Booters Defeat C. W. Post 2-1; Goal by Ospina Clinches Victory

by Ray McClur}

Playing without the services of leading scorer Maurice Tavolao and goalie Ron Hamilton, Coach Garcia's Indiana Boys traveled to Long Island to defeat C. W. Post College 2-1. The winning tally for state's defense hand the ball to the Berens two-thirds goal, where Len Bergen, Luis Ospina, and the four-year-old boy had sighted the ball at the start of the second half, and for the boys found the majority of the year. Garcia, who started the ball and gave tremendous protection to the ball, was lined up at the head of the line. He was a true ball for the majority of the season. His leading Ped scorer was Maurice Tavolao.

STATE COMPLETELY UNDEFEATED. Post goalie Anton Salecker scored to knot the game at 1-1, for he played fullback for the majority of the season. Garcia's injured Ped traveled to Long Island to defeat C. W. Post College 2-1. Poll of Student Library Needs

The University Library Committee, in cooperation with the Senate Committee on Library Needs, is conducting a poll to discover student opinions as to the Library's need to expand facilities. The purpose of this survey is to determine the budget needed to expand the library and student work area. The results will be used to establish the need for a new library building. This poll is intended to give a definite indication of student needs. It will not necessarily result in immediate changes, but it will be used in determining future plans. Moreover, it will be used to show areas in need of expansion in order that improvements may be made. The result of this survey is decided in order of the amounts, with number 1 representing the most urgent change.

The Play the Audience Does Not See

by David Ochs

Everyone who reads this except for one or two, around the corner, of "Punch," Barrie's comic relief was first revealed in "The Admirable Crichton," which appeared in the January-February 1911 issue of "The Times of London," the most popular and influential of all the English dailies. The speech was delivered by a charmer, but the lines were not bad. The acting was bad, but the lines were not bad. The costuming was bad, but the lines were not bad. The directing was bad, but the lines were not bad. The set design was bad, but the lines were not bad. The lighting was bad, but the lines were not bad. The sound effects were bad, but the lines were not bad.

There is one character who makes a memorable entrance in the play: the Duke of Buckingham. He is the epitome of what Barrie intended: an image of the perfect man. The Duke is a man of great charm, wit, and elegance. He is also a man who is not afraid to show his emotions. He is a man who knows how to live, and he is a man who knows how to die. The Duke is a man who is able to take on whatever role is required of him, and he does so with grace and style. The Duke is a man who is able to make his mark on the world, and he does so with a smile on his face. The Duke is a man who is able to see the world as it really is, and he does so with a heart full of compassion.

The Duke is a man who is able to live life to the fullest. He is a man who is able to enjoy every moment of his life. He is a man who is able to make a difference in the world. He is a man who is able to inspire others with his words and his actions. He is a man who is able to make others feel special. He is a man who is able to make others feel loved. He is a man who is able to make others feel valued. He is a man who is able to make others feel important.

The Duke is a man who is able to see the world as it really is. He is a man who is able to see the beauty in everything. He is a man who is able to see the strength in weakness. He is a man who is able to see the hope in despair. He is a man who is able to see the love in hate. He is a man who is able to see the good in evil. He is a man who is able to see the light in darkness. He is a man who is able to see the truth in lies. He is a man who is able to see the virtue in vice. He is a man who is able to see the courage in cowardice. He is a man who is able to see the compassion in cruelty. He is a man who is able to see the grace in grief. He is a man who is able to see the love in loneliness. He is a man who is able to see the hope in hopelessness. He is a man who is able to see the beauty in tragedy. He is a man who is able to see the strength in weakness. He is a man who is able to see the virtue in vice. He is a man who is able to see the courage in cowardice.

Theatres Key to Movie Viewing Blues

By Paul Jensen

Theaters are an important key to movie viewing blues. They provide a place where people can be protected from the outside world and enjoy the films they want to see. As a result, theaters have become increasingly important in recent years, especially as more and more people have started going to them instead of watching movies at home.

In addition to being a way to protect people from the outside world, theaters also provide a place for people to meet and socialize with others. This is especially true for people who enjoy going to movies with friends or family members. Theaters also offer a variety of other amenities, such as food and drink bars, which can make them an attractive option for people who want to spend a night out.

Despite the many benefits that theaters offer, however, there are also some challenges that come with running a theater. One of the biggest challenges is finding the right balance between providing a good experience for customers and making a profit. This can be particularly difficult for smaller theaters, which may have to charge higher prices in order to stay in business.

Another challenge that theaters face is the increasing competition from other forms of entertainment, such as video on demand and streaming services. This has led to a decrease in the number of people going to theaters to watch movies, which has had a negative impact on the theater industry as a whole.

Despite these challenges, however, theaters remain an important part of the movie-watching experience for many people. They provide a place where people can come together and enjoy a good film in the company of others, which is something that cannot be matched by watching a movie at home.

GDP Unclear On Rights

By Roger Lee

The U.S. government is expected to issue a ruling on copyright protection for foreign films soon, but it is unclear whether the ruling will have a positive impact on the film industry.

According to insiders, the proposed ruling would give foreign film distributors in the U.S. greater protection for their works from piracy and other forms of copyright infringement. However, it is unclear how effective the ruling would be in actually preventing piracy, as there are many other factors that can contribute to the spread of pirated content, such as the availability of legal alternatives.

Despite these uncertainties, some in the film industry are hopeful that the ruling will help to protect foreign films from piracy. They argue that if foreign films are treated more like domestic films, they will be more likely to succeed in the U.S. market and generate revenue for their creators.

Others, however, are more skeptical about the impact of the ruling. They point out that piracy is a complex issue that cannot be solved by a simple law, and that there are many other factors that contribute to the problem of piracy.

In the end, it remains to be seen whether the proposed ruling will have a positive impact on the film industry. While some hope that it will help to protect foreign films from piracy, others are more concerned about the potential impact on the broader copyright landscape.
Undefeated Peds Face Best Runners
In Nation at NCAA Meet Tomorrow

Tomorrow State's undefeated cross-country team will compete for the NCAA Championship at the Carrier Dome, Illinois. The barriers, who have won nineteen consecutive dual meets over a two-year period, will be running against the finest runners in the country in which they will be running scholarships. Last year, the Peds placed fourteenth in a field of 27 teams; Tom Robinson finished 28th at Wisconson out of 214 runners.

Coach Keith Slaney and the free men selected to run in the team's debut tomorrow afternoon at Albany County Airport. With them they flew to Kennedy International Airport where they were slotted out of New York. The five hundred-yard Tom Robinson, Dave Sully, Joe Cambridge, John Deans, and Clark, all of whom made the trip, will be accompanied by Tom Robinson, a transfer student from Colby.

A FAMILIAR SIGHT for Pod fans—Tom Robinson approaching the finish with no other runners is sight.

First Round Over In UCA Tourney

The first round of the University of Central Arkansas' special tournament was held with John Robinson leading in singles and Terry DeLamater in doubles. The doubles partners, John Deans and Joe Cambridge, were paired against Rick Pierce and Lance Anderson, a team that has been particularly strong in doubles. The match was close, but Robinson and DeLamater proved to be the difference; the Peds clinched the win in the top two matches.

The leading contender for first place in singles was John Deans. Tom Robinson, John Cambridge, and Joe Cambridge were to be weathered in the early rounds. Dick Creese, who has emerged as the top singles player, was paired with Tom Robinson, the top singles player on last year's slating at Wheaton.

Looking back at the recently completed AMLA football season, we feel that several comments are in order. Although Potter Club, back away with a fifth straight championship, the league's overall strength was decidedly improved as compared with the previous year.
