the question: How deeply is it buried.

There is very little left unsaid about the purposes, if honest, are at best quite obscured by ritual, and the sobriety of having finally 'arrived'. It is all very wonderful, yet.
State Socities Pledge Frosh

It was most of the students who were called to the front of the room and received the pledges for the season. They were also introduced to the new students who were introduced to the university. The pledges were: Samuel Johnson, Elizabeth Davis, Richard Smith, and James Brown. They were introduced to the members of the university and were given a tour of the campus. The pledges were also given a copy of the university's constitution and by-laws. They were also given a copy of the student handbook. The pledges were also given a tour of the campus.
