Boaters Trip Stony Brook, 4-2

Despite the talent of their own all-stars, the Albany Hot Boaters had to get a break to beat Stony Brook. A late afternoon home run by Stony Brook's Wiley could not get the in the way of the Albany's offense. The game lasted nine innings, but Albany was able to pull out the win. The game ended in a 4-2 victory for Albany.

An ASP Interview
Bernie Boggs
In Hills Field

"I work in a room and get paid hourly by the work." Bernie Boggs, a resident of Albany, was interviewed about his job at Hills Field. Bernie has been working at Hills Field for three years and enjoys his job because he gets to be around people and work outside. The work is physical but he finds it rewarding. He hopes to continue working there for many years to come.

Munseymen Overpower 16 Teams in Merrimack Harriers 8-2; Record Falls

by Jim Macate
In Potsdam with Pigkohl, the Panther's Panthers whipped their competitors with a strong showing in the cross-country meet. With a score of 17, the Harriers placed two of their men in first place. John Thayer, who as a freshman is one of the top five in the nation, and freshman fullback Evan Con had a strong showing. The Harriers won the meet over the Stony Brook offense.

Campus Thefts, Robberies Continue To Increase

Student Cooperation

It must be realized that these crimes were not committed by strangers because people reported the incident to the security office. It was possible that some of these students were connected to campus because victimized students may not be reporting the crimes.

Student's Report
I was walking home from school when I noticed a group of people walking towards me. I was scared and decided to walk faster. Suddenly, I heard a loud noise and felt something硬 something hit me. I fell to the ground and screamed for help. The group of people surrounded me and took my wallet. I was once again scared and decided to run faster. I reached home and called the police. I was relieved to find that the police were able to catch the group of people.

ISA Represents 56 Countries
by Audrey Sickman

"I do hope that the perspectives of international students will continue to be represented in the Senate," said Andrew Sargent, President of the University Student Assembly.

Students who have lived overseas for 2 years or more constitute 10% of the student body. This large number of students have a unique perspective and their voices should be heard in discussions about international issues.

The ISA has been formed for the benefit of international students at SUNYA. It was created in 1965 with 60 students. It was mainly a social club with a budget of about $150.00. In 1970, the club doubled in size, to $300.00, on the grounds that about 15% of the students were foreign students who paid no student tax, and the group didn't invest in the club.

According to Mr. Sargent, ISA students are primarily interested in the intradisciplinary aspects of the University and the State. Most of the students are concerned with the legal, economic, political, and cultural aspects of their lives in the United States.

The ISA's financial support is derived from student fees. During the first three years, it received an additional $900 in student funds. The ISA is currently seeking additional funding from the state and the university.

Venerable Day Protest Stirred Due to Rain
by Joan E. Soucek

Although there have been changes in the order in which the demonstrations are held, the most recent protest in Albany was held on Saturday, November 19, to protest the war in Southeast Asia.

Due to the rain, the protest was moved indoors to a church in the northern section of the city, and a smaller crowd attended. The protesters were more dispersed than in previous demonstrations.

The protest was sponsored by the Albany Student Association and the University Student Assembly. The purpose of the protest was to bring attention to the issues of peace and justice.

The protest was attended by a variety of groups, including the American Friends Service Committee, the National Lawyers Guild, and the United Farm Workers. The protesters were of various ages and backgrounds.

The protest was well-organized and peaceful. The protesters were able to express their views effectively and without resorting to violence.

The protest was a success in bringing attention to the issues of peace and justice. The protesters were able to express their views effectively and without resorting to violence. The protest was a success in bringing attention to the issues of peace and justice.
Any university is only as good as its library, and Albany State’s library is treated at times like an unappreciated stepchild. The coupling lack of funds everywhere contributes to the problem; money, it would appear, is not forthcoming.

Let us, however, allow fluorescent bulbs to rank some libraries. Albany State’s is bright, but poorly equipped, and it seems to me that there is reason to worry. The 1967 Encyclopedia Britannica, for example, is missing a third of its 22,000 volumes. Part of this is a万多故的chen, part of it ignoble; an encyclopedia volume is a large object and one wonders how it got put away. The supposed vigilante police at the front door, standing in the library turns out to be other students, not the library or the university as an institution.

Administration is the library’s other problem. Fixed with budget cuts and personnel changes, the library, it would seem, simply gave up. Every other department did this, we have no university left. A peer unibuild is in a one thing, a stupid one to quite another.

In a recent column in the Graduate Newsletter, Jim Weiman of the Library Council of the University states:

"We propose, for the sake of efficiency, of the university's right to an orderly, efficient, and=null library are not lightly, unless we can account, for new policies and permanent ones of present policies...".

Mr. Weiman seems to explain how certain operations affect us using the present policies of the university and our university. Is the university's right to an orderly, efficient, and=null library not lightly, unless we can account, for new policies and permanent ones of present policies..."

Towards Separatism
Or Community?

by Michael Lampert

As the final stage in the October meeting, the E.O.P. Student Association voted to approve the Student Association's appropriation of funds. However, some members of the Student Association feel that the appropriation is not adequate to support the E.O.P. Student Association.

The Student Association's appropriation is a move to support the Student Association. The Student Association has been working closely with the E.O.P. Student Association to ensure that the appropriation is sufficient to support the Student Association's needs.

Vote "No" On Bond Issue

by Jay Hawthorne

On Election Day, voters throughout the state will have the opportunity to vote on the Bond Issue. This is a crucial issue that should not be overlooked.

The Bond Issue is designed to support the University and its various projects. However, some members of the Student Association feel that the amount of money appropriated is not sufficient to support the University's needs.

Happy Halloween

by Jack Nicholson

Happy Halloween!
Two pages represent the efforts of five APS reporters. The issue is S-U grading and its implications for the student community. We have sought to present a broad view of S-U grading, as the issue is complex and involves the attitudes and opinions of numerous students and professors. The goal is to provide a balanced perspective on the issue.

In the Beginning...

By Carolle Goodrich

As the undergraduate Senate considered the Senate's final grading system, a task force was appointed to review the grading system. In May of 1975, the Senate and the University Senate's Council on Academic Affairs met to discuss the grading system. This meeting was attended by representatives from the Academic Senate, the University Senate, and the Undergraduate Academic Senate. The meeting was called by the Senate to discuss the grading system.

At the beginning of the Senate meeting, Mrs. Sadie C. H. Farber, the dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, presented the grading system. She explained that the Senate was concerned with the grading system because it affects the students' performance. The grading system was discussed by the Senate members, and they agreed to recommend changes to improve it.

Professors Speak Out On S-U Grading

Interviews by Carolle Goodrich, Valerie Mars, and Teresa Billings

Edward H. Sargent, Education

"There are always students who try hard, but don't get the grades they deserve. The grading system doesn't take into account the effort they put in."

Douglas Alexander, Romance Languages

"I believe that the system is fair, and that students are given the opportunity to improve their grades. I think that the system is effective in evaluating student performance."
GAY LIB GROUP FORMING

by Richard Roy

One of the dangers of continuing to exist in society is that one's gayness may be seen as part of a whole--a whole that may be more important to society than one's gayness itself. This can lead to situations where one's gayness is seen as something that must be hidden. One way to avoid this is to form a gay lib group, which can help to bring attention to the importance of one's gayness. This group can help to bring attention to the importance of one's gayness by making sure that one's gayness is visible and not hidden. This can be done by creating events and activities that bring attention to the importance of one's gayness, such as gay pride parades, gay rights rallies, and gay rights concerts. These events and activities can help to bring attention to the importance of one's gayness and to the importance of the gay lib group. By doing this, one's gayness can be seen as something that is important and not something that must be hidden. This can help to bring attention to the importance of the gay lib group and to the importance of one's gayness.

Hunsburger Named
A&S College Dean
by Steven Cohen

The search for a dean of the College of Arts and Science has been concluded by the appointment of Dr. J. Monse Hunsburger. The appointment was announced by the SUNY Board of Trustees on Wednesday.

Hunsburger is a highly respected and innovative scholar who holds on to his campaign promise to make SUNY a world leader in the field of Arts and Sciences.

Hunsburger believes that one of the key issues facing education is the need for a new paradigm of teaching. He sees the SUNY Arts and Sciences program as a leader in this paradigm shift.

Job Hunting Graduates Successful in Search
by Glenn MacNeil

Recent graduates of various departmental administrations have shown that SUNY graduates are well prepared for a variety of positions. The Department of Political Science has produced a number of graduates who have found success in both graduate school and positions in the political arena.

Among the graduates is a notable example of a SUNY graduate who has found success in both graduate school and a successful career in politics. This graduate, who requested anonymity, has been working in political campaigns and is currently serving as an advisor to a major political figure.

Another notable success story is that of a SUNY graduate who has found success in both graduate school and a career in the arts. This graduate, who also requested anonymity, has been working as a designer and has been featured in several major publications.

Despite the recession and resulting decline in job offerings, the outlook is excellent for SUNY graduates. Manyrecent graduates have found success in various fields, including politics, arts, and science.

Hunsburger recently named Frank Spinelli as the new dean of A&S. Spinelli, a long-time SUNY administrator, has been praised for his innovative approach to education and his commitment to the SUNY mission.

Spinelli has been a strong advocate for the arts and sciences, and has been instrumental in the recent expansion of the A&S program.

Spinelli's tenure as dean of A&S will be marked by a focus on innovation and collaboration, as well as a commitment to the SUNY mission.

The appointment of Hunsburger and Spinelli marks a new era for SUNY's arts and sciences program, and is a testament to the strength and success of SUNY graduates.
